Visualization and visualization of the Japanese uneven society are necessary.

What is lacking in Japan's sociology now is the need to visualize and visualize Japan's uneven society.

Expressions such as 3D images are required.

It is necessary to provide a multi-layered visual display of the network, the size of the power, the size of the wealth, the social status, the status of marriage, etc., blood relations, academic relations, and company relations.

It is necessary to be able to display unevenness not only in rural areas but also in large cities such as Tokyo.

Each of the villagers is represented by a circle, and the unevenness to which each villager belongs is displayed in an area.

It is necessary to indicate what position the villager occupies (center to periphery) in the unevenness.

It is necessary to display the seniority rank by age and the status of parent-child relationship (parent molecule).

The true cause of the declining birth rate in Japanese society
Take 1 Women's demand for male specs is too high

When men get married, women have better education, abilities and economics than they do when they get married, much as they try to find someone with lower specs that stays within their range. They tend to want to marry powerful men. This is a request from the female side, which requires that the female ability and range of activity be protected from outside by the male partner. To get out of and enclose a woman's abilities and range of activities, the other man's abilities, economics and range of activity must be wider and higher than that of the woman.

In this case, if a woman is highly capable, she seeks a man with higher abilities as a marriage partner, but the number of such men tends to be smaller. Therefore, as women develop their abilities and advance into society, ordinary men will no longer meet the target levels of marriage targets aimed at by women with higher abilities, making them unsatisfactory and unsatisfactory for women. In other words, they are no longer married and cannot be married. This is causing Japan's declining birthrate. Women can hardly find men with higher specifications than themselves, and many men cannot marry because they do not meet the specifications of women's marriage targets.

It is true that women's social advancement and capacity development based on the idea of gender equality in Japan have improved women's specifications, but as a result, women have higher specifications than their This has drastically reduced the number of men who are outside of themselves and willingly protect themselves and are considered suitable marriages for enclosing, resulting in women being unable to marry. This also has the consequence that the majority of men of the same or lower specification than women do not satisfy women's desire to be protected and enclosed, and therefore cannot be married to women and cannot be married. I have. The economic strength of young men may remain low, which has led to a declining birthrate in Japanese society.

The only way to solve this is for a few men with very high specs to take on polygamy to serve a large number of women, or for women to compromise on the abilities of the other men, or they will not work well. is not it.

What is the real cause of the declining birth rate in Japanese society?

The real cause of the declining birth rate in Japanese society is that the people in their 30s and 40s are now in the employment age of the ice age and have been losing stable and full-time employment. It is lacking, which makes it impossible to marry or have children, which can be attributed to the declining birthrate.

The solution is to expand the opportunities for stable employment and full-time recruitment for these ice age generations.

For that purpose, if you want to recruit full-time employees only by collective recruitment of new graduates, which existing government agencies and companies tend to have, or if people who are in their 30s to 40s without a full-time recruitment machine are treated the same as new graduates

It is necessary to suppress the mentality of not wanting to do because the seniority order in the company is not broken.

I think that it is necessary for some companies to pilot the introduction of permanent employees for the employment ice age generation as a model business and succeed.

The true cause of Japan's declining birthrate Take 3 Too much sexual behavior

Another real cause of the declining birthrate in Japanese society is the over-regulation of sexual behavior.

Needless to say, children cannot be born unless men and women have sex.

Before sex, sexual behavior between men and women is required, but if it is regulated, sex itself is avoided and children are not born.

Isn't the regulation of sexual behavior in Japanese society too restrictive? I feel that it is easier for children to have children who have a little more comfort.

Westernization of Japanese Society and Issues

Japanese society is aiming for Westernization.

Modernization in Japanese sociology = Western modernization.

There is a major premise that Japan rushes to Westernize as East China and South Korea to be regarded as rivals and rivals so that they do not have to be together.

China and South Korea remain unfriendly enemies for Japan.

Before the war, Japan has been terrible to China and South Korea, and has remained as it is.

In addition, there is fear of not knowing what will be retaliated when they are with China and South Korea.

Japan must cling to the declining United States and Europe, whatever. It is desperate for Westernization. He is desperate to win the Nobel Prize for his Western values.

There are two sides of the same coin to promote Westernization and dislike or ignore China and South Korea.

The introduction of the patriarchy is indispensable for the westernization of Japanese society = gasification.

Individualization and liberalization of society = gasification of society (nomadization) requires father's power, but in Japan it is weak.

Actually, the current Japanese society is still a liquid society (rice farmers) in which the mother's power is strong, such as collectivism and control.

My mother remains monopolized over the powers of household management and the education of children.

Japan is of the same quality as China and South Korea. It remains an uneven society.

Japan needs to differentiate itself from China and society.

For this reason, Japan is now trying to forcibly import the system of a strong society (Europe and the United States) into a society where the mother is strong.

Feminism is a typical example.

The current situation of women in Europe and the United States is that they have no authority to manage households or raise children and are merely lower-level housekeepers. In order to overcome this situation and become economically independent, women in Europe and the United States need to advance into society.

Women's advancement into society = an indicator of the westernization of society.

The current state of Japan is that in order for society to become westernized, feminism must be achieved for whatever.

Japan is nervous about how it can be successfully introduced = Westernization can be achieved.

For example, it is thought that Westernization was achieved by forcibly raising and appointing women to managerial positions.

There is a problem for Japanese men who prefer patriarchy.

Japanese men do not need to be patriarchal. Can't become a patriarch effectively.

Japanese men should be able to represent their families.

Japanese men should be able to become ATMs. I think it would be good if there was an economic presence.

Japanese men are heavily dependent on their families (women) and their organizations (company, government). Pattern L despite being male.

Japanese men

 I want to be loving my mother

 I want to spoil my wife instead of my mother

 I want to be a company

Japanese men want their wives to manage their households and raise children, and they want their wives and mothers to throw them all. I want my wife and mother to take care of me. Put yourself in the position of a child. She is a childish brat husband.

Japanese men oppose women's advancement in society (because the family's status as a pillar and the significance of its existence are at stake. They will not be able to take care of themselves.)

The strong dependence of Japanese men on domestic women has been a factor that has hindered the westernization of Japanese society.

It is difficult to Westernize Japanese society without breaking dependence on Japanese mothers and their mothers.

The solution is to create a public mother outside the home.

For example, when a woman enters the company, the company's boss can be made a woman so that she can trust her boss

It is a permanent permanent female psychological counselor. It is an extension of mom at the bar.

The westernization of Japanese society places a heavy burden on Japanese women.

Japanese women need to be a mother at home, becoming a manager of a company by following the European and American advances into society. Difficult to balance.

The parental leave period of a Japanese company is too short. It takes about 6 years. The company has too much employee monopoly (I think employees have to devote everything to the company).

Japanese women are forced to choose between abandoning their homes, raising their grandparents, raising children or dropping out of the company and retiring to become full-time housewives, who are the core of their families.

The busyness of Japanese women is causing the daycare centers to be full.

Therefore, the system to leave children at school is enhanced. Elementary school to high school, night education, and night classes. Teachers are rotated day and night. Dinner at school. Make school available for mom.

It is difficult for women to re-employ after raising children. This requires a change in corporate consciousness (for example, legislation to obligate women after childcare to become full-time employees).

It is necessary to consider a model of Japanese women's advancement that is not found in Europe and the United States.

There is a need to socially increase the presence of mothers.

It is necessary to introduce California agriculture to Japan, which will change Japan's uneven society (pattern G individualism, liberal rice cultivation).

There is California rice cultivation as patriarchal rice cultivation.

It is necessary to realize wide-area agricultural product cultivation by drones and qualify for drone driving and operation.

To solve the problems of rural areas, rural depopulation, and aging through wide-area farmland management.

Demolish the unevenness. Integrate the village and have everyone live in the center of town. Agriculture is left to a specialized company, and ex-farm settlements are used for other tasks. Or become an employee of an agricultural company and commute to farmland. Turn agricultural cooperatives into agricultural companies.

Prevent the revival of the large land ownership system.

Japanese company as a maternal male society

In Japan, the authority of education for children is almost monopolized by the mother until the child matures, so that women, even men, are strongly affected by maternity and their personality becomes feminine.

The male workplace of a company called the male society in Japan is full of feminine reconciliation, emotional faction fights, wet parental segregation, and it is from here that you can call it a real female society .

(January 2016)

No matter how much Japan imitates the West

No matter how much you imitate the United States and Europe, the reason why Japan and the United States are not the same is because of the strength of women, maternity, and maternity in Japanese society.

This is because the characteristics of liberalism and individualism are completely nullified by the pre-generated mutual restraintist and collectivist essence of Japanese society, even after imitating the West.

And the essence of such a mutual restraintist and collectivist Japanese society is created by Japanese women and mothers. Specifically, a strong sense of unity between mother and child is created during the child's growth process. As a result, the interpersonal relationship is applied to the interpersonal relationship with the general others, so the Japanese have become essentially a mutual restraint, collective, premised on a sense of unity. Any attempt to introduce Western and American liberalism and individualism later on will be invalidated.

In order to successfully introduce Western and American liberalism and individualism, it is necessary to break the bond between mothers and children and fathers must have paternity in advance.

(February 2016)

Genetically feminized? Japanese

It is thought that Japanese people have gradually lost their masculine genes and become genetically feminized in their long-term life as rice farmers. Freedom of personal behavior was not allowed, and individuals who took such actions were thoroughly beaten. In the process, it can be said that the masculine traits that were originally free were gradually weakened and became female traits.

(February 2016)

Is it possible to say that women without women's suffrage are weak?

Before the war, Japan did not have women's suffrage, but that does not indicate women's weakness.

It was a man who went to the election, but the man grew up in a sense of mother-child unity and was under the strong control of his mother, so in reality it was much the same as a mother = woman That seems to be the fact.

In fact, the men had been electing on behalf of their mothers.

(February 2016)

Japan and Europe are after all different types of society

Japan may still be the motto of catching up and overtaking Western societies, but it should be noticed that both sides are different types of society and one cannot catch up with the other.

Japan should rather look at the commonality with China, Korea and Russia.

If you write like this, Japanese sociologists who have come to the fore in Europe and the United States will have a total scandal. That is the limit of Japanese sociology.

(February 2016)

Japanese society not suitable for gender equality

Japanese society is fundamentally structured to reject both men and women working together.

Japanese organizations have become a form of slavery in which workers are required to serve the organization in a personalized manner.

Japanese organizations demand that workers spend all their time on the organization.

Japanese organizations are unwilling to let workers spend some time on childcare and housekeeping, or take time off for it. It is common to limit or disable as much as possible.

Therefore, childcare and housework must be supported by people who do not directly belong to the organization.

That is the traditional housewife.

A full-time husband is not allowed because women refuse.

Therefore, 100% of the workers are used up for the organization (become an organization person), and the support and the work outside the organization (child care, housework) are performed by collaborators outside the organization.

For this reason, one of the couple must be an organizational person and the other must be a professional supporter.

It is impossible for both couples to become organized people.

Therefore, gender equality will not be realized.

(February 2016)

New opinions are ignored in Japan

Japanese disregard and disregard the Japanese who give new opinions and opinions that have not yet been recognized in Europe and the United States.

He makes a fuss when he is recognized in Europe and the United States, and begins to praise him in a hurry.

(It looks like Koichi Tanaka who won the Nobel Prize.)

Status of wealthy in Japan

After all, isn't the high-ranking bureaucrat who is the servant of the emperor or higher?

It's great not to have to work.

A Japanese woman who holds a house wallet and a child tightly is the world's most evil.

The Japanese village society is a female society.

The Japanese are desperate to say that they are members of developed countries in Europe and the United States, and that China and South Korea are still emerging countries, but they should admit that their contents are not much different from those of China and South Korea in village society. I mean, I think I'm already overtaken by China and South Korea.

There are still a lot of fools in Japan who think that direct importation of Western sociological theories can overcome a feudal village society.

I think the reason that Japanese society is progressing more slowly than in the West is because they are more afraid of taking risks than in the West. Therefore, the latest discoveries and inventions must be imported from Europe and the United States. China and South Korea will have the same problem.

If you really want Japan to be a male society, you should take your house's wallet and children from women.

The housewife of Europe and the United States, in general, both the wallet and the child of the house are gripped by the husband, and it has become a mere lower-level housekeeper, and it is going to work, go into society, and try to revive, I think it is the origin of Western feminism.

Women's progress is slower than men's because women are more afraid of taking risks and responsibilities than men, which seems to be a lot of research.

I think that the backwardness of Japanese society is deeply related to the fact that women have the power in Japanese society.

I think the system of collective recruitment of new graduates by companies and government agencies in Japan is the cancer of Japanese society. It is a major factor in depriving Japanese society of personnel mobility.

If you want to ensure the mobility of personnel in Japanese society, you should ban students from finding employment while in school and have all graduates. Eliminate discrimination against graduates.

"In our company, in our section ...", all of Hokazaku are female. You're trapped in a girlish, closed, exclusive thinking.

If you don't belong somewhere, the Japanese will be worried.

The feminism from Europe and the United States, introduced by Chizuko Ueno and others in Japan, is a feminism created by women who struggle and struggle in Western societies where strong women have not yet been realized. If women really want to be a strong society, women and mothers with strong motherhood, such as Japan and Vietnam, should be examples of world feminism.

It is the guts of the Japanese that liberalism is important or desperately imitating the United States and groaning while freeters are stupid.

Japanese social quality is such that if you act freely on your own discretion and do something, it will not help you because you say that you are at your own risk. I wasn't willing to help from the beginning with the Japanese hostages in Islamic countries.

Bully Nation Japan. He is insensitive to the feelings of the bullied victim and tries to make sure he hasn't. become defiant. I think that the bullied China and South Korea will return to you insidiously. I mean, I'm afraid of the remorse from China and South Korea, so I'm rushing to Europe and the United States, saying, "Japan is a member of developed countries in Europe and the United States. Well, please join us. Japanese reality. It's easy to understand in the context of Prime Minister Abe's actions.

Europe and the United States are declining due to debt, and Japan is trying to get on that mud boat. Japan will sink together in Europe and the United States. And the Chinese era will come.

Today, Japan follows the intentions of the United States and Britain, and at the same time, is running on a nationalist principle with the aim of elevating the country. Two different attitudes are compatible. When Abe visited the Middle East, he gave a speech on financial support for the eradication of Islamic nations, lining up the Israeli and Japanese flags.

Japan is ostensibly Western-oriented and doesn't care or ignores the eyes of Japan in East Asia. However, Japan is, in fact, very sensitive to how China and South Korea view Japan. The Japanese are eagerly awaiting the news that the Chinese and Korean media are impressed with and respectfully treating Japan, and when they do, they are so pleased that they have defeated their parents' enemies. The complex that used to be "Small Japan" and was ridiculed by China and South Korea still continues. Prior to the defeat, the name "Dainippi Empire" was also referred to as "Japan's Empire", which is a rejuvenation to the name "Small Japan", and the same intention has continued in modern times.

Humans are weak to be criticized

Isn't Japan entering the age of learning from China again? It seems that China has completely caught up with me on the technical side and has been overtaken.

It is said that Japanese society has changed significantly after the Meiji Restoration and the defeat of the Pacific War, but I don't think so. It is still a village society and has not changed. When it comes to social change in Japan, it means a change while maintaining a village society. It is certain that if you show a pose of denying the village society and westernizing, it will look cool, but it is impossible at all. I think Japanese people need to calmly look back at the advantages and disadvantages of village societies, not blindly denying village societies. Doing so should lead to real social change that does not fall down.

There is no decisive difference between Japanese society and Chinese and Korean society. They are common in terms of agricultural ethnicity mainly in rice cultivation and upland cultivation. There are similar competitions, side by side.

It is a good idea to eliminate the recruitment of new graduates at the time of employment in Japan and to recruit all graduates. Eliminate university-specific employment sections and prohibit job hunting while attending school. All graduates should be looking for Hello Work. The Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology prepares a common academic test at the same level as the existing National Personnel Recruitment Examination for the National Personnel Authority, and allows all students to take it. It is good to be able to clearly show how much you have acquired.

Obscenity display charges should be eliminated. The genitals of men and women are ordinary body instruments that make every adult look stubborn. Therefore, it cannot be said that it is particularly serious. The display of AV videos and adult games should be modified.

To create the next generation of children, sex is needed, and both men and women need to be sexually satisfied. So, by preparing a public sex school and teaching and teaching sex techniques of lovers and couples until they improve through practical experience, people who have fun sex will increase and help solve the declining birthrate . You need a teacher who teaches sex skills. If you think you have a good technique, why not be able to apply for teacher recruitment? What if I made a textbook with reference to Koizumi's "Koizumi Study Book" and Song Migen's "A Really Comfortable Sex Taught by a Female Doctor"?

Humans are vulnerable to criticism. I desperately want to be affirmed. I want to know what the human nervous base is around here.

2Channels should run their own website before they say that they should not be reprinted. I feel that I just hire a full-time editor (or part-time job) who picks up each thread and publish the summary. That way you can crush other summary sites.

Japan is, after all, the American Pochi. In the near future, it will change from American Pochi to Chinese Pochi.

If female managers increase in the Japanese workplace, there is a concern that the workplace will become a female society. Do you think that the interpersonal relationship becomes more muddy, sticky, and netinectic?

In Japan, both regular and non-regular employees have major problems. Simply increasing the number of regular employees and reducing the number of non-regular employees does not solve the problem.

Japanese men are childish. (Seeing both couples complain about NHK Asaichi's "Kakio Special")

It seems that Japanese praise books are selling like a fly, but Japanese people are losing their self-confidence and want to get praise from others and support them.

The emergence of students who can swing toward men, such as the attitude of taking a competitive attitude at girls' schools, may be a sign of the need for human resources who have a male role in the school. A similar phenomenon may be occurring in boys' schools.

In the absence of China-led AIIB Japan, Japan appears to be eager to engage with the United States. I'm afraid that America will be gone from East Asia and retaliation from China and South Korea will happen.

Japan, acclaimed downfall www

What the British say, Japanese www

If Japan is amended, will Japan begin a war around China under the banner of American freedom and democracy? At the time of the Pacific War, I imitated the fascism of Germany and Italy and drastically suppressed domestic speech, but this time I was banned from any attitude toward the United States.

When I was watching the high school brass band animation "Sound! Euphonium", I thought that the senior junior system in the club seemed to be tough, and it seemed to be very difficult. The first barrier for Japanese society to become a seniority-based society is likely to be the junior and senior high school system. It will continue at the university and the company as it is. That's horrible. (Addition: In any anime program, I'm looking forward to the introduction of a complete ability system that is not restricted to senior junior system, so I'm looking forward to it.)

Japanese Western scholars will soon turn into Confucian scholars if Japan loses in the war with China.

Eliminate discrimination against graduates during job hunting.

You lost to the Osaka Metropolitan Initiative, Osaka City officials and their related negatives.

Prototypes of Japanese livestock were made during school days. It seems like I have to devote my whole time to club activities. Speaking of which, the term school animal is being used frequently. In life, it is the flow of school animals → company animals.

The University of Tokyo is a university that trains the servants of the Imperial Family.

If I became a politician, I would like to amend the law so that I would not have to mosaic the genitals.

Instead of voting for lawmakers, you should vote for policy. Bureaucrats seem to oppose it.

Japan is a European and American supreme state, not a liberal state. The appearance is similar, but the contents are completely different.

Japan should maintain the status quo without war.

The security bill will be passed by forced vote. A worker dispatch bill.

It is better to consider democracy that is appropriate for the Japanese village society. It is no use in importing Western European theory directly.

Japan has finally solidified its war. If the United States starts a war somewhere, it will obey it and offer SDF members.

Eliminate the practice of recruiting new graduates at once! Students should refrain from job hunting while they are at school, and should be free to search for work with Hello Work after they have all graduated.

Only new graduates who have obtained full-time positions in government offices and large corporations have become privileged classes, and discrimination against non-regular employees is certain to be widespread. Japan is returning to a status-based country.

Why wouldn't it be acceptable for a graduate who graduated from high school to enter college, and a graduate who graduated from college to enter a company or government office?

If we become politicians, we will ban the practice of recruiting new graduates first.

I think that sexual harassment caused by just a little sexual behavior and getting angry has also contributed to Japan's declining birthrate.

Sexual activities are prohibited as sexual harassment, which may lead to unwanted children or hurt the other person's body and mind.

I think Japan has good defense defense.

If you name it a lily vehicle instead of a female-only vehicle, I think it will be better for men. If you call it a lily vehicle, it will be the target of Moe.

It's funny to see a lot of women-only vehicles in the morning rush and middle-aged and old women who aren't likely to be molested.

I think that teaching modern Chinese is more useful and meaningful than teaching Chinese at a high school.

Now that the United States is still strong, liberalism and democracy are coming down from above as absolute standards of conduct for Japan. However, when those ghosts are stripped off, Japan will suddenly reveal its own village community. At that point, free societies and democracy will be reduced to a bureaucratic dictatorship and a mutually supervised society. My number system will be the start.

It seems that the security bill has increased the time for deliberation in the Diet, but it will eventually be a forced vote.

The people of the Imperial family also live on taxes, so they are welfare guardians.

Japan, speech control has already begun in the people. We are making animations (Girls & Panzer, Kankore) with war affirmations one after another, and are inducing public opinion to those who have a close affinity for the war. The Internet bulletin board is out of the Korean people, it is just a matter of course, and if you refute it, the thread is ruined.

Japanese organizations require full-time immersion from regular employees, so they all become overtime workers for a long time. This is true for both men and women. If you want a child, you have to be completely immersed in the company to take care of the child, and you have to retire. Once retired and graduated, it is difficult to return to full-time work. If you are passionate about raising children, you will only be able to work for temporary employees or parts who have poor income. Housewife's housework and childcare are also required to be completely immersive. My wife needs to keep the string on my wallet. This leads to the continuation of the housewife system.

The only option is to choose between 1 or 0, a regular employee who is completely immersed in the company, or a non-regular part that can not be completely immersed, but a closed or secret white paper. It is.

For regular employees, it is cancerous for each company to only recruit new graduates. Once you have retired from childcare, you should make a job at the Ministry of Health, Labor and Welfare, and then have the right to be hired by regular employees.

It is also a problem that Japanese men are payroll machines, and they are satisfied with the situation like a slave who is a host who bows down from his wife and gets one pocket coin. The problem is that you have to spend your entire life in the office because your home has no place to live.

Measures are needed to prevent employees from completely immersing themselves in the company. To that end, the collective recruitment of new graduates by the corporate government, which is the source of the custom, should be abolished. Employees should be willing to work at home.

Women-only vehicles should be limited to young women, such as female elementary school students, junior high school girls, high school girls, and female college students, who are more likely to encounter molestation. Middle-aged women who have lost their chances of pregnancy after menopause and have a greatly reduced chance of being molested are no longer worth riding.

The Emperor's family is a super rich welfare household that can spend more and more money.

Japan is a country of American Supremeism (+ Westernism), not a liberal country or a democracy. There is an administrative and political village community, created by incompetent ruling hereditary politicians who read manuscripts in the Diet as perceived by one-party dictators, bureaucrats and bureaucratic choreographers. The primary purpose is to listen to the United States. Both liberalism and democracy are trying to study hard with the intention of the United States, but after all it is a village society and it cannot go well. The Japanese Constitution was also enacted from above by the United States. The Constitution of Japan should be based on the current state of the Japanese village society. At that time, a clause to rehabilitate the deficiencies of the village community should be included. With the provision of pacifism, there is no need to dispatch SDF members to the front.

Wouldn't it be better for Japan's village society if China made Japan a dependent state than the United States made Japan a dependent state? China and Japan are the same rice farmers, and they are familiar with the behavior of liquid molecules.

Japan should be renamed the Japanese Emperor, considering that the Emperor System will continue.

Because there are U.S. military bases in Yokosuka and Atsugi, which are close to the capital Tokyo, Japan is in a state where a knife is stuck from the United States to the throat, and it is in a state where you can hear whatever the United States says It's the root of American supremeism that infiltrates.

Criticizing the security bill, citing Article 9 of the Constitution imposed by the United States, is a sign of American supremeism and authoritarianism against the United States, which is actually not very good. Rather than relying on the power of Article 9 of the US-made Constitution, Japan must reinvent its own peace bill.

In the future, there will be some Neat royalties who will not withdraw and do state affairs

The security bill will probably be passed. Next is the drafting of the conscription.

Japanese people worship government offices by calling them governments. Creepy.

The prices of Japanese music CDs, video DVDs and Blu-rays are really expensive. Why not add the extra benefits and be as simple and priced as the North American version?

There are people who often assert the political neutrality of schools and government offices, but because school and government officials shut out outside opinions and independently implement measures that are convenient for their villages It should be noted that it is a good cover for the.

It seems like women allow their children to spoil themselves, but they don't like their husbands to spoil themselves.

It seems that the news of China's stock price decline is not flowing much in the media, but why?

Why not make a milk factory that mass-produces milk for those who want no milk?

Is there a rule that smart animals can be killed and eaten, and smart animals must not be killed?

I would like to know why it is good to continue to be occupied by Yokosuka in the United States in Japan, but not in China.

I think the reason why women do not advance into society is largely related to the fact that Japanese people are particular about recruiting new graduates at companies and government offices. Because companies and government agencies do not try to recruit graduates or mid-career workers, once a woman retires for childcare, she becomes a full-time housewife because regular reemployment is not easy.

Japanese mothers raise their children into company animals.

There are two things in Japan: working and working.

A joint exercise with the US and Australian troops has arrived. Next is conscription.

The ability to monopolize the purse straps and childcare at home is the root of the strength of Japanese women.

It seems that there are not enough local government officials in the stricken area of the Great East Japan Earthquake, but we can hire local people as they are, but we will try to cover them with support from other local governments. The emperor's servants are trying to make it more flexible. Outsiders are shut out.

No matter where you go in Japan, it's a village society. Domestic travel is boring.

If the United States is male-style democracy, traditional Japan may be female-style democracy.

Do men like to be female instructors? Is it unavoidable for a woman to pretend to be ignorant?

Wouldn't it be good for women after maternity leave to take advantage of their childcare experience to work on human resource development?

Japanese constitutional scholars are authoritarian. They are just trying to protect the constitution imposed by the strong man of the United States. After all, it is useless to establish a peace constitution by ourselves.

In the Diet where the ruling party is dominant, it is pointless to discuss bills. Everyone passes by forced voting.

With the current method of selecting a delegate, once a delegate has been chosen, he or she cannot do anything but stop it. Therefore, voters should vote for and against the policy each time.

Sex should be considered a sacred ritual of making children. It does not speak indecently or with a negative image.

There are certainly places where communism, which takes everyone without discrimination, is better.

The LDP voters who are now worried about the security bill are stupid. Is it the return of the time when young people go to war and die? As expected, the security bill passed the House of Representatives by force. The era of conscription and war is finally coming to Japan

There seems to be an argument that forced voting is not in line with democracy, but this was the result of democratic democracy because many people voted for the LDP. If you are dissatisfied, you have to change the representative system.

If the Japanese try to enact a constitution, His Majesty the Emperor Banzai would take the excretion of individual liberty and become a war lover.

Replacing the Emperor's family with the Kim Il Sung family shows that Japanese society is closer to North Korea.

You should pay more attention to the interests of Japanese women in raising children.

If there are many waiting children in nursery schools, isn't the period of parental leave of the company too short in the first place? About three years should be secured.

People in different villages are temporarily together in the same area in Tokyo and other Japanese cities.

Japanese father as a subcontract ATM. All you can do is make money for your mother and child.

Japanese people come to Southeast Asian people like Malaysia from the top. Isn't this bad? We get angry when we are touched from above by China and Korea. It is useless if you do not treat other countries equally.

Getting a job at a company is, after all, a form of trafficking

How is the Communist dictatorship of China different from the bureaucratic dictatorship of Japan?

The vested interests don't want to talk about how they are profiting. Japanese women are like that.

The officials of the Japanese government offices are the direct servants of the Emperor, each of which has its own independent interests, employs promising newcomers to realize the benefits, and organizes the organization to save the interests. Implement policies in a pursuit form. It does not reflect or reflect the will of the Japanese people. That is the question.

As a parent with a child, may it be easier for humans to take social behavior in order to adapt the child to an existing society?

I wonder if Japan should create a system where the bureaucracy can be selected by the people. The candidate who has passed the career group should be a candidate, and a high-ranking bureaucracy can be selected by referendum based on the administrative achievements.

For election voting, we need to create a mechanism that prevents people with poor brains (such as those with low IQ) from voting. I think everyone will study desperately.

Japanese farmers are being given preferential treatment with the great protection of the government. I feel that the grading system is still continuing.

A referendum on a policy may be a good idea, as it asks voters whether they have the basic knowledge about the policy they want to judge by voting, and gives only those who answered correctly the right to vote.

It is customary for Japanese advanced (laughs) cultural people to follow the Americans and Western Europeans, thank you for anything.

I guess the input contents of Google Japanese Input are all over the United States.

People who watch live-action dramas are ordinary people, and those who watch anime are called otaku.

University tuition should be free.

The declining birth rate in Japan is attributed to women raising the bar for marriage too much for men.

Eventually, people opposing the security bill will be called non-national and will be controlled throughout the country. Utilizing the characteristics of mutual monitoring of village societies, freedom of speech will be lost. The conscription "for the country" will be revived.

A young man who is enjoying "Kankore" in the game is likely to come soon to be recruited as a soldier on a real battleship.

Japanese people listen to the United States to say thank you for whatever they say. Even Article 9 of the Constitution is a draft made by the United States.

If you want to demonstrate against the security bill by now, you should reflect on why you voted for the LDP.

It is dangerous if the police start to judge in connection with the security bill, but it will soon be. In the My Number system, personal thoughts will be linked and registered, and it will be possible to instantly know who is anti-security.

It is certain that the security bill will pass no matter how much you disagree with from now on, so you should think about what you will do after passing.

Japan is not a rule of law. Even if it is in the form of a rule of law, the Security Bill will show that it can properly operate the law and do whatever it wants. After the Security Bill is enacted, if you submit anti-security opinions on Twitter, every time this person is a non-national person, it may be burned up by hanging on the net.

Looking at the progress of the security bill, I think Japan is not much different from China, which is trying to maintain stock prices. The law is a decoration, its operation is flexible, it is free to do whatever it wants, and it smells something feminine.

I guess the problem is that Japanese people cannot make constitutional articles that correspond to Article 9 of the Constitution by themselves. Constitutional scholars who disagree with the security bill as unconstitutional were originally authoritarians of the United States-made constitutional observance. You don't have the ability.

Japan's attitude toward China and South Korea is probably due to its awareness that it has never lost in the war. On the other hand, you're so mean to the United States because you've been killed by a kotan.

In the same anime, there are some people who are badly referred to as otaku by ordinary people, and others who see it without problems. The difference is the difference between "whether you can watch it with your family or not", which is probably because there is a difference between the animations seen by families and those seen by singles. The animations seen by families are good, and those for singles are not good. Or, for example, the anime seen by lovers is good, and the animation seen by singles who cannot have it is not good.

It is necessary for Japanese men to be liberated from the village society = the female society. I want to escape from the Japanese village society and the female society as soon as possible.

It's no wonder that the Japanese imperial family is replaced by the North Korean ruler Kim family. You can feel that Japan is very close to North Korea.

To avoid falling birthrates, women should be able to re-employ unconditionally at the same company even if they have lost work for six years or so while raising children. Or maybe you can extend the period of childcare leave to six years.

The role of women in childcare is to help their children become women farmers with feminine personalities and villagers. Because children can be liquid-molecule characters, they value synchrony and mutual sense of unity.

We need to study women's democracy to see how women can turn around in a democratic society. Democracy in the United States is a pastoral and masculine, and as it is, it does not fit well with Japan and cannot be turned well. It is necessary to investigate how women turn around in a society where they are women only. For example, students at girls' schools (high schools and universities) need to understand how they operate their organizations. By clarifying the way women turn society, women can understand how democracy is achieved and how women democracy should be.

The obedience to obey the order developed and imposed by strong people has become the habit of Japanese people. Constitution, security bill. I think that kind of place is feminine. It is important for the Japanese themselves to make a voluntary constitution on their own, but it will probably become the constitution of the emperor.

Baseball is also a form of colonial sport.

There is freedom but not equality is democracy in the male society, and there is no freedom but equality is democracy in the female society.

I don't think Japan needs to mimic the United States to create a disparity society.

At first glance, both the observance of the Peace Constitution and the recent passage of the Security Bill are apparently the opposite, but both remain the same in terms of Japan's submission to the United States.

As long as humans create new things that never existed, accidents will not go away. Unverified parts always come out.

China does whatever it takes when it comes to it. For example, devaluation of the yuan or manipulation of stock prices.

The reason television is not going away in Japan is probably because it matches a tuned society where many share the same information at the same time.

If China wins the war with Japan, the Japanese emperor system will be abolished. I'm looking forward to how the Japanese people will react.

Somehow, I don't like high school baseball because of the impression that high school students are desperately working for the honor of schools and the upper levels of government (such as prefectures and municipalities).

There seems to be a case where urban young people are used to protect terraced rice fields where there is no successor, but this is no different from tenant farming. I don't think urban young people use it without giving them land.

Female liberation is impossible. Because women are creatures who prefer mutual restraint. Women essentially dislike freedom.

Japanese people depend on their offices like government offices and companies as if they were mothers. The company Mazakon. Government offices and companies are just temporary gatherings of people.

The Japanese are dyed in any surrounding colors and must be dyed.

It is inevitable for Japan to become a female society while women are monopolizing their child-rearing authority.

In Japan, lawmakers ostensibly discuss in parliament and decide the law. However, in reality, they are choreographed according to the scenario determined by the United States, the sovereign nation, and the central government that has the power of shadow, and they have just responded and have not discussed themselves. In fact, it is a tradition that people do not like to discuss in public in the first place, and congress only exchanges opinions on the argument and watering, and the actual adjustment is done secretly somewhere else. In that regard, Japanese parliamentarians can sum up the term "non-arguing members". That is, those members who do not discuss in parliament. Parliamentary democracy is not working very well in Japan. A different system that matches the actual situation is needed.

The national character of the society is colored by those who rule the society. Japan's national character is feminine because women rule the society. Women's social dominance in Japan is achieved by women (mothers) having a monopoly on child care. The child dyes the woman's color.

It is better to re-employment a regular employee than to appoint a female manager. It is not good that reemployment after childcare is just an irregular part.

For railway cars, only women-only cars are set, but if it is unfair from the men side, complaints will occur, and other mixed gender cars will have problems like molesting as usual, so men in public baths It is only necessary to use only men's vehicles and women's vehicles like hot water and women's bath.

Japan needs to be independent from the United States.

Japanese companies are modeled after government agencies and can be called pseudo government agencies. It is of the utmost importance to work to the final point without overkill, and it is a deduction principle that does not allow failure. Once a company or government office has been terminated due to restructuring or illness, there is no guarantee thereafter. The older the age, the more severe the age limit for reemployment.

In order to change the entire corporate organization in Japan, we must change from a model government office, but it does not change because it is moving solely according to safe precedents.

Japanese people should be free from brainwashing through public education by the Japanese government. Don't take the content of a textbook into account.

The essence of a woman is the caretaker.

Japan's public education has produced, and will remain, the emperor's subjects before the war, and fake Liberal Democrats who are American blind.

The struggle between the United States and China is the same as the conflict between men and women. Conflicts and conflicts between the masculine and paternal America and the feminine and maternal China.

Japan grew by copying European and American inventions first hand, but China and South Korea also began to imitate European and American inventions, and the decline in Japan's advantage led to a decline in Japan's national power.

Japan is unable to get out of the declining birth rate because the job-aged ice age generation has too little income to be able to marry or have children.

Japanese nationality = protection. Women = harmony, harmony = Japanese national character. It is the Japanese feminine nationality that absolutely obeys the strong at that time and entrusts the judgment and avoids the risk of judgment and judgment.

In Japan, elected members of the Diet or governors have become bureaucrat replacement personnel. It is the bureaucracy of Japan that changes its head at each time of misfortune and takes no responsibility. It has become feminine protection.

Those who give pocket money have a higher status than those who get it. Japanese housewives are higher than their husbands.

Playing cards = vomiting rants.

Those who inherit the talented gene earn higher incomes and become richer. Rich children are more likely to be genetically better.

Spreading money with a helicopter is called Heritako-chan.

The declining birth rate of Japanese society is deeply related to the issues of the employment ice age generation. The generation who cannot afford to get married, cannot have children, or cannot be raised because of financial difficulties.

East and Southeast Asian countries all love isolation.

Japan, which is no longer protected by the United States, will be armed with nuclear weapons.

Both North Korea and Japan are the same in that they are willing to think of the strong man's thoughts as absolute and willingly dye them in that color.

Replacing Kim Jong-un, the footage of the North Korean party convention, with the emperor would be like modern Japan. Japanese cannot laugh at North Korea.

The law believes that the power and vested interests are in control of the people below, and that the people, including the powers, are controlled so that society works well and the social division of labor works well. I think there is a separate idea to do so.

Replacing Kim Jong Un's Manse at the North Korean party convention with the Emperor of Japan's Emperor will give you an idea of how similar North Korea and Japan are

The Panama document and Japan relations were also made public, which shows that ordinary Japanese people do not have to pay taxes. To the inquiries from the tax office, just answer, "Wealthy people do not pay taxes."

Japan will become an inconspicuous country among many countries in East Asia in the future.

It is necessary to clarify not only equal pay for equal work but also the same status for the same work. If you do the same job, you should eliminate regular and irregular discrimination.

Every human being works so hard on self.

It is a problem that hiring only young people in their 20s and 30s, such as new graduates and second graduates, as full-time employees, and when they go to Hello Work at the age of 50, they cannot find any jobs. Japanese government agencies and companies should eliminate age discrimination in recruitment. New and regular hiring from older people is also necessary. The annual income should be unified according to seniority from the year of hiring.

For those who have already graduated without getting a job at any company, the Japanese government office and the company should reopen the door for regular employees. Don't discriminate against graduates. A woman with a child who has been given a blank job due to childbirth and childcare should also be a full-time employee.

For graduates and women with childcare blanks, it would be nice to have institutions or software that teaches the essence of corporate work (such as the Federation of Foreign Ministers, PDCA and in-house politics) as a simulation game like a simulation game. Qualify those who have completed these institutions and software as those who have the foundation of business skills and those who have regenerated their abilities, and obligate them to be employed as regular employees without discrimination by age, gender, or graduated Should. Young and old can put a card with the year of joining the company on their necks, so if they can understand the relationship between seniors and juniors, they can move away from the seniority that sticks to the actual age and create a seniority that does not depend on age Should be.

It is necessary to build a society where it is easy to re-employ even if you quit. Eliminate the new graduate philosophy that prevails in government offices and companies.

The people in this country follow the laws and administrative guidance issued by government agencies. The content can be changed as much as the constitution or interpretation.

Japanese products lose to Chinese and Korean products because Japan only sees Western products and does not look at Chinese and Korean products. China and South Korea are looking at Japanese products and improving them.

High cost society, Japan.

The declining birthrate is caused by the fact that the job-aged ice age generation did not have a stable and sufficient income to raise children.

A policy to create quasi-regular employment is needed. There are multiple levels (3-5 levels) between non-regular and regular.

Many people oppose the consumption tax hike because the taxes paid are used for officials, not for themselves.

In Japan, the LDP one-party dictatorship and the bureaucratic dictatorship suit.

It is Japan of the future that will prostrate to the Sino-Korean Union and bow down.

The declining birthrate is caused by the fact that the job-aged ice age generation did not have a stable and sufficient income to raise children.

There is a deep connection between Japan's lost 20 years and China's breakthrough. The day Japan will lose to China is coming soon.

It would be interesting to have a milking factory for human breast milk.

I want to know how the modern villagers in Japan, as in the Edo period, are being brainwashed as being human beings in a pro-Western democracy. You can find out by checking the curriculum guidelines of the Ministry of Education.

As the number of female managers increases in Japan, it is likely that managers will not take responsibility. Women tend to be self-preserving.

I want to find out how Western school brains are generated in Japanese school education.

There is a need for a systematic clear culture of the rules of the Japanese village society that the Japanese follow. It should be taught in school education.

It is not clear why Japanese public education does not try to teach the differences in behavior between nomads, pastoralists and rice farmers.

I would like to know the cause and process of public education in Japan falling into the United States and Europe.

If Japan loses in the war with China, the emperor system is likely to be overthrown. The Japanese government is afraid of it. The desperate approach to the United States is a manifestation of that anxiety.

In Japan, the pre-war regime has been preserved in its entirety. Although following the United States makes it difficult to see. The emperor system and the dictatorship of the emperor's servants (bureaucrats and officials) continue.

Because she is self-preserving, she fears that she will be attacked and never admits that she is the ruler of society. It's typical of Japan. With more women in managerial positions at companies and government agencies, tragedy is likely to occur for men, depending on who takes responsibility for failure.

It is the seniority system and the senior junior system that hinder the mobility of employment in Japanese society. The root of all evil is not to allow older rookies. The problem can be solved by banning senior and junior relationships at junior high schools, high schools and universities.

A married couple's surname in Japan may be effective in eliminating new graduate recruitment.

We should listen to the opinions of officials, not politicians, and judge the good or bad. Officials are the ones that actually drive Japanese society.

If a satisfactory job is not obtained, it raises the mobility of employment, but once a reasonably satisfactory job is obtained, it is the human nature to insist on fixing and stabilizing employment so as not to lose it. .

Maintenance and innovation are divided depending on whether the interests of the vested interests are maintained or not.

Even after becoming an innovative government, you can still have a new hierarchical relationship, a dominated relationship. It is an illusion that everyone is equal. Those who have not gained their vested interests expect the revolutionary government.

I think the Japanese will start shouting "Hello, China!" The moment they are occupied by China. The textbooks will be painted black again. When the United States leaves Japan, freedom of speech disappears in Japan. Even now, in fact, it is useless to say "Hello America".

We may have already begun to consider how to maintain the emperor system when Japan became a dependent of China. North Korea = Kim Korea would be a reference.

What new powers do

 Erase the traces of the old powers and make them unrecoverable

 Erasing the trademark of the old authority and replacing it with a new one

For example, erase Daiei's signboard and change it to Aeon, or in the Meiji Restoration, abandon the name of the feudal clan in the Edo period and use a new prefecture name.

There was an argument that China was hitting Japan because it vented to prevent criticism of the leadership in China. I guess they're trying to prevent criticism of the interests. Before criticizing China, Japanese people should think about their own country.

Perhaps the best archetype of a Japanese government office or company can be found in the rural subordination. I attach importance to the relatives of rural villages because I attach importance to kinship relations with Japanese family companies. I wonder if the pattern in which unrelated servants are kept as children can also be found in old rural areas. It would be nice to say that the archetypes of Japanese government agencies and corporate organizations are in rural areas.

Women's relationships are pre-modern and feudal. The archetype of human relationships in Japan is that of women.

If you vote for the Liberal Democratic Party or the Komeito Party, the constitution will be amended. Free speech is lost, sniffers are rampant, recruitment for military action is enforced, martial law is laid, and the war state is rushed. Sadly, Japan's irrational nationality has not changed from before the war, so it will be a pre-war dance and will lose again. If you want to protect your freedom and life, never vote for the LDP and the Komeito.

The press report that the virtual enemy = China's momentum will not stop, and that it will attack Japan, is likely to be driving voters in favor of the LDP and Komeito constitutional amendments. The news of friendship between China and Japan, such as an increase in the number of Chinese visiting Japan in sightseeing, should be broadcast more.

The lack of "constitutional amendment" in Twitter's trend column means that Twitter users are completely hooked on the Liberal Democratic Party's tactics to hide the intention of amending the constitution.

The fact that the United States is behind the Japanese power that is fueling fear and animosity of China has made it difficult for Japanese people who are obedient to the United States to oppose it.

Once the constitution has been amended, the next is the war with China. Conscription is coming.

Will Chinese friendship speech be treated non-nationally in the future? Speech control is likely to come.

In fact, one-party dictatorship, bureaucratic control, and apparently, Japan and China are more similar than Japan and the United States.

If Japan loses to China in the war, the emperor system will collapse, and the Japanese ruling and vested interests will fear it and incite Chinese fear to the people.

The Japanese commercial industry's disc business method is acoustic. For example, the US version of the low-priced North American version has forced English subtitles so that it cannot be unlocked, discouraging Japanese viewers from buying it, and leading to a very expensive domestic version. The one who buys the domestic edition is also stupid.

Since Japan and China are similar in society, for example, there is essentially no difference in the way electrical equipment manufacturers develop technology between Japan and China (both are good at pakuri and small improvement and have new technologies that involve risks). Is difficult to develop), so once Japan catches up with China, it can hardly demonstrate its uniqueness.

It is a good idea to see the sweetness and lightning of the anime, the danger of modern Japanese father-son families, and the lack of room.

Formalizing part-time rehiring will be a magical measure that will resolve the labor shortage in Japan, stabilize the economics of single-parent families, and help women enter the workplace.

If you vote for a political party with the intention of implementing a certain policy, you will not be able to implement your unwanted policies more and more. That's the limit of the representative system.

Don't vote for the LDP unless you want to lose freedom of ideology with the amendment.

To improve the working environment in Japan, all employees, including part-time and part-time workers, should be treated as full-time employees by law. Prohibit irregular treatment. Temporary employees are also prohibited.

Japanese men want their Japanese women to have the same receptiveness, tolerance, and inclusiveness as their mothers, and they want to be reluctant to do so because of feminism. Japanese men are just offended and brat, lacking paternity. Humans are weaker to spoil and stronger to spoil. So is the power relationship between men and women in Japan. Men who can spoil are weak, and women who spoil are strong.

Yamato Nadeshiko is a symbol of a strong woman. Women are more passive. Women who are receptive, inclusive and deep-seated and have a huge cushion are strongest. Yamato Nadeshiko is equivalent to this.

If women do not have to take responsibility in the workplace, women will be flooded with well-paid and well-treated managers.

The weakest woman (Western woman) preaches a strong woman (Japanese woman) calmly to say, "Woman should stand alone," and the strongest woman (Japanese woman) follows it in a heck-on manner. It is strange that a weak woman (Western woman) holding a household string by a man behaves like a strong woman (Japanese woman) holding a household string by herself. In fact, a strong Japanese woman should teach a weak Western woman by showing an example of what a strong woman is like, but she does not try to teach it for some reason, but instead relies on what a weak Western woman says. Is ridiculous

Let's prohibit discrimination against graduated employment! Let's get rid of the new graduate recruitment principle!

Let's ban non-regular employees! Make all workers full-time employees!

Let's prohibit age restrictions when hiring employment!

Both men who can't meet the women's desired salary and women who can't find a man with the desired salary have surpassed the idea of the opposite sex for the time being with two-dimensional moe animation.

If you advance to a managerial position in a Japanese women's company, you will have a society where men do not work like Vietnam.

Japanese people think that a fair decision without a party faction is a decision of an official. It is important to get out of this brainwash.

The strongest person in Japanese society is a woman called Kato. In the village, they have all the main powers, such as household ties, children's education rights, food distribution rights, and so on. Japanese men are their sons, and they are all under their control.

In the past, women had no suffrage in Japan because men were all children of their mothers (females) and their mothers took their breath, so men went to vote = go on behalf of mothers, The same effect would have been obtained even if women did not go directly to voting.

Yamato Nadeshiko is a huge cushion. Whatever it flies, it will flexibly accept the impact and soon return to its original shape. Passive and strong presence. Japanese women should aim for this huge cushion.

Japanese feminist women really want to beat their mother-in-law, but they can't because they're scared or wedges into the solidarity between women. So he beats the weak Japanese men of the mother-in-law instead. I have to understand this situation.

The real reason Japanese women want to work is because they don't want to live with their mother-in-law.

The fundamental and conservative nature of Japanese society is that women who dislike risk and responsibility are strong.

The reason why Japanese society becomes totalitarian with emphasis on harmonization and coordination is that women are strong.

When women did not have suffrage in Japan, mothers with sons had substantial suffrage, but mothers with only daughters had no suffrage. I wonder if my wife had no suffrage right. I was dissatisfied with that, and the movement for women's suffrage might have taken place.

Japanese society was a favored mother-in-law, but the bride is getting stronger.

The voices of Japanese women are not children, but the voices of women are high. Western women whose voices are low have become masculine and have lost their original high voice.

Insidious Japanese village society is with a woman who loves the secret

Under the current situation where it is impossible to live without both men and women, it is not feasible for a full-time employee whose married couple takes 100% time to work, because they have no time to marry or raise children. This is causing the declining birthrate. Legal revision is required so that all part-timers are treated as regular employees.

The law should be revised so that non-regular employment is eliminated and all employees are employed as regular employees. Needs enforcement by law.

In the UK, part-timers are like regular employees. Japan should also be imitated.

The law should prohibit non-regular employment, which should make it easy for employees to retire and easily re-employment as regular employees. All employees need to be regular employment.

If you move to a rural settlement as a new resident and are unilaterally forced to follow their rules by the old resident, the revitalization of the locality will be permanent unless the new resident is able to appeal as a communal harbor and win. Not realized. There is a need to spread the concept of community harassment to new residents by old people more widely in society.

It's a kind of community harassment, like bullying a mother-in-law, a newcomer in the company, or a mid-career hire. The common point is that old stocks bullied the immigrants.

Humans are divided into knowledge creation type and knowledge accumulation type. The Japanese education system fosters knowledge-storing people. I know that a lot of knowing is great, and I love talking about it.

I think women at the top of the organization can be good. Responsibility should be imposed on the lower men.

No matter where you go, Japan is just a village society. Do not want to go anywhere for domestic travel.

Isn't it possible to sell in Japan and East Asia if you make boys who pamper girls, girls who pamper boys, and anime? For example, both men and women are high school students, girls = mothers, boys = sons. Wouldn't it be nice if a girl laid her lap on her knees, stroked the boy's head and sang a lullaby or something? Recent anime and comics are becoming more and more useless if they share the same gender, so it might be better to give girls a favor of girls or boys a favor of boys. If the role of mother is not appropriate for your age, you may be the role of sister. In an anime comic, I wonder if it's the same age or close to each other and one side is the one who pampers and the other is the side who pampers.

An example of the role of a son who can be a mother. Cheek "Nakahara-kun's overprotective sister."

What a Japanese mother-in-law gives is a minus aura.

If you read a book by a Japanese sociologist, you will become a brain of Western worship, so be careful.

It is only necessary to have full-time employees at government offices and corporations in Japan, all of which are full-time employees. There is no other way to release Japanese people from working overtime and working long hours.

The world is now flourishing with electric civilization.

Japanese = a beautiful woman dressed as a man. She pretends to be a strong man in a patriarchal society, but in fact she is a woman-like society with a strong mother.

Employment in Japan = Finding, deciding, and entering a workplace where you will live throughout your life.

My wife wants to work outside because she cannot live with her mother-in-law.

A woman who wants to go to work outside is actually a housewife, but if she is a housewife, she wants to break down her life as soon as she bereaches or divorces her husband. .

If you want to advance women's social advancement, you should refer to advanced examples such as Vietnam. It is useless to refer to the advancement of women's society in Europe and the United States. Because weak women enter the society. Vietnam and Thailand will be helpful for strong women's social advancement.

Mankind is not at the top of evolution. It seems prosperous. The anthropocentrism that mankind is the most advanced, prosperous, and great among living things should be completely defeated.

It seems that the outflow of women due to local customs seems to be a problem, but there are women who do not outflow ... It is the mother of mother-in-law.

Japanese government agencies and companies should stop child rearing of employees. It's just slavery.

Vietnam is the advanced country for feminism and women's rights expansion. Not America or Western Europe.

Important social differences such as western-eastern, American-Japanese, etc. can be expressed as gas-liquid molecular.

The reason why regular employees are hardly fired at Japanese companies today is that they have been hired as faithful servants of pure culture of their children. In short, because they are relatives. Non-regular employment, on the other hand, is worse off and easier to fire because it is a temporary stranger. Japanese companies and government offices that have different treatments for relatives and strangers. Review the relationship between your relatives and strangers.

I guess the source of Japanese black companies is in club activities in junior high schools and high schools in Japan. Unlimited loyalty to students or to juniors, or unlimited use of time. Unlimited is the keyword.

Individualism and liberalism are not Western patents. It is a traditional social character widely seen among nomads such as Arabs, Turkey, Jews and Mongolia.

It can be seen by looking at the motion of gas molecules.

 Cormorant = husband

 Fish = salary

The cormorant (wife) attaches a string to the neck of the cormorant (husband) and instructs him to take the fish (pay). If the cormorant (husband) desperately takes the fish (pay), the fish (pay) Is a society where all of them are exhaled and taken up by a cormorant (wife). Ukai-type society discriminates against men.

Money flows from Tokyo to rural areas in the form of public works expenses. People working in Tokyo are being exploited in rural areas.

In order to deregulate the dismissal in Japan, it is necessary to guarantee reemployment as a regular employee at the next company. Under the current situation of temporary irregularities, it would not be possible to relax regulations. It is necessary to break away from the traditional pattern of regular employees = pure culture child rearing only for new graduates.

Female society and Japanese society are liquid molecule movement. Male society, Western Europe, and American society are gas molecule movement. Until now, Japan thought that it would be easy to move from their current liquid molecular motion pattern to a Western-like gas molecular motion pattern by mimicking it, but it has not been realized at all. Until now, women's feminism has been thought to be easy to mimic from their current liquid molecular movement pattern to a masculine gas molecular movement pattern, but it has not been realized at all.

Police state Japan. Everyone loves the rough search of others.

If you say that you can read the air and value your senior and junior relationships, the liquid molecular motion pattern will not remain as a gas molecular motion pattern forever, Japanese people www .

Unless the Japanese attitude to discriminate and discriminate between relatives and strangers, child care and temporary workers, equal pay for equal work is impossible.

Japan, a country where infinite service to the company is required.

World feminism should be modeled on Vietnam with strong women.

In Japan today, rice farmers are trying hard to imitate pastoralists, but they cannot be pastoralists.

People who have liquid molecule motion patterns desperately imitate gas molecule motion patterns longing for gas molecule motion patterns, but liquid molecule motion patterns remain indefinitely in Japan

Like Pokemon Go, the Japanese who jump into the popular in the United States immediately without discretion and without discipline. Just spinal cord reflex. Nintendo isn't unusual for Japanese companies, just how they fly and how to do Manse. Like Pokemon Go, those who became popular in the sovereign nations, but their heads will drop to those who depend on them and fly without control.

Japanese kids play Pokemon Go so that they don't get left on the topic of their surroundings and keep their friends away.

In Japan, where there was no gender division of labor and women had no practice to work outside, women were firmly gripped by household purse strings and children, men were just ATMs and cormorants, and women were the rulers of society. .

The gender division of labor system in Japan was characterized by 100% of men working outside the office and 100% of women at home, with 100% being dedicated.

In today's Japan, it is difficult for men to earn enough income to support their wives and children, and it is becoming increasingly necessary to work together. 100% outside work and 100% overtime for wives, leading to home malfunction. In order to prevent the collapse of double-income families in Japan, it is necessary to set an upper limit of around 60% to prevent overwork, while the outside work of both couples is 100%. What is needed for this is to make part-time workers permanent. By making part-timers regular employment, it is possible to obtain stable income and status while maintaining a dual-income family.

In a dual-income family, dominance and power, which used to tend to concentrate on women, are now being distributed to men and gender equality. On the other hand, in the past, men have been the mainstay of outside work, but the number of women has been increasing.

Parenting is essential for couples to keep their genes, and time must be given to them. Therefore, it is necessary to make part-time regular employment of married couples. In order for women and women to have the same gender rights, not only their wives but also their husbands need to become part-time workers.

In the Japanese workplace, it is necessary to become a natural person to be promoted if a part-time worker is capable.

Eliminating waiting children in large cities can be realized by part-time and regular employment of married couples

In order to make the workings of a Japanese couple work together, it is necessary to prohibit 100% full-time employment or employment that would dedicate 100% to the company.

Compared to men and women, women tend to favor seniority and junior seniority. I was in the country statistics. In other words, Japan with a seniority and junior system is a female society.

Japanese junior and senior high school students have no time at all on holidays. Black club activity. Working in a black company is similar.

The Japanese scholarship is an illusion that the residents of the village community have been able to get along well and import Western theories, as if they were integrated into Western ideas and become advanced.

Human, constructive is best.

A female society in Japan that does not change from me. It changes for the first time with external pressure.

Isn't individualism or liberalism common among nomads like Arabs, Turkey, Jews, and Mongolia, even if they are not modern in Western Europe? Japanese people are being fooled by clever self-promotion in Western Europe and North America.

Athletic people in Japan are dangerous. The superiority of group behavior, the absolute view and loyalty of senior and junior relationships and the relationship of superiors and subordinates ... all the elements that make Japanese society feel lively are packed in the athletic association system.

 I want to be independent from the strong

 I want to keep the weak in my hand

Both are human nature. This is the relationship between Okinawa and Japan, and Japan and the United States.

It seems to be related to the increasing number of BL and lilies in Japanese anime and Japan's declining birthrate. Men and women can't leave offspring.

Those who have no vested interests seek to break the regime. Those with vested interests seek to maintain the regime. Each time the same person gains or loses vested interests, opinions on breaking and maintaining the system change.

We have to avoid fixing the vested interests. The vitality of society is lost.

There may be people who are graduates of the University of Tokyo who are good for officials and not for companies.

Biologically female. Eggs are richer than sperm.

Anime and comics are characterized by their ability to understand the true character of their characters through facial expressions and inner voices, so they can be enjoyed even with lower interpersonal skills than actual so-called human relationships. Also, since there is only one living person, there is a great possibility that it will be taken by a rival, but characters of anime and comics will come under the public through broadcasting and the Internet, so do not worry about competing The reason is that the hurdles are lower than in human relationships. If you do not want to be taken by other people in the work, you can choose BL and lily.

Humans are monkeys after all. Because it is contrary to the regulation of erotic expression and the fundamental desire of human beings, it is lost! Make it all open. You should act according to the nature of the monkey. Humans return to nature.

Humans want to refute if information that is contrary to their knowledge is posted. Using this habit, you can get the right information on the anonymous bulletin board.

Comics and animations, which require more advanced techniques to create and enjoy pictures and sounds, are more expensive than just text novels lined up in print. Should be in the library.

Freedom to change jobs is necessary in today's Japan. You need to be able to quit when you want to quit, or to ensure regular employment at your place of employment and to ensure that you are not discriminated against because you are halfway employed (that you are treated as a relative, not a stranger).

"90,000 yen per month" Japanese women in their 30s working at a call center in Thailand seem to have the same position as non-regular employees in Japan.

Pseudo-pastoral society, Japan.

The current situation in Japan is the US, Japan, the Europeans, the Chinese, and the Koreans.

The Japanese cannot reach constitutionalism and legalism unless they overcome their villagers.

The business division of a company is an organization that responds to the business world, and the research institute is an organization that responds to the academic world.

The Japanese will rely on existing constitutional political parties and the central government's sympa to vote, unless they change the idea of "If you approach, the shadow of Taiki".

Japanese people cannot reach the heritage constitutionalism and the rule of law unless they overcome themselves as rice farmers and villagers.

The female Japanese village community is a global symbol of female domination

The reason that e-books can not scroll assuming page turning operation is probably due to the performance limit of e-paper

For newcomers, current people, and asset borrowers, such as brides and juniors, to pledge the psychological loyalty of 100% of the parent molecule to old people, such as mother-in-law and seniors, and asset owners, It is the starting point of Japanese society to have private 100% work for old people and property owners.

Female Japanese society where only the swearing and shame of people is rampant is a shady society. The male and western society that praise people positively is a positive society.

Even if Abe's government privatized Mori Tomokei and the large amount of privatization of state-owned property, nothing could be punished, bureaucrats who were deemed to be promoted, national social norms fundamentally collapsed, and the country was in danger .

In order to get rid of private service in Japanese society, training on dry interpersonal relations is necessary. Training is needed to thoroughly break the psychological adhesion between mother and child, which is the origin of the parent-molecule relationship in Japan.

Synchronization pressures, gossip, high-speed diffusion of privacy, jealousy of others who are working well, merciless villages for the outliers, almost all female society Origin. Japanese society is dominated by Japanese women in a real female society.

Japanese villagers can't forgive the apparent Europeanization scam. It is confusing with real Europeanization, and it is disillusioned that it is just plating.

Free is better for mental health. It is not noticed in morbid Japanese society.

Nothing is more unsightly than a Japanese female villager. It is ugly to see that a Japanese woman, who does not notice her low socially alienated position and behaves proudly on her face, is ugly.

As soon as Japanese people become villagers, they become concerned about the surrounding eyes and the public, and cannot do creative research like the Nobel Prize. To know and adapt to the Japanese people is to stay away from the Nobel Prize and away from Europeanization.

The only person who can go up in the power pyramid is those who have kicked off others. Someone who is inherited or has a connection can get the center of the power pyramid from others without kicking others off.

Japanese society is a female society itself.

Japan will soon join the ranks of underdeveloped and poor nations under the Abe dictatorship. Japanese people must leave the brainwashing state of "Japan = a developed country, a rich country" quickly.

The majority of Japanese people choose not to criticize and resign a powerful person who moves with their own interests, but to obediently obey and sip delicious juice without criticizing the powerful person.

Promoting overtime regulations should not forget that Japanese housewives are positive for male long working hours

The name of the Meiji Restoration, which is taught at school, has a positive meaning, but is it really justified to call it Meiji's change?

The village eight minutes cracked down as a crime.

Nikkei stocks are artificially created due to the boom just before the election vote.

Japan's politics is a manifestation of the female style. I think it has become clearer this election.

Unless the child-rearing mother's monopoly is stopped, the female-style Japanese village society will continue and the Japanese male's social status will not improve.

Japan is effectively a one-party dictatorship, much the same as a Chinese one-party dictatorship.

A group of high school girls is typical of Japanese village society.

Full-time housewives and officials look exactly the same, only knowing to spend money and not knowing to make money.

In Japan, money that can be used freely even if you do not earn yourself is coming in steadily, and it is the housewives and officials who can arbitrarily decide how to use them.

Recently, late-night Japanese anime with a stage set in the UK is noticeable. Europeanism is at its peak.

The desire to gain an edge over East Asia over China and South Korea is driving Japanese people to Europeanism. One of the reasons is to look only in Europe and the United States and not in China and South Korea.

It seems that the Japanese government is trying to blend mentally ill people from hospitals into the community like the United States and Europe, but it does not work well with the closed nature of Japanese village so that even healthy people do not accept non-regular employment right. It would be an end to build a group home for the disabled, isolated from the local community.

The idea that came from the Japanese specialism and the fact that Japanese people can only see narrow and narrow things that only Europeans and Americans can see. If you look at East Asia and Southeast Asia, you will find that Japan is only one of the common types of rice farming society.

Even though Japan lost to China and South Korea in the technology development competition, he just turned his eyes away from that fact and repeated "Wow Japan." You say "China-Korea technology is Japanese pakuri", but "Japanese technology is Western pakuri".

The most necessary thing in Japan today and the least likely to be done by Japanese people is to bow to China and South Korea and imitate the advanced technology. Both Europe, the United States and China and South Korea must look in a balanced manner.

A Japanese man who is under the control of his mother and cannot have paternity has a substantially lower social status.

As the US super government has launched anti-globalism, the Japanese society of its children will be more closed and exclusive, and the village will be more prone to rampant.

It is necessary to stop educational inflation in the university era. Originally, there should be many occupations in high school. I think it's good to go to college once, and only those who need it will go to college a few years later.

The real purpose of feminism is to make the world society a female society.

In election voting, it may be easier to understand what kind of policy people want by putting □ × on the policy list item rather than selecting candidates, and as a result life will be better. ?

You just have to let the people choose a policy by voting, and the government can do it. No politician needed.

Japanese humanoid robots are very active in focusing on the face and trying to open and close their eyes and mouth. However, using a full-screen smartphone or a single tablet terminal screen is the most effective way to improve the degree of freedom and control of the face. I think it's suitable for improving performance and reducing development costs.

As a symbol of the low status of women in Japan, it has been repeatedly taught in public education since elementary school: Educational discipline at a female university in the Edo period Before the war It seems like there is no voting right.

The current situation of male discrimination by Japanese women is summarized as follows: pocket money system from wife to husband. Exclusivity of household management authority by wife. The custody of divorce goes only to the mother The false accusations of male molesters are all guilty of the male Child rearing by the mother-monopoly of educational authority and alienation of the father's home Japanese nationality = rice farmer = female Mother dominance in society. Loss of paternity in men

The Edo era women's college Sansou originated from the Indian Brahmanism, "Manu's Code, Chapter 5: Women's Obligations." Typical patriotic Aryan nomadic ideas. Considering that Edo-era merchants and wives monopolized accounting and accounting, household management, education of children and employees, and other important tasks, this is an empty word that does not correspond to the actual situation of women's social domination in Japan.

Before the war in Japan, women believed that women did not need university education, and it was said that women were discriminated against. However, the role of Japanese women in gender division of labor is to seize the powers of controlling households and to control the personality of children (including sons) by mothers through close child-rearing. It was under control and control, both mentally and psychologically.

In this form of social control as a family manager or family manager, women are more likely to study the economic and educational customs and customs of their married house than to go to college and learn Western social theory that is incompatible with Japanese society. Wouldn't it have been much better to learn properly than to actually do work and dominate society?

It is said that women were not given universal suffrage before the war, and it is said that women were discriminated against.However, in the tradition of rice farmers, Japanese men are under the full personal control of their mothers under maternal and child adhesion childcare. Wouldn't it be true to go to the elections to send money with the mother's will? The role of a Japanese man's external patriarch is a papier-mache tiger hiding vulnerabilities.

Japanese society = Unless the mother and mother-in-law who control the core of rice farming society are properly included in the analysis target, it is not always clear at any time that the status of women in Japanese society has traditionally been quite high. Will be. Japanese women scholars eat for tax, so Japan's mother-mother-in-law analysis should be done more properly.

In Japan, the name of the property is often the name of a man, such as a husband, which has been evidence of social male dominance. However, isn't it often the case that my wife and mother are the ones who control the flow of money in real homes? Isn't a Japanese woman who has the authority to manage property possessing a substantially higher social status than a Japanese man who has the property name? Or, assuming that a Japanese man is permanently under the control of his mother, the property is in effect the mother's, and that as long as the mother is a woman, the person who controls the property was a Japanese woman. Is appropriate.

Japanese companies are good at making products with closed specifications and systems that are inaccessible to the outside, but are not good at making products based on open thinking. Or, I'm not good at opening an app development environment. Mobile phones and smartphones are good examples.

The Emperor should be given the freedom of thought to allow the Emperor to get out of symbolism of the country and become involved in political activities as a general Japanese.

This allows the imperial people to retreat from the symbol of the country, become ordinary people, and give them freedom of speech, freeing up the political activities of the imperial people that were not possible before. That's what you do.

I think the Emperor will have more freedom of activities and a more human life.

The symbol of Japan's privatization is the emperors. Japan cannot wipe out the belongings of the people of the Imperial Family.

The source of private and private labor in Japan is the enslavement of the bride's husband to the parents' home by the same name of the married couple, and the ironing by the mother-in-law from the time the bride was awake until she went to bed. Wouldn't it be better if the married couple had different surnames, which would reduce the likelihood of private employment and improve the working conditions of the Japanese?

Today, high-ranking Japanese bureaucrats are being subcontracted by the Cabinet Office's Human Resources Bureau because they are being promoted and assumed the post of life and death.

In the election results, the voting result that Prime Minister Abe's friend's friend's monetary favor Mori Tomokei problem seems to be implied in the future is that preferential treatment for relatives and inside groups and cold treatment for strangers are due to the Japanese village society and It is natural in women's society, and in Japan, such villages and women's society are still the mainstream of society.

We should distinguish between global (universal) male discrimination and local (farmers only) male discrimination. The former is when men are sent to the forefront of the war and die, and the latter are when men are deprived of the power to manage their households at home.

This is true for discrimination against women. There should be a distinction between global (world-wide) discrimination against women (for example, weak muscles) and local (only for nomads and pastoralists) women (for example, not being able to hold a wallet at home).

The fact that only election information is disseminated and disaster information is not dispelled indicates the current constitution of NHK and the Abe administration behind it.

Japanese academics and labor are naturally black because they have to show their motivation and enthusiasm and they have to show diligence to keep working constantly

The significance of gaining women's suffrage in postwar Japan is a remedy for mothers who have only daughters. The mother who gave birth to her son voted under her own hands, so there was no problem if she had no suffrage.

The gender division of labor between men and women is of the same quality as the international nomadism-production division of labor between pastoralists and farmers. Nomads-pastoralists are male and farmers are female.

In the child's learning, □ □□ study for hours = time-based □ Study up to chapter □ today = achievement-based.

In fact, Japanese men and women are mother-in-law.

The authority to authorize whether or not to have sex with the man, the authority to evaluate and assess whether a man is good at sex foreplay, and to determine whether to have sex next time are all held by women, and the Japanese government It is no different from the official who holds the authorization. This is a male-female man and is the same quality as a public-servant.

When anyone can get emergency contraceptives, even if one woman has sex with 100 men in a row, if you drink emergency contraceptives immediately after that, you will finish the miso Initial state = return to chastity state. A woman can control whether or not to conceive completely independently of the intention of a man, and the status of a woman has risen extremely.

With the introduction of emergency contraceptives, women have both sex freedom and preservation of virtue. Freely dating with various men, taking emergency contraceptives and keeping chastity, after evaluating men as a whole, if you have sex with your favorite man and like it, his child will not take emergency contraceptives Can be born.

Regardless of their appearance, women's farming nations are similar. Japan is not much different from China, North Korea and Vietnam. Research on Japanese society requires comparisons with these women's countries, and it is also necessary to elucidate the women's societies on which these countries are based.

If the dispatching company is abolished and the dispatched labor union of workers-based organizations dispatches associate employees to the company, the pins can be eliminated.

For Japanese people, customers = surplus people who give money.

The seniority of Japanese society is based on the year of joining the company, not the actual age. Even young people who joined earlier are treated more senior than older people who came later.

The de facto standard or model of employment in Japanese companies is and still is the employment of civil servants. For Japanese civil servants, lifelong employment and seniority have continued without collapse.

The Japanese government should recognize early that Japan has lost more economically than China and South Korea, and should formulate a strategy to pursue it as soon as possible.

The time will soon come when Japanese Confucian scholars will boil like bamboo shoots after rain.

It is often said that synchronization pressure is strong in Japanese society, but there is a synchronization pressure that a pastoral society like the United States must act individualistically and liberally, otherwise it will be socially obliterated I guess.

In a pastoral society like the United States, it is desirable that everyone behaves simultaneously, uniformly and individually, liberally. In that respect, it also seems to be immersed.

I wonder how much it is worth remembering the names of the rulers and powers in history education.

Japan's move to the Abe administration's parliament revealed that it would or would not move with Western-style liberal democracy. This is because Japan is a female society that is different from the masculine Western countries, and sociologists need to explore how democracy is established in female societies.

Even in the post-war recovery period when there were more children, Westerners pointed out that gender division of labor was causing the declining birth rate because Japanese housewives were raising children. In Japan, where women are taking the initiative in childcare, male childcare leave will not take root.

Japanese male society = mother's son society = real female society.

Japan is dominated by hereditary senior citizens, and the ruling class is no longer replaced. With no new air, Japanese society will continue to stagnate and decline.

The Japanese nation, attracted by world-class powers like Trump and selling aphrodisiacs, is a female style.

I hope that the recognition that Murahachi is a violation of human rights will spread throughout Japan.

Murahachi is a phenomenon that can be seen anywhere in Japan, not only in villages, but is not particularly unusual, as it is synonymous with the word "haburu". That's why this kind of human rights abuses is common in Japanese society. I want you to be gone.

Japanese "work" = "to struggle". A worker's enjoyment of earning income does not mean that he has worked, but is an insult. On the other hand, it is envy and longing for landlords and other capitalists to enjoy and earn income.

Japanese bureaucrats have fallen a rank from those of the emperor's servants to those of royal officials who now have bureaucratic personnel rights.

I think Japanese politics is very similar to Chinese politics in recent years. It is a government's de facto dictatorship, much like synonymous pressure, censorship and surveillance, or China. I think it is the same female farming society.

Looking at the results of elections and the administration of the Diet, and looking at the current state of Japanese politics, it can be said that Japanese are fundamentally lacking in the ability to operate Western-style liberal democracy. It is better to change your policy drastically and study various Chinese politics of similar people in the same female farming community.

The current Japanese education system, which praise high school students for passing the university, is wrong. After employment with a high school graduate, once gaining social experience, only those who need it should receive college education.

I am proud that Japan was or was still a samurai society, so I would like to show it to foreign countries that it is a male-centered society in other countries. I think Japanese people have no choice but to hide the fact that they are women's society.

Can criticize the powerful. There is freedom in action. = Can not criticize male pastoral social powers. I also turn to the power and try to regulate the behavior of the lower level. = Women's farming society

The nationality of Japanese people who heat up and cool down suddenly is related to the fact that rivers in the land are steep and short. In Japan, heavy rain falls, but the water quickly runs down the steep mountains and rivers to the sea. This determines the urgency and shortness of Japanese thinking.

In China, Western Europe and other continental countries facing the big rivers, the flow of the river is slow and lengthened.

To sum up, Japan = a steep small river-type society (thinking and short) Europe and America, China = Taiga-type society (thinking slowly and long).

Steep short river society Japan Long river society China.

Even if you say xx ministry or xx corporation, there is no actual situation like a box of xx ministry or xx corporation. Because there is only a gathering, it is necessary to understand that place in advance.

Japan is a kind of rice farming community widely distributed in East Asia and Southeast Asia. Shosho is similar to China, South Korea and North Korea. At any rate, it is different from Europe and the United States.

Japan's pathetic fallen country is jealous of China's breakthrough and the progress of US-China relations.

I want Japan to be faster in such a society where my husband controls the household finances and child care is led by my husband.

Women go well with dictatorships.

If women's junior and senior high school vehicles were made, it would be popular. Men who are negative to women's vehicles today will also be positive.

There is talk about the spread of Norrepo, an emergency birth control pill for women, but it is, of course, necessary and should be widely distributed every day, from junior high school girls to adult premenopausal women. Needed to make it easier for women to find better mate. On the other hand, it is also important to develop an emergency birth control pill for men that can produce azoospermic semen when taken.

If you publish a book on knowing how to rule a home from a Japanese woman, it might sell around the world.

If you publish a book on knowing social domination from Japanese women, it will be in demand worldwide.

Japanese people make a fuss when they get the Nobel Prize, but they are the worst of Western worship. For the Japanese, science itself is a tool to be recognized in the West.

Social groups include light groups and heavy groups. Lighter groups are easier for members to move around freely, move in and out. In heavy groups, the members are heavy and do not move while sitting down in one place. The lighter groups are nomadic and pastoral societies, and the heavier groups are farmer's societies. Japanese social groups are heavy groups.

People living along riversides or in lowland marshes are less popular. People who live on hills on hills away from the river are more popular. Given the floods and liquefaction caused by earthquakes, people in lower marshes live in poorer and inferior places and have less social status and behavior.

In Japan, the child born is not a property of the mother, a monopoly. It is originally a property of my father. Don't stop mothers from monopolizing the initiative in raising children. It is unfair that custody goes only to the mother at the time of divorce.

Wouldn't it be nice if Insurance Co., Ltd. put out a product called Single Mother Life Insurance? If you divorce a full-time housewife with a child, you can attach your living expenses every month. It seems to be quite useful for women's poverty prevention.

In Japanese feminism, is it true that a mother who gave birth to a son is treated as an honorary man and kicked out of Femi's peers? The mother who gave birth to her son trained her in the female style, joined the "Male Society" as her own puppet, worked as a private servant, and pulled her ass to promote her son. As a result, the male society becomes female due to the influence of the mother.

The mother who gave birth to the son completely controls the Japanese male society via his son. Japanese men are feminizing, and in the more feminine homo-social world, mothers can force feminized behavior.

It's strange that mothers who have boys (future mother-in-laws) are all expelled from the feminist world as "honored men, enemies of Femi". Mother-in-law plays a crucial role in feminizing Japanese society and negating the power of paternity by continuing to unite between son and mother.

In the recession following the collapse of the bubble economy, the government and corporate human resources departments, which have narrowed down on the number of hired people and created the employment ice era, are the biggest bearers of Japan's decline and national difficulties. Take responsibility.

It would be nice if there was a rescue organization union in each area where people in need of living in response to the village split were solidarized. In order to start a new business that transcends the rules of a village, the village is the side that oppresses it. Necessary for the development of Japanese society.

Murahachi is not only found in villages, but also widely found in government offices, companies, school groups, and so on. It's typical for a high school girl to ignore her classmates. Many people will find it helpful to be able to create a social union that collectively rescues isolated people by meeting with the villages in such various places. For example, "Murahachibu Relief Net". I also want to enter.

Japanese parliamentarians should be chosen for merit classy. Carefully check the candidate's abilities in advance so that no incompetent parliamentarians are born, and drop bad candidates at that point. In that regard, high-ranking bureaucrats have successfully passed difficult tests that require fair and intellectual skills.

If members of Parliament are just as relentless as they are now, and if they hold the bureaucratic personnel right at the Cabinet Office Human Resources Bureau, Japanese society will be almost in a fixed status system, and privileged classes including members of parliament will start. It will be a society where all-you-can-exploit lower classes like non-regular employees.

Members of the Diet should be able to use only those who are intelligent and have passed the fairly difficult test. Of course, my educational background is unquestioned.

Looking at the voices and influences of the feminists who are on the rampage on Twitter, the idiots of influence and the way of the net and the media that convey their complaints in a fuss, the appearance of the parties involved in the case that easily succumb to their voices, I once again think that Japan is a female society where the voice of women is extremely strong.

The society will certainly decline and weaken when there are only incompetent parliamentarians. In fact, the signs are apparent in Prime Minister Abe. The time has come for a fair and neutral mechanism to drop incompetent members of the parliament as soon as possible to rebuild Japanese society.

I want to know what the feminist and female scholar factions in Japanese universities are like. I heard that there were Gangwon and Ueno before.

Governments and corporations that have unilaterally decided that the job-hunting ice age generation, who failed to join a new graduate, will no longer be employed permanently as a full-time employee because they are already graduated, are severely guilty of government agencies and companies. The job-aged ice age generation had no choice but to live for non-regular employees with low wages and unstable employment.

When the handling of erotic books at convenience stores is in full swing, all erotic books will be purchased online. Or they will buy it in e-books. The flow of the times. I don't think it will be so inconvenient.

The current situation in Japan is that the vested interests of the country are complicit in the crisis of war with other countries and patriotism in order to keep the underlying people from noticing the aim of further retaining and expanding vested interests. is.

In today's Japan, the feelings of Nihon-Korean and Nikon-Kobe are rampant.

The voters in Japan say that they do not vote "Because Mr. XX has such a political belief and can sympathize", but rather "I vote for Mr. XX who is taking care of his daily work and life because he feels good." Because there are many patterns. Isn't there a lot of voting behavior that is based on a law-in-law instead of empathy based on political beliefs? I have to do this somehow.

What if parliamentarians would have to graduate from former Imperial Universities such as the University of Tokyo and Kyoto University? Or what if you have to pass an exam equivalent to the National Public Career Career Recruitment Exam? Unless you have to be smarter than a certain level, incompetent lawmakers will infest and the parliament will deteriorate.

Japan is an East Asian bully nation. I do not understand the feeling of the bullied side.

The Japanese really value the feeling that the group they belong to feels like a relative of the destined community, with a sense of unity in solidarity responsibility, and that all of them do their best to survive without leaving. What, I saw Love Live. Love Live is a Japanese mirror.

NHK doesn't care about the imperial family, so I want you to get weather information as soon as possible

Japanese boys are full of mother's hopes and desires

The character design of anime becomes more new as the transparency of the eyes increases.

The diplomatic position of Japanese people is classified as follows. It is important to determine which of you and other people apply. Pro-Japan Pro-American Pro-China Pro-Japan Pro-American Anti-China Pro-Japan Anti-U.S. Anti-China Pro-China Anti-Pro-U.S.

Here, anti-Japan refers to the dislike of village society

Rulers use taxes only to extend their interests. Rulers use the judiciary and police only to eliminate those who threaten their interests.

In modern Western European societies, it is natural for a family to be managed by a husband, and in a society managed by a wife, as in Japan, modernization is slow. In order for Japanese society to achieve the real modernization of society as soon as possible, Japanese women should give their husbands the authority to manage their households and receive pocket money from her husband.

Japanese like the outline of an anime that stands up and struggles with the crisis of the family group's survival. Both LoveLive and Girls & Panzers think that the protagonist of the protagonists struggling to prevent their schools from going out of school has created sympathy among viewers.

A symbol of Japan's conservative and unchanging organization, the central government office

The features of LoveLive's singing and dancing are: • Unlimited energy input and release with full power and emphasis on its undulations. -Emphasis on the sense of unity and friendship among members. -Emphasis on the feeling of excitement and excitement in the mood and atmosphere. Is it like this? I enjoy it very much personally, but it is also deeply related to the Japanese view of labor as a private servant.

-Added emphasis on the spirit and aggression of members. He is also involved in Japanese schools' views of club activities and norms of group behavior. The above is the same for LoveLive and LoveLive Sunshine.

When two of them get close to each other in an event, such as a good friend threesome, the other one automatically becomes alienated and loses friends. This is the original form of the village eight minutes. If this estrangement is intentionally created, it becomes a real village octant.

It is a big mistake to think that the village is a phenomenon that can only be seen in traditional rural villages. Intentional disengagement is a phenomenon that is commonly seen in urban areas of schools, companies and government offices in Japan.

In Japanese society, it is difficult for everyone to live if they do not belong to any group or village. The act of intentionally removing this affiliation against the will of the person is Murahachibun.

In Japanese society, even though individuals are forced to act in a group without individual liberty, they do nothing but favor themselves or remove friends inside the group, and the place where they do not think about it is rotten.

In Japanese society, people at the top of the organization do not have to take responsibility if they fail. Probably because it is soaked in Japanese.

In Japanese society, the sense of distance between people and people and objects is too close, and the viewpoint of objects lacks objectivity. Historical revisionism by the right wing is a typical example.

Reverse pyramid society, Japan. It is an unreasonable mechanism that a few lower layers have to support the expanded upper layer with full power. Maybe it will collapse without it.

The human resources department of a Japanese company should stop using high-ranking career bureaucratic personnel systems (recruitment of new graduates, seniority, and lifetime employment) as an example of their own company's personnel system. This is a reason why Japanese companies cannot accept non-regular employees of the ice age generation as full-time employees.

Athletes share that women lose their demand when they get older.

Women look at advertisements for women's cosmetics and beauty treatment salons because they are more likely to show their own physical body. When men try to do the same, they become narcissists.

The University of Tokyo's papermaking and the right-wing historical revisionism are the same root. Run with merit and erase inconvenient facts.

In Japan, 90% of the members of the Diet who have become Prime Ministers are likely to be hereditary, and 50% of Ministers are hereditary. The proportion of people who are hereditary is higher than in other countries, and if they are not members of the parliament, they cannot become Prime Minister. Introduce the same test system to members of the Diet as civil servants, and eliminate hereditary idiots. A hereditary member sets new barriers for politicians to enter agora-web.jp/archives/20276…

The Japanese are too high in pride to appreciate the failures they have made in the past, and when it is inconvenient to run into tampering with history. Japanese history is unreliable.

The fact that Japan has continued to ignore the social rise of China and South Korea has been overtaken by the South Korean society, which they thought was inferior to their own, and that Japan's pride was high and that it was said to China You've done well. "

Forget about school bullying and those who have done it, but remember those who have done it forever. The same is true of bullying between nations and ethnic groups. Forget Japan who has done it, but remember China and Korea who have been. Regarding the Nanjing Massacre and the comfort women, the bullied Chinese and Korean sides would be correct.

Japanese society should place more emphasis on measures for poor mother and child families than on the satisfaction of rich career women.

An organization that is in the middle of an inefficient government office and an over-efficient and money-making company is needed. We need more organizations that are reasonably efficient, make money, and focus on improving the lives of the people. Isn't it possible to use a co-op as a model case?

What kind of feminist treatment will Mrs. Abe receive? You're a housewife, right?

You can collect the men's tax and use it to finance the simultaneous distribution of emergency contraceptives for women.

I hope that the field of self-made notebook PCs that can be assembled by yourself will be established.

Farmers = Mazacon herders = Fazacon.

Conditions for Japan's resurrection, elimination of the inverted pyramid population, elimination of the strong yen, and elimination of the budget deficit.

I think the reason why women are often treated badly in Japanese erotic anime is that they are used as straw dolls so that viewers' men can hit women with grudges that are not always popular.

"Hakuho Tataki" is a typical bullying in Japanese society, hitting outgoing stakes and eliminating foreigners.

In Japan, "respects" are more like mothers than fathers. Japanese mothers are still strong.

Should be saved as a smartphone soshage or cultural property

Bureaucrat privatization by the official residence

What Japanese feminists are doing is appealing for themselves and mounting them to women who are not. Opposition to sexism is just a sign.

Compared to the waste of purchasing weapons from the United States, the total cost of welfare is not much. People in this country are wondering why they are so particular about reducing welfare costs.

Japan's disparity society is imitating the United States.

The Abe administration and the right wing are all in the face of the nation, and look out to foreign countries. That has led to a splintering of good-funded funds to foreign countries. Stop wasting tax. The funds can be used to reduce domestic economic disparities.

A Japanese man is treated like a patriarch even though his wife gives him extra money. Cool w.

If the boss is a boss and the direct boss is a good person, you can spend comfortably, but even if the boss is a good person, the direct boss is a shit. Even if the super government is fucking, those who have good government will be able to spend comfortably, but even those who have good super government will get stuck if the government is fucking.

It seems that there are many non-regular employees in Netoyo. Since non-regular employees are not allowed to be villagers in workplace villages such as government offices and companies, they at least intend to become psychologically integrated with the country and become villagers in the national village. I want you to That's why I'm hungry for inside treatment.

Wouldn't it be great if you could work for yourself without any teachers, with your own trial and error. Above all, you do not have to be dominated by your teacher.

It may be said that a substantive colony in some country is more likely to live than if ethnic, independent and local leaders exercise inhuman oppression. Maybe the relationship between Japan and the United States is exactly that.

Mother-in-law bullying in Japanese society is a form of power harassment and a crime.

If we cut down the cost of welfare for the general public, we must cut down the cost of living for the Emperor.

Shinzo Abe's position is difficult to understand because he is a prime minister, and it is easy to understand if he is a lord.

The senior junior system in Japan, where seniors unconditionally exaggerate juniors and are allowed to do anything, is a violation of human rights and a crime.

The Japanese community practice that indigenous people insist on new people unconditionally and are allowed to do anything is a violation of human rights and a crime.

It is a bad practice in Japanese society to be worried and worried about the workplace where you work from the perspective of a company manager, even though it is a worker.

In Japanese society, family names and surnames are patriarchal, but in terms of power within the family, it is a motherhood system like a pocket money system from a wife to a husband, so it is necessary to avoid confusion.

Workplace villages in Japan are mostly male communities, but it should be more appreciated that each Japanese male is under the strong breath, control, and control of the mother who raised the man, creating a hidden female society.
. Since Japanese men are unconsciously Mazakon, it is important for Japanese men to escape from domination by their mother.

The labor practices of Japanese companies are modeled on Kasumigaseki's central government office. Kasumigaseki is forced to work in a super-black way, such as during the Diet deliberations and budgeting. If Kasumigaseki's black labor practices remain the same, Japanese black companies will not disappear. People working at Kasumigaseki need to be aware of their surroundings.

In Japanese society, the gap between the senior ruling class, which has vested interests and is gained by the villagers, and the lower ruled class, who are not allowed to enter the village and have heavy labor and have a minimum wage, are increasing. If the gap widens further, a rebellion or revolution will surely occur.

The Japanese media who try to suppress the criticism by harmonizing immediately with the powerful people and trying to suppress criticism is a female style

The Japanese should start exploring the reasons for the breakthrough in China and Korea now! Reversal is possible.

The long-term appreciation of the yen due to the Plaza Agreement and the thorough transfer of manufacturing overseas have caused the poor Japanese people. I wish I had done a social movement to dismiss the Plaza Accord, but the fear of Europe and the United States that nobody did was the plight of Japan today.

The strong yen weakened the competitiveness of Japan's export industry, promoted the transfer of employment overseas, lost all employment in Japan, and failed to rely on domestic demand. The Japanese government should have acted as if pretending to depreciate the yen, but instead led to a stronger yen due to fiscal consolidation, and Japan's national power declined.

I think women who are full-time housewives are particular about maintaining the social system of lifelong employment in Japan.

As a result of Japan's self-promotion of its country as an economic powerhouse and a wealthy country, Japan was thoroughly funded by vultures from around the world, mainly in Western countries, and became a poor state with no money Nevertheless, he is still gorgeous and continues to pursue money abroad and buy expensive weapons from the United States. It's a stupid country.

For the mainland of Japan, the U.S. Army is a subordinate nation, while Okinawa is a subordinate nation. The mainland Japanese are women-oriented, helping the strong and defeating the bearish society, so they defend the US military for mismanagement and hit the damaged Okinawans.

It's very bad that liberalism has become an ideology for the rich. More attention should be paid to the freedom needed by the poor to escape poverty, and to the freedom workers need to escape forced and precarious work. Because the freedom that Japan lacks.

Mother-in-law, his son, and daughter-in-law bullying and snoring violate human rights.

Having a good-looking prime minister is hard on the people.

Japanese man before marriage to Japanese woman: please let me do. Please. After marriage: Please give me money. Please.

If local governments crush the marginal settlements, install large-scale solar panels instead, sell the generated power to electric power companies, and contribute the money to the local government's financial income, it will be various benefits. .

The uncompetitiveness of Japanese companies is related to seniority and lifetime employment, the fact that they have many older, well-paid managers who have to pay large salaries. Young employers are paying off.

The problem is that when they fire the elderly, there is no place for reemployment with other companies. There are various reasons why people are not hired because they don't need the elderly because they have too much in their company or because they can only be hired as managers. If you solve this, you can see the way.

At first glance, Japan's workplace seems to be a fateful community, but in fact, if you leave for a period of three years, such as the central government office, you will be dismissed and kicked out. In short, Japanese workplaces are cold-cutting villagers if they consider them ill or useless. In that respect, it is a time-limited community, not a lifelong one.

Bochan is sweet, selfish, self-centered and does not understand the hearts and weaknesses of the people. Quit at last.

Japanese elections are family-supported, not controversial. On the surface, it looks like they are making a policy dispute with a dress, but the fact is that `` I will vote for Mr. XX who is usually taken care of and let them induce profit to themselves '' That's it.

It is necessary to take measures to pass the large profits of multinational companies to the employment ice age generation.

Japan, a country that cannot or cannot eliminate free criticism of the powerful and ruling classes

The Japanese think that they lost to the United States in the previous war, but they did not lose to China and South Korea in particular, but rather they would have won if not even the United States. Therefore, the United States treats supermarkets as supermarkets, sells them, and follows Pekopeko.

For the Japanese, the victory of China and South Korea in the previous war was a tanabota victory brought by the participation in the United States, and China and South Korea were actually delayed and weak and losing to Japan, Japan said. I have been thinking. Therefore, Japan cannot acknowledge that China and Korea have recently lost economic policy.

Every human being wants to express his opinion at the bottom of his heart. I hate the appearance of people who go against my opinion.

In Japan, even the same liberals need to be distinguished between A, a Europeanist villager liberal B, and a hidden liberal who dislikes the inconvenience of Japanese village society. I guess Japanese sociologists often have A. Because we are B, we are treated as a village.

The significance of the existence of persons with disabilities is considered to contribute to ensuring the diversity of human genes. Alive alone is significant.

Japanese Femis work hard to appeal to their chaste.

Rich people hate being taxed. She has a lot of money, and even if she is taken a little, her life isn't particularly affected, but she struggles to evade taxes and work hard to increase her assets.

The first successful case made by the United States and Europe has been primarily filtered in Japan and sold with further perfection in China and South Korea. Successful cases are flowing directly to China and South Korea without going through Japan, and Japan's position is declining.

Maternal behavior and Nihonmura social behavior wear.

Dad's shadow does not flicker in the behavior of Western feminists.

Human beings want to make up and down relationships, superior and inferior relationships. Ladies and women are all desperate for mounting while prying with equality.

It is a power harassment for Japanese seniors to unconditionally impose a junior / senior relationship on their juniors, and human rights abuses.

Human beings can have a dominance and subordination relationship in any country at any age. Even if the current government ruler is defeated, only the next ruler-subordinate relationship by the next government ruler will be newly created. Or, preservation of dominance-subordination is performed by replacing the head of the superficial ruler.

If welfare allowances are cut, a large number of people will be unable to live, and they will be robbed and their security will deteriorate. If you want security and order in society, don't cut your living expenses.

Instagram is a place to look good.

The best countermeasure for the declining birth rate in Japan is to give priority to those of the right-marriage age group, who do not have enough money, to get married. The declining birthrate will not be solved with the current politics and administration, which sends money only to the elderly and the wealthy.

A Japanese man is a tool for the self-realization of a Japanese mother. That is why Japanese government offices and corporate workplace villages, which are often referred to as the male society, become women.

The depreciation of the yen is Japan's revival.

If you say Japan = female Japan = farmers, it is the same as saying Japan = China and South Korea, so you are disliked by Japanese.

The ruling class of Japanese society is a double hereditary system consisting of the emperor system and members of parliament.

Workplace villages in Japan require continuous affiliation. If the affiliation has a blank, it will not be entered.

I think it's interesting as a social experiment that a woman does what a man occupies and a man does what a woman occupies. It should be a good time to summarize which was successful, which failed, and why.

It is a wrong idea for children to think that children are innocent and ignorant, as children are determined to be weak and selfish, and if adults do not teach, they can not do anything right. Children will break new boundaries in adult knowledge through new science that adults do not know. This is a generational change, but it is not realized in Japan, where seniors and juniors work.

When they return home, they return to their parents' home, a place that is a fundamental part of Japanese village society. That is where my mother is waiting.

If you give your own opinion, there will always be people in the human society who have the opposite opinion (religionists and atheists) and hate speeches for them. Any opinion or claim can be a hate speech.

Do not believe in the contents of social studies in Japanese education. It is convenient for the US and the Meiji Restoration.

Just because the current administration is shit, defeating the administration and becoming shit again in the next administration is because human beings are shit in the first place. The fucking regime's loop will repeat forever.

Looking at Abe's actions, she thinks again that she is a living creature.

Japan's feminism is a society where women are strong and women desperately imitate societies.

People of the Ice Age generation in Japan are full-time employees! You should do a social movement.

Japan is the result of imitating the disparity society America with all its power

As the privileged class of descendants who inherited the flow of the government army (Satsucho Toi) of the Meiji Restoration became more and more private and decayed, the power to lift the Tokugawa family and rebuild the Edo shogunate It is expected to come out.

The last authority in Japanese society is the mother of a Japanese man / Japanese woman who holds a high social position.

For multinational companies and their shareholders who make enormous profits, taxing them at the UN level and distributing them to the poorer countries would all help.

The fact that railroad nerds are ridiculed in Japanese society is an indication that Japanese society is female. Japanese society is covered by the female ideology that people who are interested only in machines and systems but not humans are disqualified from humans.

The centralized policy of central Tokyo in the office, which overcrowded the commuter trains in the Tokyo metropolitan area, has caused close contact between passengers in the trains, which has caused many molesting damages. If you want to eliminate pervert damage, you should stop the central Tokyo centralized policy of the office.

Discrimination against train geeks is discrimination against men.

As a general rule, if you have graduated from a high school or university in March and as of April 1 you are not a "newcomer" as a relative of any government office or company, you will be treated as a "foreigner" from anywhere in your life It is the starting point of the Japanese village society that you can no longer get it.

In the Japanese village society, the principle of job change is to move from one village to another, and if you are not affiliated with any village or have left a village and have no time blank, They are not allowed to enter the village.

Japanese villages are ideally "mother's nostalgia", but in reality, they are often blackish "sister-in-laws".

Japanese village society loves dictatorship

Non-regular employee discrimination in Japan is non-villain discrimination

The traditional pattern of a Japanese village society in which the internal situation of an organization is immediately reported to the outside without consulting the inside without being consulted by the inside, is crushed by barrage from other insiders. , It was also specified. Moreover, the standard Japanese seem to have the shoulders of the Sumo Association, which is eerie again.

Japan has always been a villager dynasty

In every developed nation in Europe and the United States, husbands hold the wallet of their household budget. Japan, where his wife holds the wallet of a household budget, is late. Japanese people should be as quick as their Western counterparts to have their husbands hold the wallet of the household budget.

The Japanese try to make money secretly, but if others try to make money, they pull their feet with all their might.

I don't think the employment practice of collective recruitment of new graduates in Japan has changed much from the employment practices of merchants such as merchants in the Edo period.

Today Japan has become a theme park where you can relive the atmosphere of the pre-war Japanese Empire.

Making the men's bath visible from the women's bath, the women's bath from the men's bath, and both, would help reduce the birthrate in Japanese society.

The most profitable part of a Japanese company's lifetime employment system is the full-time housewife of the employer. You can get an ATM without any effort.

Science is the act of legally destroying existing precedents, traditions, and authority over new discoveries. Let's all work more in science.

China = married couple surname Korea = married couple surname, Vietnam = married couple surname. It appears when you search the net for "surname by xx name".

Thailand = Married couple's surname, married couple's surname, or creation of a new surname.

Malaysia = last name uses father's first name Indonesia = no last name First name only. Philippines = Married couple. The wife gives her husband's surname after marriage and uses his wife's maiden name as the middle name. Japan = same name of the couple. The wife gives her husband's last name after marriage. No middle name.

Murahachibun is everywhere in Japan. I hate it.

Rather than regret living with the Japanese people, I think that it would be more satisfying to live a little lonely and convinced life.

In Japan, 60% of wallet straps are still held by their wives. It is a human rights violation for her husband. Immediately improve the rate that the husband holds.

Japanese society is ignored by the standard Japanese when claiming that it is a type of rice farming society spread over East Asia, that it is a traditional village society, or that a man is dominant but after all it is a strong female society with a mother. Why?

Japan is a society where raising children is an obstacle. The workplace village treats employees raising children as disturbing. Parents are disturbed by the presence of children who need childcare. The birthrate is falling.

Tea fetching by women, such as Japanese companies, is a demonstration that women have the authority to distribute and supply water in society, and women have a high power and status in Japanese society where rice cultivation and irrigation are important. A manifestation of the thing. This is a common culture of East Asian rice farmers.

Humans become more greedy when they get rich.

It is important to note that the villagers of the work and school villages, where mothers send their children as human resources, are under the psychological control of their mothers for generations. The rule of children by mother is the basis of the rule of Japanese society by women.

The method of Japanese women's social domination, in which mothers raised their children in the process of raising children while disciplining them personally so that they listened to their mother and child closely and dominated, maintaining that condition Achieved by continuing to send children to work and school villages as talent.

It is necessary to investigate how the psychology of Japanese villagers who do not allow blanks in their workplace histories is generated. This is at the root of unsuccessful job hunting for the Ice Age generation, and is also a reason why women who once retired from their work village due to marriage and childbirth do not progress to reemployment as full-time employees.

The reason that Japanese women's wages are low is largely due to the historical blank problem. The root of the problem lies not in discrimination against women but in the social practice of old Japanese workplace villages that does not allow affiliation blanks.

I believe that the failure to appoint a generation of employment ice age generation as a formal member, and a loss of intergenerational transmission of business know-how, and the inability to inherit it, are the root causes of the decline of Japanese companies. New technologies born in Europe and the United States are going directly to China and South Korea without going through Japan, which is also the cause of the decline of Japanese companies.

Since workplace villages in Japan are not too late to curb the decline, non-regular employees of the employment in the ice age should be selected by measuring their potential to hire full-time employees so that they can transfer their business know-how. The work of regular employees in Japanese workplace villages is treated as a generalist anyway, and there is no need to focus on specialty, so there should be no problems.

Rather than trying to analyze Japanese society using European and American social theory, it would be much more accurate and efficient to analyze Japanese society based on the principle of village society as a farming agricultural society.

The current way of human society is to gather site information in the central management department, formulate a strategy, and issue commands to the site, but if the central management department can not make a strategy well like the old Japanese army, I will. I need another way.

If you want to watch the video while sleeping on a futon, you can use a combination of a smartphone, glasses that fix the smartphone in front of you, and a wireless gamepad that can be operated without looking.

A protest against Japan by a South Korean comfort woman said to the Japanese, "Don't talk to the weak, whatever you do from the strong, stay silent. Don't be weak." It's contrary to the temperament's temperament, so I guess it's going to reverse the Japanese nerves. So I hate Japan.

Women who are noisy for their age and more concerned about their age. Women are more oriented towards protection, security and stability. The combination of the two creates the psychology of Japanese seniority. The older and more experienced, the more precedents and customs they bring for protection, safety and stability, and rank them higher in society. Japan's seniority is female.

Japan's right wing, which is at risk of China's invasion of Japan, lacks wisdom.

Japan is in a military occupation after the US invasion has been completed. The United States is in the same state as the invading nation. In this state, China's invasion of Japan is virtually the same as invading the United States, so China will not invade Japan for the time being given its risks.

The closer to the earth, the higher the position. The stronger = the closer to the agricultural sky, the higher the position.

Japanese women lose to men in the physical world due to their strength, but since the handicap has disappeared on Twitter on the Internet, they do not show their ferocious nature. Nerd male beating by feminist.

From the gender differences between the sexes of men and women, it can be read that sky orientation = high center of gravity, top = masculine, earth orientation = low center of gravity, and bottom = feminine.

Japanese railways and high-speed buses should not only link the region with Tokyo, but also link the region with the region. If the current concentration of Tokyo remains the same, if Tokyo collapses, everything will be lost. It is better to avoid the risk by dispersing routes as in the Internet. It also leads to decentralization.

Liberal = rich Uyo = poor.

The Emperor's family reigns at the pinnacle of Japanese family companies. More sociological clarification on the management of Japanese family companies is needed. It is important to know the behavior of the ruling class in Japanese society. Employees of family companies are fired if they go against family business owners.

Civil servants and oligopolistic private sector employees are similar. No competition, inefficient and expensive. It is necessary to bring the principle of competition into the work of civil servants. If you can bring it, you do not need privatization. Even if it is private, it will be inefficient if it becomes oligopolistic.

Japan hates East Asia and is uncomfortable in East Asia. Europeanism is its manifestation.

It should be noticed that rice farming societies similar to Japanese village societies are widely distributed in East and Southeast Asia, and that Japanese village societies are not unique to Japan. I hope that Japanese sociologists will not ignore the universality of village societies in East and Southeast Asia.

LINE is very useful as a traditional rigging and rigging tool for Japanese village society.

I am grateful that any midnight anime will always be broadcast on some BS channel. Required to eliminate regional disparities in late-night anime viewing. Most of the work is done on BS11, which is very helpful, but there are some works that can only be done on the terrestrial channel.

Even Amazon has gained momentum by selling any minor book in a long-tailed way that can be searched almost anywhere at any time. I hope that the same can be achieved with late-night anime in Japan.

In fact, I would be grateful that all late-night anime works will be available semi-permanently and semi-permanently anytime, anywhere with a fixed price.

Men build social systems based on the logic of right or wrong. Women build social systems based on their likes or dislikes. Japan has a social system based on the latter feelings. So female.

Good wife Kenmo of Japan is male discrimination. A wife who holds the authority to manage households. A mother who keeps her son for a lifetime.

The Japanese should be more aware of the impenetrable barrier between herders and rice farmers.

Until the manufacturing industry returns to Japan, it seems to be surprising at low wages

Those who try to refute against critics of themselves = democracy Those who block against critics of themselves = dictators

What if you set up a university graduation equivalency test to measure students' ability to be required by university graduates and to use it as a public indicator of how well they have the ability to graduate? The content of the examination should be equivalent to that of the National Civil Service Recruitment Examination of the National Personnel Authority. It is better to be able to receive it without going to college.

Seniority in Japanese society, senior junior system is female.

Synchronization pressure in Japanese society to adjust personal behavior to the surroundings is female.

The religion of Japanese society is female.

A Japanese man's senior loves his junior, a female style.

Seniority and junior seniority seem to be a universal pattern of behavior in rice-farming societies not only in countries affected by Confucianism, such as China, Korea and Vietnam, but also in Thailand, the Philippines, and East and Southeast Asia.

In today's world society, the wealth of the world is concentrated on managers, employees, and shareholders of multinational corporations, and all those who cannot participate in the flow of that wealth become poor. A UN-level agency should levy a tax on the interests of multinational corporations and create a mechanism to send money to disadvantaged people around the world.

Whatever you do, it is a characteristic of Japanese society and women's society that they are all colored. If it is feminism, it will be colored with radical feminism, and it will try to attack and crush it by bringing the owner of another color (such as Neorib). It's ferocious, unforgiving, irresistible, and the essence of women is like this.

I guess it would be better to use the name of national villages rather than the Diet. Since the Europeanization of the Japanese village society has not been successful, the villagers have to do their own ideas to improve the village society itself. Social systems and laws are created to make villages more liveable.

Japanese politicians and scholars are eager to change Japan, but as long as Japanese society is a village based on rice farmers, its essence and livelihood will not change. First, the politicians who claim are the villagers themselves.

I think it is the mission of Japanese sociologists to list the strengths and weaknesses of their village societies from an objective point of view, and to come up with ideas on where to improve them to create a better village societies. I'm just doing defense. They are also villagers.

We have given up on adapting to the Japanese village community. For a while, it's a high spectacle.

The Japanese Diet has been renamed the National Village, the Prefectural Assembly has been renamed the Prefectural Village, and the City Council has been renamed the Ichimura Village.The system has also been adapted to the actual way of village consolidation. He wants to make use of his strengths and solve the shortcomings, but he is stuck with a Western-style look and malfunctions.

The rise in stock prices in the United States and Japan is due to the good performance of multinational corporations of American and Japanese nationalities, not to the good economic conditions in the United States and Japan.

Prime Minister Abe is in a position similar to his former Tokugawa. Below the emperor, above the officials. The establishment of the Cabinet Office Human Resources Bureau has had an effect (formerly, the emperor and officials were directly linked up and down). He is a shogun and a lord.

In Japan, the number of discs sold is sluggish for animations in which fights and conflicts within relatives and friends continue to take shape. A typical example of this is "Summer Color Kiseki" a few years ago or "Tsukaa" last season. Japanese people seem to like the situation where their relatives and friends are integrated on the surface, or it is ideal.

Japanese companies accumulate retained earnings because they used to lend to banks. To improve the situation, it is necessary to change the radical nature of Japanese banks.

With the development of automatic translators using artificial intelligence, it will be possible to communicate with people in other languages without having to learn so much. It seems to be unnecessary than I thought English learning.

In the case of Japan, it might be considered a joint democracy. Against the parliamentary democracy of Western pastoralists.

By providing electronic support for the coalition, Japan might be able to achieve democracy, which was impossible with the parliamentary system. The subject is negotiating and rigging.

I wish there was a liberal socialist society. Neolibe is too free-competitive and undercooked, making it hard for socially deprived people like us. I want a safety net. I don't like the lack of freedom of expression like China.

There is a connection society that works with the mediation of those who know, a connection society that moves with a connection, and a contract society that moves with a sudden contract with a stranger. Japan is the former and the United States is the latter.

Women compete and struggle with each other to marry the desired man, choosing the winner, the more capable and stronger. Sex with the incompetent men who have become losers and never try to marry. Unmarried men = incompetent men who have lost their lives. This is an unusual view of men as seen by women.

The world is a generalized, universalized female society.

Regarding the possibility of the alternative surname system, Japanese government offices and companies require employees to have a pseudo-family sense of unity, but their surnames are replaced, and there is no particular need to identify surnames. This means that family members can have a sense of unity as a family, even if they have different surnames.

Japanese women should be more aware that they are strong and rulers of society. It's because we are strong people that Japanese femis loudly and hysterically make various changes in Japanese society.

It seems that Japanese homes are reddish in color, and Western homes are bluedish in color. It's in a book by Hideaki Chitiwa. Considering that red represents a woman and blue represents a man in the toilet at amzn.asia/8YhecBm, Japanese families are red, female and mother-strong, Western households are blue and male and father-strong. It is a lie that Japanese families are patriarchal.

In Japan, eliminating the age limit for the National Public Service Examination will lead to the appointment of permanent employment in the ice age generation. National government officials are a model for hiring private companies. This should eliminate the irrational full-time recruitment system of new graduate recruitment.

It seems that this has already been implemented in Korea, and Japan is behind.

Japan's exchange rate information tells us the dollar yen, but not the yuan. Is n’t that bad?

The society where the image of the Virgin and Child is strong is the female style. Russian or typical.

When a Japanese man gets married and has children, he can become a patriarch if the mother and child are separated.

Netoyo in Japan is very victimized by other countries. It's a woman style.

Since North Korea has nuclear weapons, Japan of the same yellow race and rice farming society will also have nuclear weapons. As a companion.

The mystery of mankind is that human society is functioning and working around for some reason, even though each individual who is originally self-centered is merely working to satisfy his own desires.

Japan has transformed from a bureaucratic dictatorship to an official dictatorship.

What is needed for Japanese social analysis is a mother-centered view of society.

If you want to eliminate gender discrimination between men and women, you have to stop making toys for boys and toys for girls separately, or do not eliminate making toys for boys and girls.

It seems that feminists are actively discussing the long-awaited theories of women-only towns, but we look forward to seeing a town free from the constraints of Japanese village society. I wish there was a town where hidden individualists and liberals could easily live without interfering with each other.

In order to revitalize society at all times, it is necessary to eliminate the fixation of the social class and secure the mobility of the social class. There is a need for a social mechanism that turns poor, poorly-served upper classes into lower classes, and turns competent middle- or lower-class people into higher classes. In today's Japanese society, it is impossible to revitalize competent non-regular employees who cannot become regular employees.

Even seemingly useless people with disabilities have genes that can help humanity in times of crisis, and can exert power in the event of a human crisis. In that regard, the genes of all people, including the disabled, should be obtained and stored. People with disabilities are well worth living. In that respect, disabled people also function functionally in society.

Adult drinks of the bean family, along with black coffee, are unadjusted soy milk. The taste is very difficult to drink as it is, but if you use it with chocolate or sweet buns, the taste is mellow and easy to drink.

It is necessary to distinguish between family relationships, masculine relationships, and feminine relationships. In quasi-family societies, such as Japanese companies and government offices, people tend to have a deep relationship with each other, but this is because they are treated as families, albeit quasi-female. It is necessary to distinguish whether they are acting under a unified pressure.

The problem with Japan's mainstream radical feminism is that it's close to religion, and scientific rationale and persuasion don't work for those who follow it.

Just as Japanese government offices and companies operate with maternal pseudo-family, government offices and companies such as Western Europe and North America may also operate as paternity pseudo-families.

I wonder if Abe wants to change the constitution at all. I forcibly ignored all the inconveniences (such as the Moritomo Kake Gakuen issue) for the constitutional reform and forced the people to make a constitutional reform momentum (with a view of China and North Korea), and the results of the constitutional reform were used in the future. I want to leave it in I just want to run to the constitutional change.

In Japan, Femi and housewife have better social status, but they are actually housewives. The behavior of Mrs. Abe's wife is clear at a glance.

Femis in Japan often abuse and beat Japanese men not to do housework, but in fact, I want to beat my mother's full-time housewife who has taken care of all the surroundings of Japanese men. But that would break the solidarity and unity of women and create a conflict between women and women, so it would not be possible. Very annoying for Japanese guys.

Nippon Femi is based on a low-money career woman who has to work and earn a salary. A full-time housewife, on the other hand, has her ATM turned into an ATM even if she doesn't work by herself, so she can put her life into her favorite hobbies, etc., and she has an overwhelming advantage over Femi. I want to know what the social movement of Japanese housewives against Femi is. Housewives?

The lack of liquidity in Japanese employment is because employment is a pseudo-family system. It is difficult to enter and exit because of the restrictions like a quasi-kin.

The problem of train molesting in the Tokyo metropolitan area is caused by the construction of packed trains where men and women are in close contact with each other, and I think that the government's policy of excessively concentrating offices in central Tokyo is the root cause.

Japanese feminism, which enemies Japanese men, has been used as an excuse to justify that Japanese women cannot marry and have no descendants under severe economic conditions. They are the Japanese government and the Guru, whose mismanagement has created a state of marriage for Japanese men and women.

If you create a town for women only, you will be in a full-blown female society.

It will be all-you-can-flow, such as rumors and gossip, but is it OK?

China's behavior can be easily understood as a huge female behavior.

For a Japanese man, a Japanese woman (mother and mother-in-law) deprives a Japanese man of paternity (lifelong maternal and child cohesion and mother-in-law control of her son) and weakens the social position of the Japanese man (Japanese man spends pocket money). It is a perpetrator who is content with the system and creates a cause of being alienated from the family by turning it into an ATM).

The crime of a Japanese woman (mother, mother-in-law) forcing a Japanese man into a villager is heavy.

In that respect, Japanese men are victims of Japanese women (mother and mother-in-law). The reason that a Japanese man is psychologically dependent on a Japanese woman is a mother and mother-in-law who take care of the surroundings of a Japanese man and do nothing without a Japanese woman in life. It is.

In the case of one-sided dependence, the dependence is weaker, but in the case of interdependence, if the degree of dependence is 50:50, it is practically independent. In other words, it means that they can become independent while relying on them, and it can be said that the idea of alternative or independent is wrong. Essentially, women's independence is of this interdependence type.

Feminism in Europe and the United States, and the Japanese feminism of its dead copy, assume only independent independence without any dependence on women's independence, but this is masculine independence and a disadvantageous type for women. It is self-reliance. Feminism should aim for interdependent independence.

It seems that the lyrics of the song "Because I'm Mom" are flooding criticism for beautifying the mother's self-sacrifice too much, but in the first place a Japanese mother is united with her child and instructs the child, via the child At first glance, the lyrics seem to be a self-sacrifice to the children because they dominate Japanese society, but in reality, they are songs of children's domination, and eventually Japanese know-how.

Arabs have conflicting characteristics at the blood level and the land level.

In Arabs, there seems to be emphasis on relations.

Arabs are liquid when blood is related, but gas when nomads are thin.

China and South Korea are farmers' societies where society is based on blood relations, and both blood and land relations are liquid. However, unrelated persons are treated as strangers (gas-like).

Japan is an agricultural civil society that puts unrelated people into pseudo-related relationships, isn't it the most liquid?

The lack of discretionary labor in Japan suggests that Japanese people have a strong desire to determine how to work based on the length of working hours. Baseball is an American colonial sport.

By enthusiastic about baseball, Japanese people have pledged their psychological loyalty to the United States.

I think that Japanese husbands become flarymen because their homes do not have their place. Husbands are homes occupied by wives and children and are alienated within the homes. Unless this is resolved, it is meaningless for the wife to criticize her husband for not doing housework and childcare.

It is better for Japanese left-wingers to have more awareness that they are villagers. The left-wing Japanese people are constantly evoking the Japanese and American social systems such as the Japanese Constitution and undermining the Japanese village social system. Couldn't you be free from factional oneness?

Japanese people have a tendency to ignore themselves when they are called villagers. You don't want to be reminded that you are a villager and that your usual remarks are an exposure of the inner circle of your village.

In Japan, when a couple buys real estate, it seems that the wife's decision is mainly on which property to buy. This is a sign of female dominance in Japanese society, and discrimination against men.

In Japan, rather than telling the truth, social adaptation is more important to tell the same content to the surroundings and superiors. If you tell the truth, you will not be able to live in the village. This is exactly what is happening in the Japanese Ministry of Finance today.

Since the opening of Japan, Japan has been strongly obsessed with the concept of "don't commit adultery" in Western Christianity in terms of gender. Both men and women are dyed in a trend that regards sex as something they don't want to hate. It needs to be released from there. You need a perspective that regards sex as fun and positive.

The Japanese strongly believe that Japan must escape from the East Asian state and become Western. This feminism was applied to gender relations in Japan, concealing and denying the current state of mother-in-law rule in East Asia, saying that "Japan is patriarchal" and "women are discriminated against." Insist and aim for assimilation to the West.

The society where the child should be with the father and the father should raise the child is the patriarchal society, and the society where the child should be with the mother and the mother should raise the child is a motherhood society. Japan is supposed to be the latter, but all Japanese argue that "Japan is patriarchal."

To change the education of elementary, junior high and high schools in Japan, you must change the subjects and problems of university entrance examinations around the University of Tokyo and Kyoto University.

There is no Western-style democracy or freedom in Japan today, and it will remain in the future.

There are only government (official residences, bureaucrats) dictatorships.

In the first place, it is impossible to apply the norms of the pastoral society to the rice farming society.

During sex, it would be useful for both men and women to know what percentage of the time they had before reaching their sexual climax by measuring their brains.

Given the thigh exhibition and the fact that human beings are a kind of living thing and both men and women love sexual stimulation, it should be held naturally. When both men and women are sexually excited, the surroundings become invisible and the calmness is lost, so it is only necessary to consider the same way as placing 18 prohibited books in a town bookstore.

It is against the freedom of research to study the psychological and social gender differences between men and women through scientific proof experiments and to avoid the tendency to avoid gender discrimination. It's just a repression of freedom and an unscientific attitude.

If Abe is forced to resign, he is sure to be treated as a criminal and imprisoned. So I'm sure I'm strongly committed to not resigning anything.

Gender relations are not universal and global. Just because a man or father is strong in Europe and the United States because of the patriarchal system does not mean that it applies to East Asia like Japan. The social gap between herders with strong fathers and farmers with strong mothers is larger than the Japanese can imagine. In East Asia, women and mothers are strong.

Because Japan is a U.S. nation, it can only criticize China.

Pro-molecule segregation is the root of various evils in Japanese society.

It is human rights abuses for the child to be dependent on his boss and to be obedient.

It seems that the owners and workers of black companies can also be seen in terms of parent molecules.

The idea that the emperor and the prime minister are bosses and the people are bosses seems to be strong.

It is ideal for human society to wander through the capitalist phase, which is free but prone to inequality, and the socialist phase, where freedom is restricted but inequality is easy to correct. Rather than fixing society to either capitalism or socialism, it is better to let them experience each other.

Liberal phases can be described as gaseous behaviors and social phases can be described as liquid behaviors.

Capitalism may be called liberal, and socialism may be called social. It is recommended that the liberal phase and the social phase be cycled around as needed in society, and that the distortions in each phase be corrected in another phase.

Japanese society is licking the international community. Seniority-based seniority violates the human rights of young people, employs slaves for life, and prevents solidarity between workers and employees beyond the company.

Immediate elimination of the parental divide between managers and employers that covers black companies. The biggest challenge of black labor is forcing employers to become exiled private services for managers.

Japan's society should be quickly changed to a society that does not move due to parental segregation.

It seems that many people say that the lunch price of Fujii's six-stage shogi is "too expensive", but this is a good example of the Japanese village society being struggling with a teacher-teacher system. It's ridiculous that the apprentice shouldn't ask for a higher meal than the teacher.

When I see Mr. Abe who is doing various things thoroughly protected, I think that the status of Japanese women is high.

Elimination of private servants in workplace villages will lead to the happiness of Japanese families and will be a decisive factor in preventing the falling birthrate.

To do so, it is necessary to eliminate the parent-molecule segregation between employers and workers in the workplace.

Those who are breathing that they will defeat the great evils of Japanese politics should think about what to do after the great evils fall. If you don't think about radical measures to make sure that the successor's power doesn't become another big evil again, you'll repeat it.

If Abe resigns, Japan may return from the official dictatorship to a bureaucratic dictatorship.

Both Prime Minister Abe and Finance Minister Aso will continue to behave as they please, without being resigned, protected by the gatekeepers and the clan.

Abe's pride in being in power is partly due to the people who overwhelmingly voted for the LDP in the previous national election.

The strength of the clan in the privileged class of Japanese society is evidence that Japan is a female society. Male discrimination has also been linked.

The parent-numerator system in Japan is a female style system that is an extension of the mother-child relationship. Anyway, the boss and the child must have a sense of psychological unity and synchrony. Treasury officials appear to regard themselves as bosses of Abe's boss, demonstrating that the prime minister and officials are villagers in a traditional female farmer society.

I think this allegation reminded me at home and abroad that there are born and privileged people who are allowed to do anything in Japan.

In the former bureaucratic era, the minister of politicians often took responsibility for resigning if there were any missteps in government offices, and I think that bureaucrats were often intact. After resigning, the politicians in the official residence seemed to be reversed, leaving them intact. https://t.co/LDLGPfFfSk

Japanese women call patriarchy the way their father, who is worried about his beloved daughter, intervenes and interferes in various ways with her daughter's life. In fact, in Japanese families, fathers have less power than mothers, so they cannot be called patriarchs.

I think that there is a parent numerator system that compares the relationship between bosses and subordinates to a parent-child relationship, but it is divided into a paternal parent numerator system and a maternal parent numerator system. I think that the Japanese parent molecule is maternal because it seeks a sense of unity and synchrony.

In order to strengthen the power of Japanese men, it is necessary to introduce monotheism, a paternal religion. Christianity was once oppressed and Japanese people have rejected it, but Islam would be fine.

Because the Japanese village society is a woman farmer in rice cultivation, in order for Japanese men to become stronger, it is necessary to read not a book on "Why are men discriminated" but a book on "Why are pastoral men strong" .

Under the Abe administration, it has been found that Western-style democracy does not function properly in Japan, so it is necessary to devise a new democracy suitable for Japanese village society. You should refer to China and South Korea, whose constitutions are similar.

Japanese government offices and companies should demand a new type of full-time employee that is not a traditional parental numerator and 100% private servant. It is necessary to be able to move freely between different companies, not be forced to synchronize around and stay overtime, and to establish a professional union instead of a corporate union. All employees should be regular employees and the concept of non-regular employees should be abolished. In the current Japanese government offices and companies, only regular employees who have the same segregation of parental numerators and 100% private servants are unlikely to continue to change to the standard, but I think that is already the limit. A new employee image is needed.

The devaluation of regular employees by Japan Post is intended to psychologically separate regular employees from non-regular employees and is not at all tolerated.

In the Japanese village society, it has been fairly common for a long time since the opening of the Joetsu Shinkansen to the hometown of Tanaka Kakuei in terms of favors and convenience for relatives. It may be a tradition of village society to think only about the interests of relatives and not

There is jealousy of public servants behind Japanese insist on promoting privatization of government offices.

Negative thoughts of privatizing and dragging into the same treatment as themselves appear and disappear.

In the Japanese village society, if the individual villages have great mutual exclusivity and closeness, and if you have good relatives in your own village, you do not know the stranger, you do not need to help, the stranger thinks that you can manage it yourself Is at the root of self-responsibility. The concept of public assistance or social welfare is not fundamentally understood. The same applies to welfare recipients.

If there is no difference between the treatment and the number of years of employment between regular employees and non-regular employees, the process of becoming a full-time employee who is struggling to select new graduates will no longer be meaningful. Collective recruitment of new graduates that was delayed in Galapagos in Japan should be lost as soon as possible. It is necessary to eliminate the stupid social customs of Japan, where the life after that is decided by the timing of a new graduate.

I watched the scene of harvesting cabbage in the Kanto cabbage cultivation area on TV, but when I heard that I would help out during the busy harvest season, I felt like I

By uniting, identifying, and homogenizing with your surroundings, you create the consciousness that you can belong to the same group, be protected, have friends, and help you. There are two types of workplace organizations: continuous employer type and separate employer type. In Japanese workplaces (public offices and companies), employers of flat employees are promoted to managers (managers). There is quite a continuous type.

However, there are also prominent workplace villages, such as family companies, in which only the family members of the family are on the management side.

The central government of Japan is a separate type of employer, in that there are aspects like a family company of the imperial family, and only the elite employer for career recruitment is set on the management side.

I hope that Japanese villagers will have a mental treatment that can change their collective mentality into individualism and liberalism.

The current Japanese village society is too morbid.

In the Japanese village society, at school or at work, the year of entry is only one year later, and the year-on-year relationship between the previous person and the senior molecule of the senior junior is naturally imposed on each other. Instructions and preaching are human rights issues. I would like to know the reason why it can be so brilliant just because the year is different.

In the case of Japan's job change, mobilization of employment will take place if the central government, which is a model of the private sector, does not become able to recognize “reflections” (changing the ministry to which the original book belongs, instead of seconding it), and properly recognize it. I guess not. The system needs to be changed at the national level.

After that, it is necessary for the retirement of private companies and the passing of the examination from a state without any work history to be carried out at any time from the Ministry of Intermediation.

If the central government changes, the employment mobility of Japanese society will change at once, with private companies mimicking the right.

It would be genuine if you were able to relocate and relocate halfway through the age of 50 or over.

In that case, the current recruitment of new graduates will be greatly biased, it will be difficult to change jobs halfway, the employment situation in Japanese society where life rework is not effective will be changed drastically, new social vitality will be born, and social change will progress. Do you?

To promote the mobility of employment and change Japan to a positive workplace society where failure is permissible, acquire the industry qualification + attend the latest seminar equivalent to industry experience at a university, and recruit people who are not in that industry Need to do.

Somehow, as a trend in Japanese society, inviting middle-aged men to associate with young women is itself sexually harassing. In the first place, having a desire to have sex with a partner is itself like a bad thing. I think this is one of the reasons for the declining birthrate in Japanese society.

Humans, both men and women, are creatures, and sex is of utmost concern, as they estrus when they see or hear the face, skin, or body line of the opposite sex. That should not be denied. You should be honest with your nature.

Japanese universities only try to develop human resources for academic posts. That is the true cause of graduate graduates being said to be useless in society.

Another major reason why university education has become useless is that Japanese companies do not use human resource development at universities and stick to their own education.

Universities pay a lot of tuition and students are young and have a high learning ability. Or if colleges lack the ability to do such education in the first place, I want them to be more aware of it.

Japanese schools need to publicly acknowledge that what they do is to provide villager education suitable for Japanese village society. The students misunderstand because they try to hide it and teach only Western-style behavior.

Japanese men have lost their original masculinity as child-raising with mother-child adhesion continues for generations.

In Japan, it is necessary to reduce consumption tax and increase corporate tax.

Unless the economy is vulnerable and the economically strong are not strict policies, social disparities are widening. Even those who are making money now need to be aware that if anything happens they could fall into the

All of the non-regular employees of the job-aged ice age generation do not belong to the community that is the basis of family treatment in the Japanese village community. It is imperative that they be treated as strangers by society and belong to some sort of community. A new community needs to be established. The community should not be a village society if possible.

I think the basic tax system is to collect taxes from the wealthy and pass them on to those in need. There are some idiots that Aso Finance Minister bought a 350,000 yen suit and said that it had an economic effect, but it was originally a case that should be collected with taxes and immediately passed to the poor in life.

I would be grateful if there was an inexpensive measuring instrument to check my body odor and bad breath level before going out

I hope you can learn from the public. Both women and men should be listed.

The atmosphere of the Japanese village society, such as the emphasis on mutual unity, strong coordination pressure, awareness of relatives' privilege, difficulty in striking the strong and hitting the weak, originates from the Japanese mother. It is necessary to understand the social psychology of Japanese mothers in order to know the air flowing through Japanese village society.

The Abe administration's approach:

Policy A is just fishing bait. Be deceived.

Japanese consider free to be a bad thing. It is ideal to always move with a sense of command along with the surroundings.

If you are moving freely, it is said that there is no coordination, you will be bullied and divided into villages. Even though the Japanese Constitution stipulates the freedom of ideology, many Japanese cannot understand and agree to the constitutional amendment.

The education in elementary and junior high schools in Japan seems to be structured with the goal of passing university entrance exams such as the University of Tokyo and national public servant examinations. Therefore, no matter how much the educational reform of elementary, junior high and high schools is attempted, if the university entrance examination questions such as the University of Tokyo and the national public servant examination questions remain the same as before, no change will take place, and the reform efforts will be invalidated. Should.

In the parent-molecule division system in Japanese village society, the boss takes care of the child as a whole, and the child serves as the boss. In modern Japan, this whole-person pro-separation system is found not only in government offices and companies but also in the right and left wings. It claims to be a left wing, or superficially Western-style liberal democracy, but in fact it works with parental numerator.

No matter how long, the truth of the village society and the female society remains sealed.

Japanese society is a quasi-kind village community of rice farmers based on maternal parent-molecule relationships, no matter how they repair their appearance. It is necessary for Japanese sociology to build a social theory based on this premise. Efforts are also needed to find out where the strengths and weaknesses of the Japanese village society are and where societies are similar in the world.

Rules of Japanese Village Society

If you do not constantly breathe the village air, you will be a non-villain and will not be able to get inside.

Unless you are a villager, your work as a private or non-villager is not considered to be work experience and cannot be taken into account during the workplace entry exam.

Japan is in East Asia, China and Korea are intimate, and it is uncomfortable that Japan is out of sight, and there are aspects that attack China and Korea.

Given the fact that villagers are voting for the LDP in elections, and that villagers are the majority in Japanese society, it is easy to see why Japan's support for the LDP remains strong and does not decline.

Well, left-wing people are really villagers in Japan, but they long for Western society and ostensibly deny Japanese village society.

Those who invest in stocks will definitely support the Abe administration.

If the Abe administration collapses, stock prices are expected to drop significantly.

If Japanese villagers are pointed out about the nature of Japanese village society, they will be reluctant to recognize the difference between themselves and Western societies.

When Japanese villagers become aware that they cannot join the higher-ranking supermarkets of the European and American communities, they give up on integrating with the European and American societies and confine themselves to the Japan-only inner world. You share the opinion of "Nihon Suge"

In village societies such as government offices and companies in Japan, maternal parental segregation is soaked in the interpersonal relationships of superiors and juniors, interpersonal relationships are female, soft and easily damaged, and rejection from the bottom up, Rebellion against the boss who missed it, it is regarded as being against the blade and is not allowed at all. From the bottom up is indispensable.

Therefore, subordinates and juniors cannot refuse to work or request overtime from their bosses or seniors. Unauthorized whistleblowing such as requests for falsification of documents can not be refused, and if you can not bear the whistleblower, you will be punished for leaking inside information to the outside, you will be kicked out as a village eight minutes treatment, and you will be shunned from joining any other village society. You will not be able to enter and you will be isolated and unassisted.

In villages such as government offices and corporations in Japan, in the maternal parental segregation system, the child's ancestors are not familiar with the boss, they are engaged, and loyalty competition is taking place. Compete and work overtime. This is why long working hours are not lost in Japan.

For Japanese villagers, long overtime is a proof of extinction and private service to their boss. The boss has a desire to be promoted, promoted and promoted in company politics.

For example, even if the boss does not actually work, pretending to stay and work late can be considered a boss with loyalty to the boss.

This is the same with the degree of conjecture, and the child has a large aspect to do to remember the boss. In some cases, it is psychologically difficult for the boss to face the boss with the boss becoming the boss, and if he really does, the psychological damage of the boss is large, the boss is seriously angry, and the boss himself becomes a society. There is a fear of being killed.

The introduction of the Western modern core family in postwar Japanese society was superficially described in the rhetoric of modernizing the Japanese family, but the real intention was that the bride removed her mother-in-law from her own home = "No Bubble" The bride borrowed the power of Western Europe and succeeded in "abstracting". Japanese sociologists are silent about this.

Modern Japan, which cannot be defeated by China and South Korea due to competition, is the same as the military-owned Japan announced by the headquarters, which was not recognized as losing to the United States.

In the Japanese village society, seniors with seniority rank in favor of the elderly, and vulnerable seniors with seniority hit young people.

A village society may have a tightly bound black village society and a loose white village society. The Japanese village society should aim for a whiter village society.

Isn't it possible to create a white village with moderately loose, unified and versatile doors in Japan?

Due to the climate, it is almost impossible for Japan to become a pastoral society like that of Western Europe. It is inevitable that farmer villages will continue in Japan. It would be unreasonable to transfer the western modern societies of pastoralists to Japanese villages.

In that case, it would be better to steer clear of the current suffocating, tightly bound and difficult to live village society in Japan, while still keeping the basics as it is, and coming up with ideas for improving it to make it a little more livable. It is better to share ideas and play a big role in village social change.

However, the resurrection of prewar Japan, which led to a major failure due to the runaway of the military, is contraindicated. It may be better to stop the emperor system that triggered this soon.

One of the disadvantages of the Japanese village society is that once it gets into the pockets of the powerful people, they cannot emotionally criticize them.

If high-ranking bureaucrats get into the prime minister's pocket and become intimate because of their career advancement, they will be psychologically considerate and convinced of the prime minister, and will not be able to disclose negative information to the public to society.

I wonder if it is better to create a modern Japanese village society rather than directly importing a Western modern society.

In Japan, independent research is research conducted by individuals without going through a scholar's village.

East Asian men and women are tricks by women who want men to work.

Farmers' society In Japan, if left untouched, village society will be full of ties and social development will stagnate, so it is necessary to dismantle the ties by regular temporary control by pastoralists. The release of farmland by the United States after the war, the dismantling of conglomerates, and the typical cases.

Japanese villagers who think they have become part of the Western world are the most painful.

Western women can move to East and Southeast Asia to grow rice if they want to be socially strong. The compatibility between rice cultivation and women is outstanding.

My mother is behind Japan's right wing. The mother's sense of unity and totalitarianism are connected by ground.

Looking at Prime Minister Abe, who is rushing toward the constitutional change without regard to doubts about Mori Tomokake, I think that it is a terrible thing to have the honor of wanting to leave a name in the future of human beings.

Japanese society will be ruined unless somehow the "employee blank discrimination" that does not try to hire as a regular employee of a Japanese company who has a blank career in job employment has to be stopped. In particular, women who often leave blank work histories in childbirth and childcare have been greatly affected.

If a society that does something different between the previous generation and the next generation is called an “enterprise society” and a society that does the same between the previous generation and the next generation is called a “causing society”, Enterprising, Japan will be a hereditary society.

Also, if you look at your mother-in-law's wife's snoring, women can be said to be offensive. Men are more enterprising in nature, but women are more likely to be affected by strong influence. This is a typical cause of seniority and junior relationships in Japanese society.

Japanese experts are the ones who can definitely answer everything in that field correctly. I'm afraid of making mistakes because I can't tolerate mistakes. I think this drawback appears in graduate school education.

I guess that trying to adopt Western theory at a Japanese university is related to professional education that does not allow this mistake. Western theory is considered new and error-free.

Japan has not changed from a village society before and after the war.

In order for Japanese employers to avoid working long hours, it is important that they do not enter into the relationship between the manager and the parent molecule.

In order to know the true gender difference between men and women, it is necessary to have a fair third-party perspective and a divine perspective that are neither feminism oriented toward women's rights nor masculism oriented toward men's rights. Don't be swallowed by feminism and masculism in gender studies. There is a need for a way to proceed with the work of collecting data silently with an attitude of looking away from the sky.

To achieve true gender equality, it is important not to be feminist with a female-centric perspective or masculine with a male-centric perspective.

It is strange that gender differences are recognized as gender discrimination.

As long as there is no difference in the characteristics of eggs and sperm, there is no difference in sex between men and women.

The starting point for recognizing the disadvantages of males and females due to gender differences and taking countermeasures is to recognize fundamental gender differences.

In baseball, a fast-moving hard ball is a symbol of a man, and a catcher mitt that catches a flying hard ball and disables it is a symbol of a woman.

A gathering of villagers who do not want to recognize themselves as villagers, which is modern Japanese society.

Women in East and Southeast Asia should be valued more by feminists in the world. It is wrong to pay attention only to the inferior Western and North American women's behavior.

The long working hours and long overtime work of Japanese government agencies and corporate employees can be easily explained by the rule of extermination and private service in the Japanese village society. In order to eliminate long working hours and long overtime work, it is imperative that the structure of the village society itself be scalable.

By enabling rice to be cultivated by artificial intelligence, Japanese people may not need to be villagers and may be able to overcome village societies.

In the Japanese village society, the air varies according to the group to which the villagers belong, and if the villagers do not act according to the air, they will be bullied and kicked out by other villagers if they eat the village. This atmosphere resembles the religion's religion, but it does not have a clear doctrine, and it is a doctrine of "keeping close together."

Sex is necessary to leave offspring, it can be fun, and it doesn't seem particularly bad, but it's not clear that Japan treats it as something that should not be influenced by Western pastoralists.

In Japan, children are said to be of female origin, but instead there is a society that is the exact opposite of Japan, in which children are sperm = male, and women are just born machines.

Because women who are sexually consumed by men are more popular than women who are not.

Perhaps there is a mounting consciousness that women who can appeal to chaste are higher than women who do not.

In Japan, as a result of the promotion of a gender-equal society, both men and women have disappeared into the workplace and become private servants, absorbing their energies.As a result, they have no room for child-building and child-rearing, and no children are born. .

Men and women are no different in terms of sexual consumption. It is the same for both men and women that let their idols of the opposite sex survive.

The feminist tapping on emergency contraceptives is a mounting on women who consider feminists a chaste appeal and slutty.

There is a consciousness that chaste men are more likely than usual.

Privatization is not required if civil servants work efficiently.

Because Japanese villagers do not straddle the bridge because of the basic risk aversion, they become much slower and backwards compared to the type of risk-taking society. You think it's advanced. The pride is high and it's really tinsel.

Japanese companies often sell the uniqueness of human resource development of their own employers, but if they do not want to quit or be transferred to another company because of the cost of human resource development, the employer once retires. It has led to bad practices, such as rejecting job changes as a bad thing, and impeding the mobility of employment.

Recently, Japanese companies are said to lose their ability to develop human resources and seek immediate skills. Should be offered as a course, open to students and the general public, and once they pass the qualification test, they should be recognized as ready to compete.

The fact that Abe is so sweet in his family is the flipside of being cold, indifferent and imposing self-responsibility on strangers.

It may be more widely known that local villages in Japan are famous for their village communities, but that urban areas in Japan are also gatherings of villagers from village communities in workplace villages such as government offices and companies.

In order to cope with the shortage of teachers in Japanese schools, it would be possible to solve the problem by learning the contents of each subject by dedicated artificial intelligence for each subject and teaching the students to artificial intelligence.

The origin of repression in Japanese society may be women. A typical example is a mother-in-law's bride and a bureau's younger boy.

Femininity has a completely different meaning from being weak or crying immediately. They are good at self-preservation, avoiding responsibilities, loving collective action, using coordination pressure, loving attentiveness

In Japan, middle-aged and senior citizens have nowhere to go if they are kicked out of a company or workplace that has been working for many years, and it is not easy to secure a source of income. In short, they are treated as abandoners when they leave the workplace. I want you to establish a social security system to save them as soon as possible.

I wonder if there will be a workplace village for older people.

In the Japanese village society, reconciliation within their group is respected and conflicts are avoided. However, the reconciliation is achieved by the superior in the group suppressing the inferior and the inferior obedient to the superior.

In Western Europe, married couples leaving their children and going out are father's strategies to separate their children from their mothers and make them independent. It's really paternalism.

In the Japanese village society, it is necessary to work together with the members of the group 24 hours a day in accordance with the movement of other members. There is no free time for yourself, and you must continually devote all of your time to your group, its masters, and powerful people. This is extermination. Employers will be forced to stay private 24 hours a day after high pro bill passes

There seems to be some criticism that the government's policy of teaching programming in school education is wrong in teaching schools what to do with subcontracted programmers. The critics are those who are more than SIer's prime contractor, and are probably stupid programmers.

Those who are ridiculed programmers are not aware that programming skills are essential to come up with service ideas in order to be at the forefront of social software and AI development. Japan, which will be dominated by such people, will remain a software lagging country.

A player who has taken a foul action in the Nihon University Football Club has held a press conference to report internal affairs in his department. This is a courageous action. Probably, Nihon University will dispose of the player or exile him from the club, saying he has leaked inside information and rebelled against his coach. Players need to take countermeasures against this.

Japanese villagers need to keep sticking together with other villagers to keep their village air from leaking out. If you stop hanging with other villagers, or if you are driven out of the village in eight minutes, the air of the village will escape from you, and it is the end of your life as a villager, and you will no longer be helped by the village.

In the Japanese village society, work done by individuals without going through the village other than the joint work of the village is not evaluated as a villager's experience at all. For example, if you develop software by yourself, not in the workplace of your village, you will be ignored or rejected because your career does not go through the village.

It was good that we did not accuse the superiors such as directors and coaches, and then the end is the Japanese village society's way of thinking that prohibits criticism and rebellion against the superiors. ◇

Interpersonal relationships in Japanese village society are similar to the contact between balls in soft tennis. It is soft and soft, and it is very vulnerable to criticism because it goes deep into the opponent's pocket in search of a sense of unity with the opponent. A little criticism can cause deep wounds.

A typical example of this in Japan is that official residences have pressured the central government not to use the "outside of mosquito nets" (criticized by the Abe administration). Also, the degree of suspicion will be frequently used when the superiors and powerful people are easily psychologically vulnerable.

It is wrong to call feminism, which focuses on expanding women's rights, as a synonym for gender equality. Feminism only considers the interests of women. Sexual equality or another term is needed.

You should crack down on any crimes. The practice of subcontracting the whole work by simply throwing the money and exploiting only the money is rampant in society because of the idea of looking down the work site, which is not a good social mechanism.

It has a composition of major prime contractors and small and medium-sized subcontractors, and Japanese people prefer to place orders with well-known prime contractors.

Feminism is an institutional ideology in Japan. Gender equality social ideology and typical examples. Japanese feminists are declaring themselves vulnerable and victims, and are devoting great power to society.

Currently, only men are forced to work in private companies at Japanese companies, and women are enjoying the situation. The reason that the gender ratio in the company is not biased is that women do not want to let go of the easy situation. In terms of abilities, women should have a better fit at Japanese companies. It's the obedience to the company's demands, the entrainment pressure and the female style. https://t.co/pHAzGN3ioY

In non-regular employment, jobs are unstable and wages are low, and in regular employment, you have to sacrifice yourself and be forced to sacrifice everything for the company. Is there a third way?

To be a civil servant in Japan today is to become a slave to the extermination of Abe Government House.

Japanese governments and companies should be required to ban regular employees from hiring new graduates.

Mandatory hiring of graduates, people with blank careers, and middle-aged and elderly people should easily resolve the current labor shortage in Japan.

LINE, which is widely used in Japan today, is a female communication method. There's no better way to spread the gossip and the secrets of others at once, or to get out of the way of others and split the village.

LINE, which is widely used in Japan today, is a communication method for Japanese village society. There's no better way to spread the gossip and the secrets of others at once, or to get out of the way of others and split the village.

One of the reasons why the labor movement is unexploited in Japan is that employers are unable to rebel psychologically to managers because of the recruitment of new graduates and the relationship between the manager and the parent molecule, master apprentices and seniors. Athletic club activities at schools lay the foundation for this irreconcilable psychology.

In general, recruitment by government offices and companies is usually just once at the time of new graduation, and it is not good that there is no next time when you quit.

The ruling party will not be motivated to improve, so we want the opposition to come up with a solution.

This cannot be reformed simply by leaving wisdom to an official like a conventional political party. This is because the government office is the most particular about new graduate hiring.

Japanese society is segregated by parent and numerator, and the child cannot refuse to say the boss. It is the recent falsification of official documents (the officials cannot refuse to say the official residence) or the malicious tackle of the Nihon University American Football Club (the player It seems to be working for everything, like I can't refuse to say) and black labor (the employer can't refuse what management says).

The majority of Japanese citizens do not raise a flag against the Abe administration, probably because they consider Abe to be a boss. On that point, parental numerator and dictatorship are compatible.

The crowded train in Japan's commuter rush is female.

High density distribution is said to be preferred by women.

In today's Japan, Western style feminism has become a national policy of Japan, and the feminist scholars for it are dedicated to it. The master-fellowship has been firmly established, led by the scholars of the feudal scholars, and if you refute the feminist scholars, you will be receiving the village scholars from the supporters of the scholars.

The Japanese criticize bureaucrats a lot, but in reality they envy those who became bureaucrats.

Many Japanese parents would like their children to be bureaucrats.

Give the imperial family human rights so they can take political action.

A Japanese man marries a company. The company is the first wife and the wife is the second wife.

Japanese women are subject to Western feminism and have no freedom of speech.

It is customary for Japanese villagers to unite themselves with the strong at the time and hit the relatively weak at once.

Japanese male feminists are stupid. Mazacon is the perfect form of social practice in which women dominate men, and the ideal of feminism, but they are unaware of it. It is Mazacon that the mother (female) controls and controls the son (male) throughout the life. https://t.co/e8H5bvjz0W

Modern Japanese are villagers dressed in clothes.

Clothes have become European, but the contents remain old villagers. Don't be fooled by the appearance.

Unless Japanese government agencies and large corporations mimicking it break away from the clerical supremacy, Japan will not be able to escape falling into a technologically underdeveloped country. You need to value the technicians more.

The tradition of measuring the development of software and other technologies by man-hours and deeming it as subcontracting work is a major cause of the decline in Japanese technology and national power.

Women, if you don't want to be sexually affected, wear a culott skirt. It is hard to distinguish it from an ordinary skirt and it is fashionable, and since there is no panchira, it can reduce male sexual impulses.

As a countermeasure against molesting, I think it would be better to use school girl uniforms as culottes.

The Japanese village society has a strong exclusivity, and strangers are thoroughly excluded from the village and discriminated against. The same Japanese who are not relatives are treated badly like non-regular employees, but when they become foreigners, they are no longer treated as human beings like foreign technical intern trainees.

Nobody will come to Japan unless we respect the human rights of others.

If you are going to abroad now and it is the worst treatment, it is better not to come to Japan as it is now. A campaign would reduce the damage to foreigners.

Japanese full-time housewives are unpaid aristocrats.

Japanese graduates like hiring new graduates are the same as Japanese men's virgins.

Mid-career recruits who have experience hiring other companies are treated as non-virgins who have had sexual intercourse with other men, and are poorly treated.

Japanese villagers have repeatedly trusted the Abe administration with overwhelming support, so let's take responsibility.

The Abe administration is now the second imperial family. At the same time, Japanese people do not want to criticize the imperial family.

A Japanese woman gives up her childcare right early and gives her a Japanese man.

The Abe administration is a woman who does not take responsibility and runs away and does not try to resign.

This is in common with the Japanese village society, which is the foundation of the Abe administration, who is a woman who repeats believing in the strong and hitting the weak.

The atmosphere of Japanese village society is determined by women. Synchronization, harmony, confusion, sweetness ...

The strongest contradiction in Japanese feminism is that a strong Japanese woman exposes her victim consciousness and shouts, "Woman is the weak!"

It is understandable that western women are weak and insist on feminism, but strong Japanese women are not qualified to shout feminism.

If an announcer on a TV station or a couple were to be exiled to work, they would get married and the couple would soon get cold and divorce without children.

In order to prevent a declining birthrate, it is necessary for Japanese companies to have an institution that requires employers not to seek extermination.

About half of human opinions should be considered self-promotion.

The current Japanese bureaucracy is the dog in the official residence.

The Japanese village society is sweet for the perpetrators who are strong and strict for the victims who are weak. Japanese villagers flutter the strong perpetrators and beat the weak ones.

This is a female social principle. It is a woman who thinks that it is strong and is hard on the weak, and the weak is a woman who kicks.

I think there is a tendency for bullying and harassment.

In Japan, if a gender equality society is aimed at, both men and women will be exiled to work and become private and will not be able to marry and raise children properly. I think women often become older singles, especially for women. To be clear, I think gender equality is associated with a declining birthrate.

The other day, when I came to the memorial service, my relatives' aunts said that "man can work," and thought that in Japan, the overwork of men was incorporated into genes and passed down from generation to generation.

I don't think the dispatch company is bad, but the ones who "pin-hook".

Mid-career recruiters in Japanese companies and non-virgins have something in common that they are secondhand.

The evaluation of Japan by Westerners will be absolute for Japanese villagers.

Even if the contents of the evaluation are not appropriate, they fall down involuntarily.

Japanese villagers cannot criticize the West.

You can only criticize yourself if you are desperate.

When a Japanese enters or belongs to a group, it becomes a quasi-relationship with the members of the group, and it is easier to flow into seniority and preferential treatment of relatives, which tend to be general kinship.

In this case, the group is a village and the villagers are quasi-related.

Japan is now desperately imitating the American disparity society. Japan will not do unless the United States changes its policy to reduce the gap.

If you claim that there is a gender gap between men and women, you are labeled as a genderist and are socially obliterated.

It is the same as the fact that a disturbed village in the Japanese village society and a mentally ill patient who is mentally ill are isolated in a remote psychiatric hospital. Socially displaced people who have been ousted from village communities are deprived of their freedom of life and the right to self-determination, but are not allowed to enter any village and end their happiness in an isolated exploitation facility where non-villages are gathered. It is.

Japanese feminists are positioned as scholars of the Japanese government aiming to achieve a gender equality society comparable to that of Europe and the United States. The fact that they are dignified and enlightened is because of the backing of the Japanese government, and has become a bureaucracy of authoritarianism and extremism.

In that respect, Japanese feminists are dogs of power. It is also a dog of power in both the supermarkets Western Europe and the Japanese government.

Purely related societies are China and South Korea, and unrelated people are similar to their relatives. Making good use of this difference will make it possible to differentiate itself from rivals China and South Korea.

Regular employee = Villager

Non-regular employees = migrants

There is a route for villagers to emigrate, but there is no route for villagers to become villagers. This is a fundamental problem in Japanese village society. Villagers ⇒ It is a one-way ticket for a migrant.

When I saw a description of a village in the Muromachi period in an overview book on Japanese history, I was surprised at the current Japanese village society. It was a book called Keiji Nagahara's "The Age of Conflict", but was it easy to understand the contrast between villagers and immigrants in modern Japanese villages?

The Japanese village society hasn't evolved since hundreds of years ago.

If the villagers do not manage to discriminate against the emigrants and the villagers refuse to become villagers, human rights will not be secured in the Japanese village society.

It is an urgent task for modern Japanese village society to come up with a good idea on how to secure the human rights of those who are in the status of immigrants.

In Japanese village society, the village halves have led to the emigration of villagers.

Feminism has become a tool to satisfy women's victim consciousness.

In a Japanese company's office, a large room is packed with many people and partitions are not enough, so I wonder why there is no personal privacy. A mutual monitoring society is being conducted on the ground. I can't work properly because I'm worried about the eyes of others.

The woman has a vested interest in selecting sexual partners, and when it is violated, she says that she is sexually harassed. The reason why a man tries to have sex with any woman is that he does not have the authority to select a partner for sex. This is unfair and sexist.

The question of whether the current state of the Japanese government is based on the results of local prefectural governor elections is itself a sign that local autonomy has not taken root in Japan.

Both the ruling and opposition parties should use the results of local government elections as tools for central government politics. Another means should be considered.

In a Japanese village society, government taxes can be eaten in governmental villages, while corporate villages need to earn their own income, but both are made up of old-fashioned villagers. Government villages are the de facto standard for Japanese village society.

The social status of people in the Japanese village society is measured by their proximity to the Imperial Family.

In Tokyo, Japan, Bancho is popular as a residential area, and Otemachi is popular as an office workplace, because both are very close to the Imperial Palace.

In Japan, the cousin is touted because, as in the past customs politics, the closer the kinship to the imperial family, the better the person. Japan has not escaped from the imperial society.

The nature of human beings is that people who want to get richer become richer. It is also the nature of humans that wants to pass on the acquired property to their descendants exclusively. This is the reason why the economic disparity is expanding and sustaining if left alone in human society.

It is the nature of human beings that wants to be promoted more and more when they have a high social status. It is also the nature of humans that wants to inherit the high social status gained exclusively by their descendants. This is the reason that the social inequality increases and persists if left alone in human society.

A Japanese company employee who can only enter with new graduates, can not resist obediently to the top ranks, has little freedom to move to other companies, and is a poor Japanese employee who is used by managers and shareholders like a slave and ends his life. More anger should be directed to business owners and shareholders.

It is a natural reward for not obeying the obvious principle that the author of the original author who was hateful in China and South Korea stopped canceling the animation of the original author, not to speak excessively beyond the limit without legitimacy or grounds Yeah. This is the same for the right and the left.

It is a fundamental problem of Japanese village society that once they become immigrants, they cannot become villagers again.

It is a bad thing not to work when I am doing a program of a missing worker at NHK, it is such a content that I need to work a person who is not working, but for those who find a way to prevent everyone from working originally Shouldn't you be passionate about it?

Japan is working hard to beautify labor and suffers from “work” disease.

The place that is submissive to the Japanese upper class and arrogant to the lower class is the worst and most disgusting place to live in Japan.

The officials who are arrogant to the people are obedient to Abe.

If you leave it as it is, it will stagnate and sediment, and the society will malfunction, so it is necessary to regularly stir it with external gaseous forces

The Japanese should be more enthusiastic about how to get out of hand without working and still get a reasonable result. You should be more sensitive to work efficiency. You don't need a perfect score. It's enough to get around 80 points.

It is better to be able to do whatever you like in your spare time than to be busy.

Constantly required to be united with the surroundings, being hurried as soon as you are leisurely, being bullied as if you are pulling the surrounding feet if you are slow, being treated as a stake that will be thrown out if you try to act alone It is customary in Japanese village society that if you do not follow, you will be forced out of the village and will not be allowed to enter again.

If you are only thinking of adjusting yourself to the surroundings, the superiors, and the majority, you will eventually lose track of yourself, you will not understand what you want to do, and you will not be able to find the principles and principles that you need to follow to turn society around. This is the pathology of Japanese village society.

In order to stay as a villager, the Japanese village society has to work with the superiors, influential people, bosses, affiliations and factions for 24 hours and keep matching.

Villagers = settlement, people allowed to settle

Immigrants = settlement, people who cannot be settled

In Japan, contract employees, non-regular employees and part-time employees are treated as migrants because they are not allowed to settle in one workplace (they are suspended and kicked out when the deadline comes).

The Liberal Democratic Party is a woman who denies theory and appeals to emotions.

https://t.co/ukjtCUwr8x

The reason why new hires for middle-aged and senior citizens are not going on in Japan is probably that there are many young people and middle-aged people who can not stand their younger bosses and seniors.

In Japan, the notion that the "Japanese man = weak, Japanese woman = strong" theory is unacceptable has been attributed to the fact that since the Middle Ages, the era of samurai domination has continued, and men were mainly armed and fighting. Perhaps the need to protect has always required that men be more socially strong.

Since the Meiji era, Japan has been in a state of war, and military officers have continued to take control of civilians. Is psychologically unacceptable to Japanese. This coincides with the national acceptance of feminism in modern Japan, where "man = strong, woman = weak".

It is important to note that Japanese criticism of Japanese society is often based on their conviction for super governments (Western Europe and North America).

The post-war Japan was a time when the hysterical women's society was raped by a well-armed male society and seemed to be quiet.

The right wing of Japan is to use the super government to strengthen the current system, and the left wing of Japan is to use the super government to break down the current system.

Men are less likely to get married to women if they have no point of interest.

Feminism is used in Japan as a convenient tool for Japanese women to make Japanese men.

It is also a tool for Japanese women to hide their social advantage.

Abe can be said to have set the stage for the emergence of a female Prime Minister in Japanese society.

In making a precedent that you don't have to take responsibility for if you fail.

Unless workplace blank discrimination is managed in a Japanese workplace village, women who have temporarily lost their careers during childbirth or childcare will only be employed on a non-regular basis. Persons with a blank work experience should be employed in regular employment without distinction.

https://t.co/TlVZwCngXk

Japanese companies should provide courses to hire women with blank work employment as regular employees and promote them to management. Japanese companies have a female atmosphere, so if conditions are met, women are more likely to be more fit and better at promotion.

Psychological and social training is needed to make younger bosses and younger people accepted by the Japanese. Should be done by national policy.

It is said that girls are very poor in the news of child abuse, but the probability of abuse will increase dramatically if their stepfather or stepmother is involved in the first place. This time, it is said to be a stepfather-led work.

It is not cute because it is not a child, and it is intrusive in nature, and it is inevitable that the desire to erase quickly will be inevitable as long as human beings are animals.

Therefore, once the stepmother and stepfather know that they have been raised, the government must send the child to a child protection facility without asking questions to ensure the safety of the child.

If the target of Hate was not the South Korea but the supermarket British and American, the whole of Japan would immediately squeeze and pull in animation without asking questions, and there was no repulsion to criticize that this was expression regulation When you think about it, you feel complicated. The Japanese are stupid people who still see China and South Korea below.

Japanese people who have inherited the gene of bully from the weak and the bully from the weak are not credible. A person who preaches human rights is Dewamori, the super government. The only way to avoid harm is to avoid contact and stay with society.

The Japanese village society can be called a quasi-related society.

Japanese believe that they have the freedom to bully others and to be bullied. She thinks she can speak freely at school and at work, ignores violence, messes with her, and gives her hate speeches freely. When she is regulated, she shouts, "Freedom of expression has been violated!" There is no such thing as human rights awareness, and it is said in Europe and the United States that it only follows on the surface.

Looking up at the United States and Europe, desperately trying to imitate obediently, while looking down East and Southeast Asia, behaving lousy, spilling hate speech, and trying to make slave labor work. Japanese society.

Europe and the United States are on the decline and East Asia and Southeast Asia are expanding and overtaking Japan, but they are unable to recognize and cope with the current situation and are simply repeating the traditional behavior patterns. Japanese society that was late.

The reason that nepotism is popular in Japanese politics is that women who rule Japanese society are creatures of nepotism in the first place.

If you don't have a sense of being a member of the Japanese history museum or a member of Japanese society, you can enjoy it honestly.

Japanese village society

Abe Diplomacy = Tribute to the United States

Japanese people are irresistible about Anglo-Saxon. I'm desperate.

The difficulty in relocating and re-employment for middle-aged and senior citizens is probably due to the fact that younger seniors and older juniors are disliked, as well as younger bosses and younger seniors. The evil order of seniority, in which the upper and lower ranks are determined by the year of joining the company.

Mothers also have a seniority hierarchy, seniors if they are young, but the seniors if they are older, seniors if they are older even if they are older, and seniors if they are different. If they are the same, they seem to be synchronized. It seems that there are many cases where young mothers exaggerate older mothers as seniors.

In Japan, the image of the Communist Party = standing on the government = scary, so I think that support is not easy to grow. In Japan, there is a social culture that dislikes or is not allowed to challenge the superiors in the first place. The question is who is making this social climate.

People can't trust because they lie, but things can trust because they don't lie.

Can you trust NHK News for weather forecasts, earthquakes, and storm damage?

Unless the genital mosaic is abolished, the true freedom of expression will not come to Japan.

It seems like the relationship between the mothers of the school's PTA and "their children are in sync with each other since they entered □ year". The actual age has been reset, and the year in which the child enrolled seems to determine the relationship between mothers and seniors.

Usually closed and exclusive, but as soon as a powerful nation comes in, it embraces that strong nation and proceeds to dye it in the color of the strong nation. Look down on the traditional national spirit of Japan.

It's good to try out new types of activities for men and women, and to see if there are any gender differences in the field.

I think I'm doing pretty well with anime precure to get girls to play meatball games anew.

It seems that today's Pretty Cure is becoming the national policy anime of the Super Government Europe and the United States and the Government of Japan Government's Gender Equality Society.

It dyes ahead of any thoughts that are prevalent at that time. I change my thoughts one after another according to the changes in the situation. It also dyes the opposite philosophy. = I have no thoughts.

It is common for Japanese intellectuals.

In Japan, mothers have succeeded in separating actual age and seniority, so governments and companies should and should be able to separate age and seniority. This should greatly improve the employment situation for middle-aged and senior citizens. It can be applied to the conversion of non-regular employees to regular employees. There should be middle-aged and newcomers.

Political intervention in Tokyo's junior high school education has the same concept as Japanese feminism, which is desperate for women's appeal. It is also the prototype of the idea of a male mother or mother-in-law, saying that women who are sexually loose in their sons should not be married.

Young people in Japan support the LDP because they have a strong desire to work and be employed in workplace villages. Looking at the actual conditions of severe non-regular employment for the job-aged ice age generation, if you join a government office or a large company as a new graduate with regular employment, you have a strong feeling that you will be safe for the whole life, and I think that the LDP will realize that. right.

These young people have little intention to change the social system of lifetime employment because of the recruitment of new graduates with various problems, as well as the traditional values of themselves trying to get on and adapt well appear. This is because economic policy is favored by LDP policy that emphasizes the survival of large companies that young people want to join.

It is true that the current Abe administration has many frauds, but it is much more important for young Japanese to be able to eat in a stable manner than the government's fraud. Lack of labor, despite low wages and harsh conditions, has given the Abe administration hope that it will continue.

The Liberal Democratic Party's victory in the Niigata Governor's Election also means that young people's desire to improve the labor situation in rural areas, which is declining due to a declining society, is working strongly. If the Japanese opposition wants to win the election, it should draw more attention from young people around.

It is no different from the fact that Japan is working hard to beat China and South Korea, as a fallen actress burns jealousy of a newly emerging young female idol.

The view that the ruling party's victory in the Niigata governor's election as a tailwind for central government in Japan is confusing national politics with local autonomy.

In Japan, national politics and local politics are inseparably integrated and mirrored.

Japan has not yet escaped from China's perception of China in the Sino-Japanese War and the subsequent Sino-Japanese War = "China is weak and insignificant" Was. I don't think Japan can win anymore after war with China.

In Japan, changing jobs = betraying the boss of the original company = evil. This is because, in Japan, employment is an act of swearing unlimited loyalty to the boss of the joining company. In order for a job change to become commonplace in Japan, it is necessary for Japanese people to change their thinking about employment from scratch.

If Japan loses to China, then it will be anti-China = anti-Japan.

In the current Japan that lost to the United States, anti-America = anti-Japan.

If I was pleased to be transferred to a department with partitions at my former workplace, the partition was removed at once with the voice of a crane saying "The workplace is not well ventilated", and everyone around me was pleased with that I was shocked to see him. Japanese dislike partitions. We are not good at such Japanese people.

It is better not to believe in the doctrines taught at school, but to believe that the opposite is probably correct. Human explanations often contain mistakes.

For Japanese, the tax paid by themselves to work = blood tax, poor people who are lower in their rank (such as welfare recipients) or strangers to themselves (such as foreigners in East Asia) Isn't there a constitution that hits to use? Even if higher-ranking people (politicians, officials) waste as hot water, they are obedient and do not say anything.

Japan's poverty is probably due to the appreciation of the yen following the Plaza Accord, which caused all manufacturing sites to go out of Japan, leaving only low-wage service businesses in Japan.

I guess Yukio Noguchi said that manufacturing = high wages and service = low wages.

Westerners think that their social theories can be universally applied to the whole world, and forcibly apply too much to areas that should not be applied.

Japanese scholars are carrying that one stick. A typical example is Japanese feminism, in which male-strong Western theory is forcibly applied to female-strong Japan.

The reason why the number of poor people has increased in Japan is that the number of non-regular employees has increased due to the measures taken by Takenaka Koizumi, but more fundamentally the United States has forcibly called for a stronger yen through the Plaza Agreement. Everyone will criticize the United States more.

China and South Korea = pure blood society

Japan = quasi-related society

Women are creatures who want to agree on something. Emphasize the sense of unity with the other party.

Men are living creatures who head to the next new destination even if their opinions break down, saying "I am myself, others are others."

Humans need to hone their research abilities to generate plus α because human beings can simply be replaced by

The agreement on denuclearization at the U.S.-North Korea summit has sharply reduced the need to amend Article 9 of the Japanese constitution, which the Abe administration has been stuck with.

The need to survive the Abe administration has been lost. J alerts will not be needed anymore.

Will North Korea and South Korea peacefully coexist, and will the US military withdraw from South Korea?

Many people in Japan see individualism and liberalism as evil behaviors imposed by the supermarket America. If you think so, try to break out of American control and join forces with China and Russia.

It is post-war Japan that has developed to achieve a hybrid of both Western European style dry individualism and liberalism, and East Asian style wet mutual respect. . I think this was a pretty novel and welcome extension.

Achieving a "dry-wet hybrid society" to a certain extent was an advantage in growing Japanese society after the war.

In today's Japan, individualism and liberalism are subject to repulsion as anti-Japanese, and there is conspicuous coordination pressure and administrative control around them, resulting in a "wet-only society".

If it is “wet only”, it will not be different from North Korea and China in terms of society and cannot be differentiated, so if North Korea or China grows, Japan will lose. There is a theory that you have already lost.

The group leader is the person whose group is out of service or forced to break up when they rest.

Why is it a male-female division of labor society in Japan? That's because Japanese workplaces require 100% private servants from their employers. If both couples are employers, each would have to be 100% privately occupied at work, no family time, no children to make or raise, and divorce. So either couple has to be an employer manager. This is the root cause of the need for gender division of labor, and eliminating gender division of labor requires banning the practice of extermination in the workplace.

The revision of Article 9 of the Japanese Constitution is likely to be promoted by raising the US military crisis in Japan.

People from the manager's point of view are workers' enemies. Typical of Heizo Takenaka and Shintaro Tabata.

However, it is important to note that this manager's perspective is also quite common for corporate employees. Ambush. The reason is that Japanese companies are usually promoted from flat employees to managers, and those who have a strong desire for promotion are all people who are looking at managers.

The male superiors in the Japanese village society appear as "male versions of mother-in-law".

Japanese women criticize men for saying, "Erotic dad, Kimoi", but what do you do if you stop thinking of men as erotic?

The fact that Japanese companies have established and established a route to advance from flat employees to managers is probably a major cause of the slowdown in the labor movement in Japanese companies. This is because flat employees, who are supposed to be workers, think about things from a manager's point of view and do not try to think about them from a worker's point of view.

Prior to the introduction of immigrants, Japanese companies should prioritize the conversion of non-regular employees of job-aged ice age generation to regular employment.

Or recruit and hire middle-aged and older non-employees.

In short, to reduce the gender gap in Japanese society, it is necessary to prohibit extermination in the workplace.

Ordinary Japanese are the most female. Full of victim consciousness.

For the opposition to extend seats in the next election,

 Abolition of consumption tax

 Progressive tax increase for high-income earners

 Introduction of basic income

It is the top priority to hit economic policies around you.

Traditional Japanese society is close to China, so it would be better for traditional Japanese society to have Chinese influence over Japan. If you compare the constitution of Japan and the United States, it is water and oil. Traditional Japanese do not like American individualism or liberalism, right? https://t.co/YdL0GgHT5V

I'm scared of traditional Japanese people who don't recognize their individuality.

"The moment the undercard says," I also have a personality. "].

https://t.co/7UAlAeKQJg

Why can't non-regular employees switch to regular employment if they are understaffed?

If it's part of discrimination against old-fashioned villagers (full-time employees), the signboard of the modern state of Japan will cry. If you continue your employment, declare that Japan will remain a medieval state. https://t.co/IDXKK3uaiB

This is the traditional method of discrimination in the Japanese village society, which has been excluded from the immigration discrimination by settlers (villages). This discrimination is alive in modern Japan, and that is the discrimination of non-regular workers by regular employees. Discrimination far deeper than it looks.

The Communist Party is good at appealing to the issue of Mori Tomokei, the constitutional amendment, and the anti-nuclear power plant, but they are not directly connected to ordinary people's daily lives. A more loud appeal of economic policy would be easier to follow and would vote for the Communist Party, as it would be more directly linked to the daily lives of the people who could eat.

I think this should be done under the leadership of the Communist Party. The public's view of the Communist Party will change significantly.

I think the Communist Party will be able to win the election if they appeal for the policy of resettlement of immigrants, that is, the policy of regular workers. In particular, you will gain the overwhelming support of the employment ice age generation.

Speaking of the willingness of the Imperial Family to join the Communist Party, the average Japanese image of the Communist Party will be greatly improved. Ordinary Japanese fear the royal family, who overturns the government. Once the royal family is part of the CCP, the Communist Party will be a government and Japanese people will be willing to accept the CCP.

The Communist Party not only thought of defeating the ruling party in pursuit of the scandal problem of the ruling party, but also loudly voiced a new policy that renewed the problem, coarse economic policy and social policy under the ruling party. I want you to make repeated claims to regular employees.

For the Communist Party, it should be easier to adopt a new and effective economic and social security policy than to have opposition opposition parties.

As a result, support for the Communist Party will be more easily gathered, and the ruling party will be more likely to be defeated in the election. This should be the case in terms of results.

Traditional women's discrimination against men in Japanese society,

 Women monopolize the wallet of the household and do not try to give it to men.

 Child custody of children is monopolized by women, and men are left out of the relationship between mother and child and are excluded.

 Forcing men into slave labor without freedom, women can enjoy their own lives and enjoy their hobbies.

I want freedom in and out of the village in Japanese society. At present, once you leave a village, you are treated as an immigrant and it is difficult to get them into another village. This is a violation of human rights, as a decent life cannot be guaranteed without entering the village. It would be easier to understand if you replace the village with a government office or company.

White villages in Japan largely maintain their whiteness due to exploitation from the black villages and pin honey.

It's the ultimate tax.

If the number of pin villages by White Village decreases, a considerable number of Black Villages could be converted to White Village.

Behind the government is White Village, where there is one aspect of earning money by collecting strict taxes on other villages. To that extent, villages that can collect taxes have difficulty making a living and become black villages.

The reason that nothing is respected in Japanese society is that

 Private extinction for belonging group without self

 In order to continually tune and unite with the surroundings, erase the parts that are likely to hinder the tuning to the surroundings from within yourself each time

It will be related to respect.

Individuality = bad for traditional Japanese. Traditional Japanese people need to communicate this clearly to Western societies that value individuality.

The contents of moral textbooks in Japanese schools are indeed praise for extermination. At school, he taught that there are many black companies that use the spirit of extermination and force new employees to work in black, and how to identify them, and explain that excessive extermination and deprivation can damage society. It looks better. https://t.co/HMfpp2OTg4

If teachers are obsessed with private thinking, students have no escape. Employers see hell when their workplaces are the same, saying that their superiors are praise for extinction. However, if you rebel against the superior, you will be drunk.

The fact that US-ROK military exercises are suspended indefinitely means that the US-Japan military exercises will also be suspended indefinitely at the request of the United States. Japan will no longer be able to rely on the United States in military terms. I guess it has to be China's dependency.

Or Japan became so desperate to maintain its state of independence that it purchased armaments from the United States at a much higher price, reformed the constitution and continued on the path of a military state again, and again lost war and defeated, It may be ruined.

In this case, Japan's military and war expenditures will make the people's lives poorer than they are now. It will be a poor country in East and Southeast Asia. The Abe administration's lying dictatorship will continue.

You can't trust the news of the Japanese Abe dictatorship's breathtaking broadcasters, whether on NHK or privately. It is no different from the announcement of the main office.

Japan has to move steadily assuming that the U.S.-Japan military exercises are suspended indefinitely and the U.S. military withdraws from Japan. That's it.

It will surely come from the Japanese government that Japan needs nuclear weapons to avoid avoiding war with other nations, especially if it threatens China.

It seems that the possibility of Japan causing a nuclear war with China in the future has been heightened by the suspension of US military exercises indefinitely.

With Japan and the United States suspending their military exercises indefinitely and withdrawing US troops from Japan, Japan is likely to re-emerge as an independent nation. It would be a welcome event for those who disliked the Japanese government following the United States.

On the other hand, with the withdrawal of the U.S. military from Japan, the super-superior United States will no longer be from Japan, so American individualism and liberalism will be wiped out of Japan, and Japan will become collectivist, totalitarian, authoritarian, Will return completely to the pre-war Japan of Dalitism. It is likely to become a society where guts and spirits are rampant.

The United States will withdraw from the Korean Peninsula and the next will withdraw from Japan. Japan will be in an independent state without a direct supermarket after a long absence. For Japanese who want to return to Japan before the war, it is irresistible. https://t.co/MNkiDauMlX

However, be aware that if the US president changes from Trump to others, things may change again. President Trump may have suggested that the U.S. forces withdraw from South Korea and Japan, so there may be many others in the US government.

In Japan, it is male discrimination that only men are forced to perform slave labor that does not meet their will.

In Japan, men are discriminated against by men after raising children.

Life is essentially the best way to repeat work, working out, quitting the job if you accumulate money, doing what you like, and quitting the job if you accumulate money.

Behind Japan's black labor and black club activities, there is a social constitution that "the harder you work, the higher your rating, and the easier it is, the lower your rating." Who is creating this constitution?

By listing the socially beneficial doctrines of religion, such as Christianity, remodeling them for atheism, and disseminating them in narrative books, it will be possible to eradicate religions effectively.

It's a pity that Japanese men lose time after retirement and don't know what to do. The headache is paralyzed by long hours of slave labor without freedom of thought at the company. It's a human rights issue.

The problem is that the salaries of nursery teachers are small, but is there a possibility that a political party will come out sooner to launch a policy to turn retained earnings of large companies and savings of the wealthy into raising childcare worker wages?

It is the everyday life of Japanese villagers to get angry emotionally, saying "I'm rude!"

Western feminists who spread the misconception that women are universally weak anywhere in the world are guilty of crime.

The sins of the Japanese feminists who carried the stick in Japan are also heavy.

Hinomaru, you are a symbol of national failure and defeat, so it is better not to use it for a while.

The strongest in Japan is my grandmother.

The reason why the individuality is reduced in Japan is that it hinders the creation of a sense of unity.

Rice farmers in East and Southeast Asia (including Japan) are women-dominant and mother-dominant, with women stronger.

Don't be deceived by Japan, China and Korea, or the apparent male-female attitude.

In the rice farming society, the nationality is female, women are the ones who hold the wallet at home, and women are the main players in raising children.

The "not rational" remark by a Japanese man is a declaration of defeat to a Japanese woman.

Because valuing logic and logic is the source of masculinity.

Only strength is not masculine. There are various aspects of masculinity, such as emphasis on logic and taking risks.

Raising the status of women has long been achieved in rice farming communities in Japan, East Asia and Southeast Asia. The role of the Ministry of Home Finance is monopolized by women and is commonplace in Japan.

The emphasis on women is lagging. The social system of Western pastoral society cannot be done in Japan.

The power of dinner in Japan is amazing. The prime minister and other high-ranking people can invite socially influential media people to eat and feed them, so that they can hand them off and stop their criticism of themselves.

The Abe administration will continue to call on those who are likely to stab himself to dinner and relax. In this way, through eating the same kettle, you can make Abe friends more and more in your own area so that you can not oppose it and make you feel better.

I often hear stories of high-ranking Japanese men who don't get their heads up to their wives. The true ruler of Japanese society is still a Japanese woman.

https://t.co/C9iLhaLD3i

After all, Japan is just an appearance of a male society. Really a female society.

Japan is a quasi-kind society with a female parent-child relationship. Schools, government offices, and businesses are full of quasi-kindness, a society full of restraint and restraint, with consideration for the surroundings, care and obligatoryness that no one can take free action. A society in which obedience to the master is absolutely obligatory and no criticism is allowed.

The lack of employment liquidity in a Japanese company is that leaving the company by changing jobs breaks or abandons the quasi-related relationship, which is regarded as a kind of betrayal against quasi-related people and negatively evaluated by society Because I get The betrayer will not be trusted if he tries to join the next company.

In Japanese society, quasi-kin relations are created by dinner and banquets. The act of going to the same meeting with everyone and pecking the same pot creates a strong interpersonal relationship that is based on true kinship.

In Japanese society, the culprit who has created a social climate in which obedience to his master is absolute and criticism cannot be tolerated is probably a Japanese woman.

China and Korea are purely blood-related societies that value pure kinship, while Japan is a quasi-kind society where people who do not have kinship are originally connected. The archetype of quasi-kind relationship formation in Japan is married, and married couples have the same surname.

Those who criticize the breathlessness and lack of freedom of Japanese society will first criticize Japanese women.

Human = a kind of intelligent animal.

It seems that men are strong because they have muscle strength and women are considered weak because they have no muscle strength. If your strength determines your strength, you're probably just a country leader or professional wrestler, but it's not the reality?

If the liberal government and the socialist government are alternated every few years, wealth can be prevented and social functions can be prevented from deteriorating due to reduced work efficiency. Humanity needs both liberalism and socialism. It is good to take alternately.

In Japan today, liberalism has gone too far and wealth has been eccentrically biased toward the rich, and so socialism is needed to correct it.

Why is it so detailed in time? Why do I need to go to the office? Why make assessments for those who are late several minutes so strict?

Please tell me why.

Isn't it strange that you have to come to the office by the work time decided by the Japanese company, and just a few minutes late will have a big impact on personnel evaluation-promotion by being treated as being late?

Feminine behavior = blood-related behavior (behaves as if they are blood-linked)

Masculine behavior = unrelated behavior (behaves as if they are not connected) to Japanese people,

 Law = "The rules that super governments and governments have decided and must obey."

 Illegal = "Do not do, bad things contrary to the intention of super government and government."

Everything is super government, depending on the government.

The Japanese Diet is unable to have a satisfactory discussion between members of the Diet with people other than their relatives.

Japanese sociology (including feminism) is nothing more than a discipline that supermarkets in Europe and the United States have.

Japanese sociologists have been obsessed with obedience to the theory of super government, dead copy and minor improvements.

As you can see from the sociology textbooks written by Japanese sociologists (such as Yuhikaku), 90% of the theories listed are made by supermarket governments, and Japanese sociologists interpret them. I am just applying it to Japanese society.

What is the marriage rate and percentage of children with female feminists in Japan compared to the female average in Japanese society? Is that expensive?

There seems to be little point in saying that it is male discrimination or female discrimination about hereditary gender differences that are unlikely to be overridden. If you're doing genetic engineering, it's a different story.

In Japanese society, if you do not settle in a workplace village with a fresh graduate status and you cannot settle down (become a villager), the lives of almost all lifelong people are waiting. Once they become immigrants, they are difficult for villagers.

Immigrants in Japanese society seek the Japanese nation, a group of Japanese ethnic groups, as a spiritual last resort. Immigrants are working hard to resonate with Japanese government policies, believing that they can become villagers of the Japanese national village by emphasizing that they are Japanese. Net right wings are also included in this class.

Japanese society needs a law to prevent hollowing out. If the intermediate exploitation is not lost, money will not go to the terminal site, and defective products and services will be completed.

The reason why Japanese people tend to become Westerners and Westerners is that they can thoroughly learn the modern violence of modern Western European countries through middle and high school history classes.

The ideal work style for a Japanese person is to enter a difficult and large-scale stable workplace village with a new graduate, and to work hard for the sake of his / her own life as a private servant and to escape to retirement without any incident. This is exactly what a public servant is.

In Japanese society, it is urgently necessary to establish a route that allows the emigrants to become villagers. The job-aged ice age generation should be urgent. The time to change traditional village society is approaching.

The truth is that if workplace villages across Japan pass a government-certified qualification test, anyone will be treated as a villager, regardless of whether they are diaspora, old, or have a blank career record. The best

It is important to note that the news coverage is not neutral and fair, as the news coverage of the United States and the BBC of the United Kingdom are based on the premise of individualism and liberalism.

It seems that managers and executives of large Japanese companies once promoted will not be demoted and will often be able to maintain their position until retirement. I'm wearing Abe, who will never quit even after that.

In Japan, if the top of the organization tries to stay, it can stay forever.

Japanese children will imitate Prime Minister Abe and play more and more falsely. If your school teacher gets angry, you can reopen "Abe's doing it!"

It is a welcome opinion for my husband in Japan that my wife can hand it to her husband regardless of the purse string. Because I think that spending money on my husband is a kind of human rights violation. Husbands are finally free from spending money, increasing the likelihood that the husband will be able to take the initiative in household management. I wonder if there are more women with such opinions.

https://t.co/A81wRW6gzX

I wonder if my husband will be able to buy what she wants in Japan without his wife's permission.

In order for Japan to become a truly developed country like Western Europe, I think it is essential to transfer the authority of household management from wife to husband.

It is a woman's discrimination to impose a household management job on his wife in a Japanese family. In order to eliminate discrimination, husbands should take over household management as they do in Europe and the United States.

It is a vicious woman's discrimination that the husband unilaterally pushes his wife to the task of accounting for household management in a Japanese family. Immediately change Japanese society's practices so that her husband does the work of accounting for household finances, and whenever his wife needs money, he receives it from his husband each time.

If she continues to argue, the Japanese woman will soon give the Japanese man the authority to manage the household.

In Japan, pocket money should be applied only to wives.

By depriving Japanese women of the powers of family household management and the education of children, Japanese society can shift from an apparently fake patriarchy to a true patriarchal society.

In order for Japanese society to escape from women's village society, liberation from rice farming is necessary.

In order to clear the atmosphere of village society from Japanese society, it is necessary to fundamentally dispel the social influence of Japanese women (mother and mother-in-law).

Discrimination against women in Europe and the United States is discrimination against women by men.

Discrimination against women in Japan is discrimination by mother-in-law, small mother-in-law and son-in-law.

Do not confuse the two.

Japan is a social group of women who love fighting.

Japan is a female warrior group that desperately hides herself as a female so that they do not look weak.

This has a lot to do with the popularity and series of anime precure, which depicts women's flesh battles in Japan.

The high-professional system is essentially unsuitable for a privately-employed society like Japan, which creates a forced 24/7 workday. Before introducing a high professional, you must first manage the national character of private servants.

Japanese femis who like to use shrimp emojis together are really feminine.

Neither the right wing nor the left wing of Japan attack the United States. Is the yen appreciation in the Plaza Agreement that led to Japan's recession and the collapse of regular employment different from that led by the United States?

It just looks like the Japanese people are thinking about the supermarket America.

The situation where a Japanese farmer's bride is placed is indeed a private servant and endless labor. Unless this social archetype is improved, Japanese workers will remain unfriendly.

The place where Japanese people are enthusiastic about non-scientific guts and spirits is said to be women who are absorbed in non-scientific divination and blood types. This is evidence that Japanese society is female.

The fact that working hours are irrelevant in the high professional system also means that if you work for about 3 hours a day, you can quickly round up and return, or you can greatly reduce working hours, but secure a standing position in the company I guess Japanese employers who give their blood to promotion will be more likely to choose unlimited work for their managers.

Women believe that men are shields to protect themselves and that there are no human rights, and a member of the Liberal Democratic Party of Japan said that Japanese citizens were disposable soldiers to protect the country. Yes, there is no particular human right there, and it's the same thought pattern.

For the motherhood, a `` care '' type motherhood that warmly accepts the other person and takes care of it for the time being, and a command and command issued from the top with a dominant control over the entire personality of the other person, and hysterics if they do not obey Is there at least two types of "instruction" to scold? Mother-in-law's bully is the latter.

Isn't it a type of maternity to preach to Gamigami and the other party?

The Agency for Cultural Affairs of Japan should take measures to preserve smartphone games as a cultural heritage for posterity.

Wouldn't it be better for the Japanese opposition to separate into a team that pursues the morikake and a team that emphasizes economic and labor policies, such as the abolition of the consumption tax?

Isn't the current state of pursuit of morikake and the lack of appeal about the improvement of the economy and working conditions that voters want, and support has been stagnating?

All the Japanese were afraid to get out of the way because they couldn't keep up with the common topics with everyone around them, so they desperately learned the latest trends from TV and online, and the previous topics were in the corner Push it. This is the root cause that makes Japanese people easy to heat, cool, and forget. There is a deep feeling that you do not want to be a hub from your group.

I have never seen the Japanese say, "It's American responsibility!" About the recent stagnation and decline of the Japanese economy. Are you afraid to criticize the supermarket US?

If you are overtaken and left behind by your neighbor, your personality will turn inward and become hostile to your neighbor, and it is the human nature that comes into contact with your neighbor from the top up. This is the Japanese psychology that has been overtaken by neighboring Korea and South Korea.

If the Japanese listen to your government hard, they may be left alone and meet the village, but if they do not obey, the other is their responsibility to act The government should take responsibility, because I don't want to take it.

After that, if you are not obedient to your government, you will shield yourself and be punished by the government itself and it is very scary, so it is a psychology that you can not help it even if you do not feel comfortable with your mind In.

The ruling and opposition parties should be in a competitive relationship, but in Japan there are conflicting and struggling relationships. This doesn't work.

Many Japanese will regard President Trump as a super boss and Prime Minister Abe as a boss.

Let's create a society where almost no one needs to work, and we can use ourselves and spend a lot of time on life work.

The biggest problem for Japanese Western scholars is that they are villagers and they are not aware that they are villagers themselves.

To see if a gender equality society can be created in Japan, men and women should try to make women walk on the road when they walk on the road. A response from the woman saying, "If you put a woman in danger, it will not help you" comes from the woman, and the idea of gender inequality that women are protected and taken for granted in terms of security is immediately apparent.

It is fundamental male discrimination that a man can not have sex unless he asks a woman. Male discrimination is also a way for women to make a lot of tribute from men in the process of allowing sex with men.

Husbands should do household management in Japan. This is because it is a serious discrimination against women who unilaterally imposes accounting tasks on household management. By passing pocket money from husband to wife, it is possible to achieve European and American international standards in Japanese society. This is desirable for Japanese feminism, modeled after the West.

In order for men and women to be gender-free, it is necessary to completely eliminate the sexual urges of men and women. You have to be sex free.

It is the job-hunting ice age generation in Japan that has become an ethnic minority and cannot be a villager. This is the cause of the recent decline of Japanese society.

It is necessary to take a fresh look at the gender differences in thinking styles between men and women. I think that it would be a key point in elucidating why social theory born in Western Europe and North America would not work if introduced directly into Japan.

Japan wants to be a member of Western countries, but does not want to be a member of China and South Korea.

In the West, the wind of liberalism is raging.

Japan has no choice but to embrace liberalism to become a member of the West.

Liberalism is not in line with Japanese social culture. What to do?

I think it is the current state of Japan.

At this point, whether or not you can talk to advance to the Soccer World Cup Japan Final Tournament may be a stepping stone to whether you can be a Japanese national villager.

The strength of women's awareness of victims and the nature of deductions are two sides of the same coin. It is a group of minus thoughts, just a yin and yang. This has strongly influenced the way Japanese society has traditionally been led by women.

Abe is particular about reforming the constitution because he has no own children and cannot have genetic descendants in later generations, so he must do something big socially to preserve his existence in later generations. You may be thinking.

Therefore, Prime Minister Abe will continue to accumulate any injustice and concealment in order to achieve the constitutional reform.

Neither men's studies nor women's studies require fair neutral gender psychology and gender sociology.

In Japanese society, there are courses where villagers become villagers, but there are no courses where villagers become villagers. This is the root of all evil. A course should be set up so that the immigrants can become villagers.

If villagers become immigrants in Japanese society, they should deal with social practices that are hard to beat again. If you can't leave the village unintentionally, and you will be forced out of the village in eight minutes and become an immigrant, there will be no end, so everyone should desperately cling to the village.

If you leave the village, you will be emigrated, so you should not be willing to stay in the village unwillingly and unwillingly, it is not good to think backwards, and if something goes wrong, you will not be able to be in the village and emigrated. There is a problem because it creates the principle and reduces the vitality of Japanese society.

There are quite a few stupid senior villagers who are doing power harassment and sexual harassment while letting lower-level villagers flicker the village.

These villagers who tend to avoid migrantization are common in modern Japanese government offices and large corporations. I think it's normal even in big cities like Tokyo.

In fact, it is not a villager who is bound by the rules of a village society, nor a migrant whose human rights are not guaranteed. I want Japanese society to have a third option that guarantees human rights and provides mental freedom. Where is the dropping point?

I want Japanese people to be happy to see others struggling. Japan will remain an impersonal society forever if we do not enjoy others as much as we enjoy.

Japanese companies give employers an inviting message saying, "If you do your best in the company, you can go to the management side, you can get promoted", and use it to feed the employer who has the dream of promotion to die. I feel that this invitation message is the root of various evils that worsen the labor situation in Japan.

I wonder if Mr. Abe will quit if the US President Trump tells him to quit.

Employers also want to be promoted and have good thoughts, so they will work and earn more, pretend they are working hard, or they will try hard to evaluate their boss's assassination. Is it too hard to work hard for the managers, or is it too hard to be promoted to be overworked or to become a stressor by stress?

One of the characteristics of Japanese companies is the unification and non-separation of management and employers. It is common for employers to be promoted to management.

Social dedication and irresponsibility of arrogant and incompetent senior villagers.

Humble lower-level villagers welcome senior villagers.

Unjust disdain for villagers by villagers and permanence of village exclusivity to reject villagers.

All of these things make Japanese society useless.

It is important for young people today to create an environment where they can get jobs at government offices and corporations as new graduates without going to college, after taking only college entrance exams and obtaining their own deviation values. Japanese university education is incompetent and not functioning, so it would be useless to go there, but honestly going for four years just to get a college degree is ridiculous.

It is a Japanese villager who does not resist super government and earnestly. The government and the villagers are in a relationship of the maternal parent molecule, and the villagers cannot resist the government psychologically. Severe punishment is waiting for you to resist.

I want somebody to tell Trump or his friends to say, "Abe quit the prime minister." Hopefully it would be better to communicate the recommendation via Japanese Americans.

The Japanese are in a maternal parental affiliation with Abe's official residence, so they cannot psychologically rebel against the official residence. Even if the official residence knows it is bad, he cannot rebel. This is a kind of social illness, a kind of social mental illness, and Japanese people cannot cure by themselves. External intervention from a doctor is required.

Japan listens to everything the American supermarket says. It's effective if you tell the supermarket government. Invincible Prime Minister Abe in Japan should not be able to go against the super government.

She demands that the Japanese woman, who is the bride, follow her own will, but the Japanese man who has the dual nature of obeying her mother and her mother-in-law, who is embarrassed.

Japan's right wing = conjecture to Abe Government House

It doesn't change who likes it.

The true ruler of Japanese society is his mother. A noisy and strict mother.

I am not good at Japanese village society. I want to scientifically explore the gender difference between men and women. I think there is a gender and cultural difference between men and women. Opposition to liberal forces who call gender researchers genderists. Think of Japan as a female society in which Godmothers such as mother and mother-in-law exercise power. I am opposed to the current feminism and masculism of Dewamori in the United States and Japan.

The atmosphere of this mother covers the whole of Japanese society. The national character of the Japanese who are enthusiastic, sticky, lazy, and jealous is exactly his mother.

The mother's son-domination has continued even after men grew into adulthood and occupied key positions in Japanese society.

Japanese withdrawals are those who dislike Japanese social relationships and will not meet other villagers. The bad thing is the people in the Japanese village where there are only insidious interpersonal relationships, not the withdrawn people. There is no problem if you can eat with a net affiliate even in the state of withdrawal.

The goal is to be able to withdraw and to be economically independent.

The belief that it is good to forcibly withdraw a withdrawal from the room is evidence that Nihonmura is contaminated by social thinking. It is not a human rights concept.

It is necessary for Japanese to release from the negative consciousness that "sex is a shame" as soon as possible. It's better to socialize the "Let's have more sex" movement. It is also essential for declining birthrate.

I hope that the idea that society raises children born by men and women will be thorough in Japan like Kibbutz in Israel. Actually, it's like club activities in a Japanese school. However, there is a problem in Japan that only villagers of group behavior and seniority are trained.

It may be difficult in Japan to think of a new idea and introduce it to society. It is the Japanese academic community that pushes the doctrine claimed by famous university professors in Western and North America to Japan and ignores the other doctrines.

In the Japanese village society, unanimous consensus is emphasized, and people who are obsessed with objections are driven out of the village in eight minutes. The only way to survive in Japanese society is to match the opinions of the people around you, but ending a precious life simply by keeping it in line with those around you is too costly in the sense of life. It may be different if there is a child.

However, if that child also lives in Japanese society, it will be dyed into the villagers' way of thinking and become a villager.

The lack of unreasonable mosaic expression and erogenous caress on the genitals common to Japanese adult videos, erotic animations, etc. is a big factor in spreading good manners of sex to Japanese society and realizing fulfilling small days. Even though Japanese fathers have no place in their homes and are alienated from their families, I think the trend of being called patriarch is wrong. Japan's left wing claiming to absolutely prevent the constitution from being amended is that it is absolutely obedient to the United States, a super government that has

In Japan, mothers tend to take care of their children because it is very important to make the children their own children and train them to listen to themselves and use them as tools for self-realization. It has become a cancer in fighting the current conflict between feminists and masculists and Japan's declining birthrate. In particular, feminist restrictions on sexual expression lead to social sex restrictions, which in turn has led to a declining birthrate and should be nullified.

I think the key to Japan's declining birthrate is the liberalization of sex and the advancement of sexual healthcare that supports it, as well as the timely and economic backup of child care. We need a social system to help working parents socially.

On the other hand, it is only necessary to establish social childcare support as a mechanism. Schoolchild care should be available 24 hours a day. Alternatively, DNA owners and their relatives can pay the expenses necessary for raising children as if they were paying a mortgage loan, and we have set up a social parenting tax from wealthy people to improve the financial base necessary for raising children, such as improving the treatment of childcare workers. Establish.

As a countermeasure against the declining birthrate in Japan, if you do not like after sex, you can easily obtain emergency contraceptives anytime and anywhere. During pregnancy, a database of the DNA of men and women can be created so that it is possible to quickly identify who is the child between whom, so that children with unwanted partners can be aborted easily and safely.

In Western Europe and North America in a patriarchal society, the apparent preferential treatment of women by men has led to the preservation of discrimination against women.

No matter what you say, it's best to follow your own path. If it doesn't work, then just think again.

The heart of mother and child is a sign of the strong sense of unity between mother and child in Japanese society, and the tendency of mothers to freely control the lives of their children.

This is just the inside out of Japanese male and female servants. In Japan in a motherhood society, the apparent preferential treatment of women by men = male-female femininity has led to the preservation of discrimination against men. Isn't it common with Chinese and Korean societies?

Lifetime employment at a Japanese company means that once an employer enters into the company with a contract of the parent molecule with the manager, the manager will keep the employee for a lifetime.

It seems that the Nikkei Stock Average is rising, but I think it will drop sharply when the United States decides to impose tariffs on exports from Japan, so it's better to be careful.

Maybe Japanese business owners tend not to hire people who might be able to crush their company, even if they are capable. I think it's the same logic that your boss promotes your subordinates. I think the one who betray the contract of maternal parent-molecule relationship is Murahachi.

Both couples can't afford to make or raise children if they are both private servants of the company and co-working

To prevent the declining birthrate of Japanese society, the resurrection of a matchmaking marriage may be effective.

However, the reasons why the marriage of the child generation does not progress should be identified. Isn't it possible for a couple working model to go well or because women are stuck with full-time housewives even though their income is low? Ultimately, I think it is due to the poor taste of the rule of extermination and private service in the Japanese village society.

To prevent clogging of the kitchen sink during the summer, dropping a few ice cubes to the sink will reduce the likelihood of clogging because the running water will cool

If you can do your main job well, you can spend your spare time as you like. It doesn't matter if a man watches a naughty video or a woman looks at a BL book.

The manager and boss are the bosses, and I can't go against them as a boss, nor can I go home alone with my colleagues around. If both husbands and women become private servants, the sharing time will not be sufficient in the first place, and the family will not be established.

I think that the reason why Love Live's energetic and full-bodied songs were preferred is that Japanese society is losing its energy and vitality and people needed to make up for it.

In the Japanese village society, it is essential to continue to belong to the group to which the group belongs without interruption (rule of continuous belonging to the group). Once you leave the current group and continue with a blank period that does not belong anywhere, you will not be able to find other groups that can be included in the regular. This includes women's birth, retirement due to raising children, and blank career histories.

The Japanese who pursue social adaptation by changing their opinions in tune with the atmosphere of the place are human chameleons.

I think that human psychology includes factors that make sex topics and sex appeal unpleasant at the time of sobering. There are individual differences in the strength of this factor, and those who hit Moe's picture such as Kizunaai think that this factor is stronger than others.

Therefore, when you are sober, you are separated from the topic of sex, you like zoning, and when you come across good sex, you become estrus and want to have sex, and you read a sex book while estrus.

The actual characters are voice actors, actors, and human beings, and the artificial characters are anime, pictures, movable figures, and robots. Conventional 2D and 3D characters are difficult to understand with the appearance of 3D characters in 3DCG animation, so I think that living and artificial characters are more appropriate.

In today's female-style Japanese village society, there are (pre-war) imperialists and (post-war) democracies, and the ruling party mainly takes on the latter position but worships the former while hiding and worshiping the former. I believe in the latter. Faith is absolute, blind, emotional and hysterical, with masculine reason and without controversy.

The root of evil is the workplace village in Japan, where if you are not a college graduate you will be happy to recruit new graduate students as regular employees. Is college qualification really necessary to work in the workplace? In the first place, the system for hiring new graduates only is strange.

Japan's public education, where it is deemed natural that students who do not understand the subject of junior high school go to high school or university in a consistent manner, is strange. In Japanese village society, the rule of mother and mother-in-law is subject to concealment. Superficially, men are always rulers of society, and the weakness of the bride's position is emphasized as the weakness of the woman's position. It is socially contraindicated to express the strength of the mother and mother-in-law, the final ruler of the Japanese village society, as the strength of the woman.

Lovers have an idol personal pusher and a coupling pusher, each of whom is in conflict with each other and struggles. Love friends aren't very close. Idle occupation is also strong. Since the characters in LoveLive are limited to women, the coupling is inevitably lily.

Humans inherently like doing coupling. This is the source of human sociality.

Loverivers inevitably perform coupling between women even in the world of love live where there are only women. If this is extended to human beings in general, it can be said that human beings inevitably seek to perform coupling between homosexuals even in a world where only homosexuals exist.

Japanese feminism cannot be captured in Western European and North American values. Japan's sociology itself has a strong tendency.

The problem is that we are trying to see things only from the perspective of Japanese feminism and Western Europe and North America.

Japan's feminism should be seen from the perspective of women in East and Southeast Asia.

In Japan, compulsory education repeatedly teaches "male = universally strong, female = universally weak", and does not teach at all about the existence of a strong society in Vietnam or women. I think this must be corrected.

I think Japanese people simply ignore the existence of mothers and mother-in-laws who are violent in Japanese society, because they cannot be explained by patriarchal feminism centered on Western Europe and North America.

Is it necessary to conduct a social survey on Japanese feminists themselves? How high is the unmarried rate compared to the average, and how many people are in the social class?

Isn't there an authoritarian atmosphere among Japanese feminists that it is not permissible to breach feminist theory in Western Europe and North America? I think Japanese feminists tend to attack or ignore cultural entities that do not fit the Western and North American feminist theories.

This book, written by a German, shows how Japanese feminists claim that Japanese women are weakly discriminated against.

It is a question of knowledge such as university entrance examination, □□ is correct answer, □□ is judged by the teacher as wrong, but the basis of judgment may be changed simply by myth, so it is better not to use too much I think it's good. It is better to graduate early from the correct knowledge absolutism that only obeys the teacher's views.

Or, it is better not to think too much about what Dr. □ □ says.

Japanese universities often use a teacher-junior or junior junior system, but it is better not to just say what teachers and seniors say. It should be just a hammering out on the surface, and you should have the inner freedom to think that this is the case.

It's better not to just do what's written in the textbook, and not to believe the university teacher who wrote the textbook very simply. The content of the textbook is just one of the myths at that time, and there is no guarantee that it will match in the future.

Particular attention should be paid to the Faculty of Sociology and other departments where the content taught depends on the values of society at that time.

This is especially true of the so-called theories of scholars in advanced Western countries. Japanese scholars tend to obey them, so it is important to ensure autonomy so that they are not swallowed by the waves.

I think it is better for loverivers to be solidarity with a broad sense of friendship, without being too particular about the differences between each other.

The compulsory education of Japan should allow students to learn about the differences in the characteristics of societies in Western Europe and North America and those in East Asia (including Japan). Japan should be freed from false illusions such as "Japan is a member of Western society."

The Japanese Village Society is a privately-private society. When you go to work, you have to devote all your personality and time to your village. Therefore, when both couples go to work, both will be exiled to private service, and there will not be enough time to maintain the home, the home will not be established, and children will not be born and raised.

Therefore, in the Japanese village society, men who are easy to use as a work force are sent out to work outside in private privatization, and women are acting as managers who manage, protect, and maintain men who become labor. In that respect, women are more managerial and have a higher status.

A Japanese man with a labor-first principle only feeds Japanese women who enjoy free time. Japanese men who beautify their slavery should be more sensitive to the concept of freedom.

Japanese men who are satisfied with their wife's small pocket money should be more aggressive about gaining more control over their households and what true financial independence is.

The time has come when Japan imitates China.

Japan is declining due to seniority, largely due to the aging and rigidity of society's decision-making due to the large number of elderly people staying at the top of society. It is necessary to expel old people from their current social status.

It is the slave guts of the Japanese who are in a maternal parent-molecule relationship with the ruler, and therefore try to be obedient without being emotionally opposed to the ruler. It is lifelong employment in Japan that rulers take care of their subordinates for the rest of their lives and that they can use their subordinates every day (24 hours a day).

This is the origin of black employment in Japan, and the potential sentiment is that all Japanese can be black managers and black employers. https://t.co/lldNuGvwWs

A characteristic of Japanese village society is that human relationships are simulated parent-child relationships and simulated kinship, and married couples are also part of it.

Has been turned). The grounds that a mother-in-law can use her wife like a slave are social practices of the same family.

There is no doubt that the lack of human rights for Japanese brides is due to the same family name. I personally think that it is a good social practice to lose the same family name. If we use married couple surnames, the way of Japanese society will be closer to that of married couples. https://t.co/4qDqPBklrS

How can we erase the practices of village society from Japan?
 Stop rice farming (or change to another rice farming)
 Stop the same name of the couple (use a different name for the couple)
 Stop maternal parent-molecule relationship (recruit new graduates collectively, stop lifetime employment)
 Stop childcare by the mother
 Stop specializing in household management by mother
Is it still there?

In Japanese village society, human rights are more than adequate for mothers and mothers, even for the same woman. https://t.co/Hg473cuMKU

The `` growth '' religion, which spreads to Japanese collective organizations and who have long been affiliated with the collective organization since the recruitment of new graduates, is the greatest cause of indiscriminate discrimination against midway transferees to collective organizations Should be eliminated immediately.

In order to eliminate the guts of slavery in Japan, it is necessary to greatly reduce the power of the Japanese woman (mother-mother-in-law), which is the source of the maternal parent-molecule relationship.

Although the status of regular employees in Japanese workplaces is stable, they are more likely to become slave workers because of the feelings of the Japanese people here and there. Unless the maternal parent-molecule relationship is resolved, black labor in Japanese society will not go away forever.

It is a rice farmer like in Japan that the mother-child bond continues even after the child grows up. On the other hand, in pastoralists in Western Europe and North America, mother-child ties are broken by the father's intervention while the child is still small, and a dry parent-molecule relationship between the father and the child is the main.

Japanese people firmly believe that mother-child ties are broken by fathers early in childcare and patriarchal system is established in Japan as they try to think things with Western and North American psychological and sociological theories. It seems, however, that it ignores the reality that mother-child ties are maintained in Japan as children grow up, and is fundamentally wrong.

A group of authoritarians, both Japanese feminists and masculists, wielding the sociological theory of Western Europe and North America in Japan from the top with "Europe and the United States". He is just trying to check the latest theory in Western Europe and North America and introduce it to Japan to gain fame.

This is an example of the fact that domestic herders (North American males in Western Europe) and female farmers (Japanese, Chinese, Korean and Southeast Asian females), both of whom are strong in adapting to the food production environment, are likely to be popular in the world. https://t.co/xg2YoutkNd

Mazacons hit by Japanese Femis are welcome for Japanese mother-in-law women, and in that respect, Japanese Femis can be said to be a limited movement because of the fact that they are “unmarried women” and “unborn women”.

Japanese Femis tend to beat full-time housewives and lift women who work in non-homemakers, such as working and studying women, but basically the most powerful people in Japanese society are the authority to manage households and raise children. Isn't it true that the world's Femi should really aim for a Japanese housewife who is a housewife who has obtained Happiness seems to be high.

The main purpose of Japan's Femi has been and is not to expand women's rights, but to continue to enter Europe. Western Europe and North America is a society where women's rights are weak, and a society with strong women's rights (Japan) is trying to imitate a model with weak women's rights (Western Europe and North America). It is a contradiction.

It is essentially the mission of Japan's Femi to clarify why Japanese housewives have succeeded in winning the powers of managing households and raising children.

In fact, Japan's Femi is ideally a fazacon society (a patriarchal society in Western Europe and North America). In Japan's Femi, the Mazakon society (motherhood society in East Asia) is a target of evasion and destruction.

The feminine emancipation type feminine, which is ideal for Japanese Femi, can only be realized in the Fazacon society, so Japanese Femi is desperately working to make Japan look like a Fazacon society.

I suppose the world femi should aim and ideally be the Mazakon society in East Asia and Southeast Asia. There should be two types of Femi in the world: Femi with vested women's and maternal rights (for women with strong women's rights) and women's liberation (for women with weak women's rights).

A good number of Americans really believe in Noah's ark. A lot of pre-modern things.

Japanese people's attitude of neglecting themselves and doing things for others is beautiful, but it is a hotbed of black labor that uses it. The Japanese should be a little more aware of the fact that they are being used and exploited.

The focus on internal training of human resources is the place where government agencies and companies in Japan are useless. We should accept people who are a bit more openly trained outside. You should accept people who have difficult qualifications and are working in the ice age generation.

I think that the guts that Japanese people often say are farmers' words that praise plants that continue to grow their roots under any severe weather or high or low temperatures, but they are a bit unscientific, irrational and non-rational. Japanese government agencies and corporations are eager to rotate new employees who are hiring new graduates, and are reluctant to recruit as soon as they are qualified but they are non-regular employees or have a blank career. In this video above and below, it is the pastoral behavior of Western Europe and North America that is moving independently and moving around for itself independently. The bottom (liquid behavior) is a Japanese-East Asian farmer's (village-like) behavioral style in which oneself loses one's self and relies on the continual stickiness of mutual unification, and becomes a private group. https://t.co/AynMxtQkoV

The Japanese impose their subordinates below themselves, their juniors impose their extermination on their own, and their superiors above their seniors and their seniors deserve their expulsion. It is characterized by both the manager's side and the employer's side. The same person, on the one hand, imposes extermination on others and on the other hand is willing to extermination.

Private extermination in Japan also has an awareness of employers who take it for granted that they take the role of extermination, and managers (including government offices and hospitals) who take their employers to take expropriation. You have to think separately. However, in Japan, it is difficult to consider these two separately.

My body was weak but I was alone and didn't bully because my grades were so good.

Some people may want to work outside the house, not just full-time housewives. It should be noted that Japanese housewives and housekeepers are fundamentally different: housekeepers are auxiliary workers, but Japanese housewives are family managers and are superior to other families.

Is it necessary to have a home environment management theory (knowledge of cleaning and washing) and family psychological care (psychological and social counseling theory)?

By giving deviations to the results and giving them superiority or weakness, competence among full-time housewives will occur. This suggests that the competition between the housewives working together will increase the potential of housewives to improve their abilities and raise their level.

What a housewife does is wide-ranging, requires a lot of detailed know-how, and obtains assurance of the person's ability as a housewife by qualifying whether he / she has sufficient knowledge and qualifications. Should be able to.

Of course, I think men can take the exam.

Anyway, don't underestimate Japanese housewives. A wide variety of abilities are required, especially the ability to bring together a family psychologically as a mother-in-law is particularly important, powerful and a source of housewife power. Femi, a Japanese housewife who has beaten a housewife, should be quick to notice his lack of ability to grasp the situation.

Don't think with your own head to survive in Japan. To stay in tune with and be integrated with your surroundings, you can take the initiative by thinking a little bit ahead of your surroundings. You have to be unconditional and fond of seniors, bosses, governments, supermarkets (Western Europe and North America).

It seems that the internal development rotation of government and corporate human resources in Japan is modeled on the central government agency's career bureaucracy system. Is that really an excellent system? I feel like I'm just mass-producing the officials of a shop without any specialty or independence. Rather, it seems to be a hidden focus to eliminate trader healing through regular transfers.

The creation of the job-aged ice age generation was a tremendous failure that was unprecedented in Japanese history. The declining birthrate and aging population has made the decisive decline of Japanese society. The practice of Japanese governments and companies sticking to recruitment of new graduates and refusing to recruit them is the basis of this great failure.

The lesson learned from this catastrophe is that as long as Japanese companies are stuck with recruiting new graduates, the number of new graduates hired should not be narrowed down even in a recession. I think that you should not stick to hiring.

The reason Japanese companies stick to the recruitment of new graduates is probably because the escalator-style seniority system breaks down when halfway people are put in place, but is it easier for the company to develop if the seniority system is stopped in the first place? The only way to eliminate the sense of seniority from Japanese society is to eliminate the current senior junior system, which becomes prominent around junior high school.

It is gender-free thinking, feminism, and masculism that people who have sex restraints are repressing those who like sex. These ideas have led to a declining birthrate and a decline in society. Without sex, children will not be born, and there is no future in a society without children.

Many people are attacked by Femi if their current Japanese husband does not do housework, but the cause is that her husband's mother-mother-in-law is a full-time housewife and her husband takes care of her son's surroundings and manages everything It's the responsibility of the mother-in-law because it was left. Why doesn't Femi hit her husband's mother-mother-in-law? I want to know why.

When Ghosn leaves Nissan, Nissan's company will return to its former village society, losing boldness and advancement, and his business performance will follow a downward trend.

If you want a part-time job with low treatment of immigration to do the same heavy work as a regular employee and have the same motivation as a regular employee, do not hire a full-time employee from the beginning. It also violates the principle of equal pay for equal work.

Also, since my husband does not do housework because I do not know how to do it in the first place, I attach a procedure guide memo note that understands how to do it (I hope there is a commercially available one) to the important places in the room of the house It would be nice if there was a mechanism to help her husband understand how to do housework. Smartphone application is also possible.

If my wife says to her husband, "If you don't do housework, you'll greatly reduce your pocket money!" If you don't do housework, your husband may think it's going to be tough and start doing it.

After all, sharing of housework for both husbands and wives should be done on an equal basis. Both are extinct private labors in Japanese labor practices, so it is certain that the addition of housework will cause one-sided loads on the wives, so it is necessary to resolve them to maintain marital relationships.

Both men and women have the same sexual desire as adults and children. It doesn't seem to be harmful to shoot. Japanese children are devastating villagers with

When women took emergency contraceptives, men thought that there would be many attacks from males on emergency contraceptives, as sperm vulgarization to the women they care about would be ineffective. It was surprising that there was no reaction.

Femi's tremendous assault on some women who want to make it easier and cheaper to introduce emergency contraceptives is the feminine privilege of egg fertilization and pregnancy. I think I felt abandoned.

The benefit of women taking emergency contraceptives is that each time the result of sex is invalidated and reset, and both men and women can enjoy sex as many times as they want with everyone, There weren't many people who asserted that they were aggressive.

Those who are passionate about Japan's national interests, whether right or left, are villagers who are integrated with the Japanese village community. There is a strong sense of villagers that they are members of Japan, not only on the right, but also on the left. If you start to think calmly about Japan's national interests, it means you are in a village divide from the Japanese village community.

No matter where you go, hospital rooms in Japan usually have four or six rooms. There are few private rooms, and you can get expensive private room fees when you enter. In Western Europe and North America, on the other hand, private rooms seem to be common. We believe that private rooms are more comfortable and more private, but most Japanese who prefer large rooms do not.

Isn't there a sense that many Japanese people think that private rooms are lonely and lonely? When you are sick, you may feel more attentive to others, especially in a large room, because you are intimidated. In Japan, the contradictory policy of promoting large-room wards is being adopted, while praising the Western- and North-American single-room wards on the surface.

Japan is a police state. I love mutual monitoring, reporting and crackdown at the national level. The security is good but stuffy.

To become a member of society in Japanese society means to enter a village society as a member of the Japanese village society.

For a Japanese man, marriage means that the wife is given the power of money management at home and given pocket money, the wife takes the initiative in educating her child, the man himself secures family income It is natural to engage in inhumane black labor every day.

Furthermore, in the home, the wife and child adhere to each other by the mother and child, and the husband is alienated from the place, leaving no place at home. Also, if the husband divorces his wife, the custody of the child goes to the wife and the husband can no longer see his child.

Japanese men who do not speak out against such a poor marriage situation are truly stupid. Japanese men should not be drunk with apparent male-female humiliation or boastfulness, and should revolutionize the Japanese family system.

It is men who are hurt by the current marriage in Japan. In terms of leaving men's genetic offspring, men have little choice but to marry their wives. These points should be given priority to Japanese masculism.

Even if a couple has a child, the wife will take the initiative in educating the child, and as a result the child will be maternal under the influence of the wife and the paternity will disappear from the son. Then, the female state nation Japan and the motherhood state Japan will be born. This is a serious problem for Japanese masculism.

School club activities make Japanese society a woman. Absolute obedience to teachers and seniors, unable to take part in club activities early in the morning, at night, and on Saturdays and holidays (private escort to their school). If something goes wrong, they will be asked for solidarity responsibility. If you neglect, you will be thoroughly angry and bullied. These greatly overlap with the female society.

Free schools that create places for learning and schools for school refusal students are highly evaluated. Similarly, if you can't go to the company, you want a free company that creates a place to work and a place to work for those who cannot. If you already have it, you want to go.

On Wikipedia, the free company seems to be an independent mercenary corps in medieval Europe. It may be that something similar to that is needed in modern Japan.

Traditional border-based nations, including the United States, are gradually losing power as a result of GAFA's transnational economic activities. Only the United Nations, a world organization, can control GAFA.

Japanese society is a pseudo-patriarchal system. It is the mother-in-law and the motherhood that holds power, but she is trying to make her father work hard and give her a sense of competence to work. There is an urgent need to move closer to the patriarchal system in Western Europe and North America.

Whether the husband gives pocket money to his wife or takes the initiative in educating children is proof that Western Europe and North America is a real patriarchy today.

In Japan, isn't your wife taking all of her husband's earnings and giving her husband pocket money? Isn't your wife monopolizing parenting and keeping your children away from your husband?

What is your son-in-law domination by your mother-in-law? Is it male domination by women, right? Why take the minority case and ignore the majority? Why ignore home domination by Japanese housewives?

Isn't your mother-in-law husband controlled by your mother? Where is this patriarchy?

Why do you want to limit the problem of discrimination in Japanese society to women only?

Men aren't guaranteed their jobs at all, right? There are only men of the ice age generation who are employed or non-regular employment.

Do you admit that your son is a mother-in-law doll, right? Where is the male rights society? Is it a women's rights society?

The suppression of the bride by the mother-in-law is the essence, the son is additional.

Homeless life is waiting for a man.

Isn't the female mother-in-law also a powerful person on the mother-in-law side?

Like the program "Chico-chan scolds", there are many Japanese TV programs that give viewers the "correct answer" that they do not know if they are really correct from the top. This is the essence of Japanese universities and education.

Japanese feminists = people who are afraid to have children

It seems that people who are able to clearly point out and assert power criticism in some way are becoming popular on Twitter. Anyway, for a Japanese who tends to be afraid of being a powerful person, I guess it seems like a savior to do things that I can not do?

The Japanese, especially those on the left, are sullen when they point out the differences between Western and Japanese societies, and sullen when they point out the homogeneity of Western and Japanese societies. Because they are trying to change the Japanese society by using the authority of the supermarket government, they are completely vulnerable to the supermarket government.

The boys in the anime for rot girls are cute.

Japanese office workers frequently boast of their company's name recognition and their salary, but they are only slave workers compared to the wealthy who receive a lot of money without working. You should be aware. With this recognition, you should know your true enemy.

It is said that there is a shortage of human resources in Japan and it is urgent to accept foreigners, but if you know that Japan is an old-fashioned village society, a stranger is excluded, bullied and discriminated against, you came from a foreign country No one will try to go to the countryside. The only remaining method is to deceive foreigners and take them to rural areas. That's a terrible story.

It is not a matter of whether Tokyo or a big city is a good thing.Rather, villagers belonging to different villages in

Japan's big cities are mainly a kind of village society where the villagers are temporarily mixed. No foreigner will ever come to Japan if it is known to be a cold, unfriendly superhuman socializing society

Well, if the foreigners are from East Asia or Southeast Asia, they may be able to sympathize with Japanese society, because they are residents of the same village society that is mainly in rice cultivation. You should know everything, so if Japan knows that it is a village, you will be wary of the Japanese village.

Japanese media only sends negative information about China and Korea. It is an explicit impression operation.

The fact that women take the position of victims in feminism is a manifestation of gender differences between men and women.

Gender division of labor in Japanese society is evidence of the social advantage of Japanese women. Japanese women dominate households and children. Japanese men are just workers who make money. He is alienated at home and cannot be a patriarch.

Japanese women's dominance of children continues as children grow up. Japanese men and Japanese women marry their wives or husbands, even as adults, while being controlled by the female mother. Japanese men and women remain under mother's control even though their social status has increased.

Is Japan's masculist the patriarchal system in Japan? I will not answer if I ask. Is it inconvenient to be inconsistent with their claim that men are being discriminated?

Today's Japanese society needs a true patriarchy in which the father controls the household and the child, rather than a pseudo-patriarchy of male-female feminism.

Feminism and masculism are one of the justifications for the declining birthrate. Promote male-female conflicts, bring about sexlessness, bring about a declining birthrate, and further depress society. This is a harmful theory for avoiding a declining birthrate.

If you oppose gender discrimination, you should promote eliminating differences in treatment based on innate differences between men and women. Advocating male rights expansion and female rights expansion like traditional masculism and feminism means sticking to gender and allowing gender discrimination.

I think gender discrimination will last forever unless the innate differences between men and women are eliminated. Just as racial discrimination based on skin color differences has not gone away.

Abe's official residence conducts politics with top priority. Relatives are thoroughly treated and their mistakes can be erased. Workers of the tea ceremony who want to spill the Abe Government House are desperate to become a netouyo and become a relative of the Abe Government House.

Feminism and masculism are social theories that justify and promote the marriage of a large number of men and women (such as those in the job-aged ice age in Japan) who are unable to marry due to economic distress.

I think that gender romance is not limited to Christmas and can be done whenever it is convenient, but in Christmas, women always want men to do more or more events (of course, for mounting on Instagram) A man can suffer indefinitely.

Men produce sperm every day, but women produce eggs only once a month. Female eggs are overwhelmingly rare and valuable. This is the root of the innate gender difference between men and women.

Men have a strong impulse to destroy things, women have a weaker and more conservative status. The impulse of destruction of men has led to the progress of human society.

Full-time employees in Japan are managers' slaves. It is necessary to unilaterally dedicate all of it to the manager. Japanese companies have no appeal for regular or non-regular employment.

Isn't the motherhood of Japan changing from the situation where the former mother-in-law was strong to the situation where the mother of the wife is strong due to the effect of the mother and mother being crushed by Femi? I think there is no change in the strength of motherhood itself.

Existence of the inner circumference where women turn inward and the outer circumference where men turn outside of women. Upward marriage by women who want to marry men who have better specifications than themselves is also a sign that women prefer men who orbit themselves above economic and social specifications to protect themselves. Women do not like exposing themselves outside men.

There is a culture of destruction of the status quo and a culture of maintaining the status quo-small improvement type. Related to this is the fact that the concept of seniority in the culture of farmers like Japan is popular, and this is evidence that society is female.

Neither feminism nor masculism is universally applicable to Western European North America theory. There are nomadic and pastoral areas where men are strong and agricultural areas where women are strong in the world, and localization and customization are required for each area.

Because the difference between human sperm and egg is the source of gender discrimination, it is first necessary to eliminate the difference between sperm and egg physiologically in order to eliminate gender discrimination.

In Japan, it is strange to read Chinese names and Chinese place names in Japanese kanji and not in modern Chinese. If you do not read modern Chinese, it will not work globally.

The fact that Femi's voice and influence are ridiculous in Japan is evidence that Japan is a female society.

In an individualist society, men are strongly patriarchal.
In a collectivist society, women are strongly maternal.

In order for Japanese Femi to regard Japanese society as patriarchal, it is necessary to eliminate the existence of an inconvenient mother-in-law, and as a result, it seems that "mother-in-law = male of honor" has been taken ...
So what do the little girls do? Is it considered an honorary man like a mother-in-law? Will most Japanese women be honor men?

Although the Japanese agree with the privatization of the government industry, they seem to be reliant on tax to revitalize inefficient work with privatization, but the real intention is that welfare services are embarrassed. I also want to be jealous of the public servants who can be used as "government" on the power side and drag them down to the same standing position as myself.

The rule of the Japanese village society is "Do not rebel against the powerful. Don't slam the shield." "Familiarize with the powerful and take it in. Take hold of the weakness of the powerful." Words such as the emperor, official residence, official, manager, boss, mother-in-law, boss, senior, etc. can be substituted for the powerful person. Is there no change from old to present? It is the same before and after the war.

Sociological and psychological research on the relationships between human feminists and masculists in Japan, power relationships, values held, and behavioral styles and cultures to be followed, and their issues, are combined with research on feminism and masculism itself. I feel it is necessary separately.

The act of returning to the hometown that is performed by the residents of a large city such as Tokyo is proof that the large city residents are traditional villagers, and that the large city residents are socially and psychologically Proof of reliance on villagers.

High schools and universities in Japan should aim for stricter graduation exams than entrance examinations. Graduation qualification tests, such as the National Public Service Comprehensive Job Examination, should be conducted in common at universities all over the country, and if they pass, graduation qualifications should be obtained. Of course, you should be able to pass the exam on your own without going to school. Employment should depend on the graduation exam.

The batch recruitment of new graduates by Japanese government agencies and companies is exactly the same as getting married to a Japanese family. Both are common in that they purchase a newcomer (bride) who is pure white and dyes in any color intact, and the manager-boss (mother-in-law) works as a slave and dyes it in a favorite color.

It is most convenient in Japanese feminism to determine the surname at the time of marriage and to match the wife's surname with the wife's surname, in the case of a married couple. My wife does not have to be dominated by my mother-in-law. The couple continue to be under the control of their mother.

Both feminism and mascurism are trying to hide their strong and beneficial aspects, emphasizing only their weak and disadvantageous aspects. Is it lacking in fairness?

It is hard for a Japanese group to enter. And once you enter, you cannot escape from yourself.

In feminism, which attacks patriarchy, women perceive potential heterosexuality (incest, sexual desire for father) for their father, the father of the opposite sex. Is there any aspect that denies the chief and aims to break away from his father who is a daughter? In Western Europe and North America, incest is common among fathers and daughters.

Women who are likely to be feminists have a close relationship with their father and daughter, are often one step closer to incest with the father, or have they ever been?

In a Japanese society where the father's shadow is thin and the paternity is not so clear, may a feminist woman have a relatively strong fatherhood?

Or, if a woman feels a potential heterosexual relationship with her brother or younger brother, I think it's easy to get rid of feminist ideas that keep men away from the opposite sex in order to shake off their affection.

Since Western Europe and North America are pastoralists, with a strong male and father power, and a typical patriarchal society, feminism that keeps fathers away tends to be born.

Male feminists like Japan are also getting married, have a daughter, feel the potential heterosexuality and unity with their daughter, and try to beat the groom candidate man who interrupts it , Aren't they likely to enter feminism, a type that hates men in general?

In muscularism, Japanese society and the state of adhesion between mother and son continued even after adulthood, I felt a potential heterosexuality for my mother and a sign that my mother was likely to be swallowed psychologically

There are many patterns in which my son tries to keep a psychological separation from his mother and keeps his distance, and enters into masculineism that denies women.

Incest is said to be more common in Japan between mother and son. In Korea, the relationship between mother and son is so close that they sleep hand in hand. In East Asia, we believe that the future of masculism will be great.

The increasing number of single-person households in Japan today are elderly people who have lost their spouses or middle-aged people who have difficulty finding employment and are economically disadvantaged and cannot get married. It is a symbol of the decline of Japanese society due to the declining birthrate and aging population.

In the Japanese village society, it is most important to take control and unite as a group, and to bullied those who disturb the leadership thoroughly, divide the village into eight and let them choose to die independently. The beating of welfare recipients and the handicapped is also considered as part of this. In a Japanese village society, human rights are granted as long as they do not disturb group leadership.

The reason why men-only vehicles are useless is that men are aggressive, so gay men actively attack other men in the car and molested them. There is a strong recognition among women that it is a natural duty for men not to let women go to dangerous places, and I think that men who have taken it will go to dangerous places themselves. There are some women who want to be praised for being brave.
I think men who are in danger of being put on women's mouths are obviously exploited by women who rub their men by mouth alone.
Basically, there is a common social perception that women's lives are heavier than men's lives, for both men and women, which underlies women's voices, and is the basis for men to assume that they are more dangerous than women. Isn't there?
Whether a male firefighter risks going to a fire site will depend on whether the male firefighter scientifically grasps the gender difference between men and women based on the differences in properties between female eggs and male sperm. . It is frustrating that a man is more disadvantageous than a woman in performing a dangerous task, but I think it would be good if a woman succeeds in performing a task and get married by a woman.
It is natural for human beings to try to leave genetic descendants in marriage. If you get married, don't give your wife your home wallet, but give your wife extra money, and cut off the relationship between mother and child to form a father and son's mental ties, which is good enough for men.

I think that the only way to discriminate against men in Japan is that the money earned by men is consumed by women and forced to pay money. Another is male discrimination, where men make unwilling labor and earn money, while women share their unwillingness with men without spoiling the money they earn.
I guess a woman's persuasion statement is "Everyone around me has a pocket money system for my husband. It's embarrassing that I'm not the only one for my husband." Isn't such a tone that the husband's pocket money system is decided between the couple? Such a decision itself is rude to men.
Japan and other countries are conducting a social survey that examines the husband's pocket money system, and 70% of the households seem to have their wives with pocket money. This is also true for double-income families, where a wife surveyed household management in 70% of households, according to a survey by private research organizations. It is a severe result for Japanese men.
For Japanese men, marriage may or may not obey his wife's pocket money system. I think Japanese men are more likely to get married.
I think that stopping child abuse for a couple who is doing child abuse in private would be a hint to private. I think that the system of paying husbands is, in a sense, the economic violence of husbands to their husbands.
It would be possible, if possible, to prohibit spending money on husbands by law. However, in Japan, women are socially strong, so the law will probably not be passed due to the repulsion of women.
Most of these men have received their husband's pocket money system from their wives, and their wives have stabbed nails to avoid objection. Especially if you have a family, you will not disagree based on the Japanese tradition of not wanting to be divorced or creating an extra wave.

A socio-psychological survey of why 70% of husbands are taking pocket money from their wives to their husbands who seem to be clearly disadvantaged may be necessary. However, the fact that 70% of the husbands drink is not that much pressure from social wives to their husbands.
Demands for high annual income from men, demands from pocket money from wives to husbands, various demands from women to men are lined up, and unless you drink it, men will not be able to marry women. Isn't the man getting married with unwillingness and frustration?
I would be grateful if a system to replace the current marriage system and leave another genetic descendant for posterity would be established. You have to think about what you should do on your own.

Although it is necessary to create a society where eight hours a day can provide enough wages and marry and raise children, Japanese society is unlikely to do so because Japanese villagers are fundamentally aware of this. Because it's missing. We are deeply despaired.

In East Asia, China and South Korea have completely risen. Since Japan has become one of the less visible poor nations of East Asia, it will not be possible for a while for Japan to recreate the former British Empire's majesty.

Thanks to this, there is a problem that the problems of Japanese society are hard to be recognized by the people of other countries. It is hell for vulnerable groups who cannot escape from Japanese society, even if the reality of Japanese society gets worse.

In other words, both feminism and masculism seem to be forced by scholars of the ruling class of society to justify the declining birthrate of society.

The reason Japan's country has become the poorest in the world is probably because the yen has continued to rise and manufacturing has left the country. No fundamental measures have been taken against this. Japan will remain poor as long as it tries to eat in the service industry without trying to revive the manufacturing industry.

Exactly. Seniority-based wages are causing the declining birthrate of Japanese society. The wages are too cheap for the younger generation and can't afford to get married or have children. On the other hand, it is too expensive for older generations. Older generations are exploiting younger generations economically on wages.

Rather than recruiting new graduates at all times, a licensed occupation is that you can take a job at any time of your life and take the same position as regular employment. Doctors and nurses. By establishing this licensing system in all occupations, it is hoped that a Japanese company will be able to immediately start full-time employment as long as they have a graduate, have a blank career, and have a license.

By eliminating the difference between new graduates and graduates, regular employment and non-regular employment, and unifying employment with a license, I think that labor problems in Japanese society can be solved at once.

Is it a kind of male discrimination to say that a woman is a narcissist but feels uncomfortable even though a woman is said to have no problem?

Public education in Japan should be a place to obtain licenses for various occupations. Eliminate the useless and useless contents like memorizing the years of social studies.

The current Japanese society has not changed at all before or during the war. The feminine nationality, with the mother's social dominance and mutual sense of unity, has not changed. It is a great lie that the constitutional Democratic Party and the constitution of the Japanese Democratic Party have completely changed the style of Japanese society since the war.

The Japanese village society naturally allows the bully to rampage with a seemingly magnificent face.

LGBT acceptance in Japan is a cover-up of the failure of the Japanese government's declining birthrate policy.

The same family in Japan and the integration of full-time employees into the company at the company have the same root. The manifestation that Japanese society is a society where unrelated persons are connected by quasi-kin.

Why Japan's manufacturing industry declined
 The yen continued to be strong and the price competitiveness of products was lost.
 Aging management has made flexible management decisions impossible.
 As a result of continuing to outsource work, the contents of the organization became sparse.
 The number of people in the job ice age generation was too small, and the organization stopped turning.
 Depending on government orders, I could no longer develop products on my own.

Japanese society has always been relative-first. Your relatives are of the utmost importance, and you don't care about the others in the red. Abe's residence is also based on this family-first principle.

Feminine attack = sack one person in a group, lynch, ignore, village eight minutes.
Male attack = one to many pinpoint attacks, bombing, physical Tekken sanctions.

The Japanese opposition party is working hard on the criticism of the Western-North American liberal democracy against Abe's official residence, which is a family-first principle based on the Japanese village society.

At the time of joining a Japanese company, both managers and employers,
□ Employers take care of employers for a lifetime
□ Employers are privatized for management.
I think that they will mutually agree and enter into a quasi-related relationship.
The company owner
□ State manager (Emperor clan-official residence)
□ Corporate managers (including founder families)
And so on.

The most formal and standard process of belonging to a company in Japan is the collective recruitment process for new graduates. Only those who have taken this procedure can become full-time employees of the company. Those who didn't step are those who have already graduated and cannot become full-time employees of the company. I have no choice but to live as a non-regular employer. Here is the origin of the employment ice age generation.

In a Japanese company, red relatives go through a formal and standardized process of belonging to a company.

Japanese people who are pleased to be pained by the superiors are genuine masochists. Isn't this common with the feminine character?

The job ice age generation is a huge group of graduates. To convert graduates of the job-aged ice age generation into full-time employees, the same method as that for creating a new housing complex for residents of settlements submerged on the bottom of the lake is used to collect graduates of the same generation at vocational schools. They can be re-graduated and recruited to a newly established company (such as a dedicated subsidiary of a major company).

The movement of the Japanese Prime Minister's Office is easy to understand, given that it is a female caste. The close relatives will only solidify each other's injustice and the responsibility for failure, or willingly ignore external fraud reporters (such as the Mochizuki reporter of the Tokyo Shimbun), ignorantly ignoring them, and behave in a superior female society That's it.

The biggest difficulty with Japanese companies is that they cannot easily join the company if they are already graduated and cannot be assigned from the beginning, or if they resign due to illness or childbirth and leave the affiliation and have a blank period. At the root of the difficulties are the company's belt conveyor system, escalator-type seniority system, and senior junior system.

I think this practice of discrimination against graduated employees is one of the roots of various evils that are eroding Japanese society. Can you change it to something better?

It is effective to solve this difficulty by stopping seniority system and junior junior system from junior high school and habitually calling everyone with “san” equally.

As long as the superiors in the society continue to feel comfortable in mounting to the inferior, discrimination will not disappear and discrimination will continue to occur more frequently. Bullying and discrimination do not go away as long as the superiors continue to be reassured by confirming their superiority by bullying the inferior.

Sowing new beans at Setsubun is wasteful to eat yet, so manufacturers can distribute a lot of old beans for disposal at a much cheaper price.

The Japanese consciousness of constantly trying to beat the superior majority and hitting the inferior minority has led to dissatisfaction with Western Europe, North America and official residences, dispersing hate speech to China and South Korea.

In today's Japan, it seems that Japanese are pleased when reports of their social homogeneity with Western Europe and North America are reported, and their findings about social homogeneity with China and South Korea seem to be ignored or abused. You can see the superiority in Western Europe and North America, the psychological dependence, and the enthusiasm for China and South Korea that overtook themselves economically, and the airlines.

It seems like Twitter is attracting followers as a controversial participant on the topical issues at that time, who can win a dispute with other Twitterers and who can tweet more empathy. There are various issues about left and right wings, feminism, ethnic discrimination, labor issues, school issues, etc.

In Japan, schools are also subject to private servitude by teachers and students, and are a typical village society no different from a company. Which is the case, because the company is looking for permanent employees to be extinguished, and the school is in line with it, or because the school mass-produces the types of people who are going to be exiled, so is the company?

Japanese moms should be careful because Japanese boys become like Abe when they are spoiled and raised.
Abe's existence itself is lame.

It has been criticized that convenience stores enter the children's cafeteria and that wealth is not good for welfare.However, from a poor person like us, a cheap and health-friendly menu restaurant where the child is the main character is a set meal shop. It is very attractive because you can do it in the neighborhood. There may be problems, but welcome to the convenience store for the time being.

I think that it is better to enter the children's cafeteria if you are actually around a co-op. Convenience stores are a company, so it is always the pursuit of profit, so I feel that the food ingredients and employees are wrinkled. In that respect, co-ops are safe. I wonder if we can make a meal space in a co-op store.

The use of emergency birth control pills has been evaded so far, because it invalidates women's pregnancy decision-making authority and destroys women's vested interests. After sex, if men give emergency contraceptives to women, they can have no sex or conception, and women cannot have children on their own.

On the other hand, if women take emergency contraceptives voluntarily, they will not be able to leave traces of rape or sex, even if they have rape or rambling sex, and will be able to eliminate unintended child conception. Women can choose to have or not have children after voluntary sex, and gain sex freedom.

Women can take emergency contraceptives and have the peace of mind that no matter how much sex they have, they can't have children.

A recent trend in Japan is that the politicians, including the Prime Minister, have taken responsibility for the mismanagement over officials and have not stopped themselves. The status of officials has declined significantly.

The main purpose of public education in Japan is to train and select human resources suitable for senior civil servants in the humanities.

Japanese people are excited about the introduction of Western modernism to Japan, but there is a great separation between Westerners of pastoralists and Japan of rice farmers. Actually, I don't think they can do much.

It is better to review and analyze the inner truth of the female society and reveal it to the outside world. How about re-analyzing the content of the upcoming advertisement in the process of doing that? https://t.co/1TUbUntyAZ

By giving occupational licenses in public education, Japanese companies are not trained in human resources, but by assigning external license holders each time, superiority of public education to in-company education As well as the mobility of human resources in Japanese companies.

Many people argue that apartments near the station in the center of Tokyo are the best when buying a condominium, but it's the city's supreme principle and the railway supreme. I guess you won't be able to live in the first place if you hit an earthquake just below the capital, but is it OK?

I think the essence of Prime Minister Abe is, in a nutshell, a “lord”. He is from a political politician, who cares about his relatives, cares very much about his physical condition, demands hesitation around him, and cannot do anything without the help of his servants.

Abe Shinzo returns to Konoe Bunmaro

Anonymous private servant who loves Japanese villagers = Synonymous with "There is no human right. Everything is absorbed by the public."

I think it is a good idea. Isn't it popular in Japan? https://t.co/1FsO8kBlH9

I think that the fact that child abuse is so common in Japanese society in recent years is that the existence of children, both for women and men, has become a hindrance to their social advancement, earning money, and succeeding in the company. I think that is related to the fact that more men and women are willing to have no children.

Doctors and pharmacists who spend a lot of tax on their use. The key to avoiding the use of hospitals and dispensing pharmacies and purchasing over-the-counter drugs is to avoid doctors and pharmacists.

Both the left and right wings in Japan are emotional, dogmatic, and dislike.

Japanese people who are extremely afraid that their traditions will be destroyed, the precedents they have followed for many years. The emperor system, village society, and the typical.

In Japan, becoming a full-time employee of a company (including government offices) is, in itself, the same as becoming a lifetime slave of managers and shareholders, but it is the responsibility of each company to take on social security. If you do not become a full-time employee of a large company, you will not be able to receive decent social security.

Those who have a gene with good memory, a gene with judgment, a gene with leadership, etc., are rich and prone to high rank, and the offspring to which those genes are transmitted become rich and high rank again without the environment. Isn't that easy?

The ability of socially competent people to inherit their ancestral high social status is largely related to being an ancestral competent gene holder. However, the offspring of the incompetent can suddenly become competent gene holders due to mutations, and society needs to treat such suddenly incompetent incompetent individuals.

Or, if the number of stepfathers and stepmothers from divorce and remarriage is increasing in society, the number of cases of child abuse that can be painful against spouses of spouses who are not hereditary children will naturally increase. I think there is a correlation between socialization to allow remarriage and child abuse.

I think that Japanese feminism, which has created a trend of giving priority to work over child-rearing socially, has definitely triggered an increase in child abuse in Japan.

The only prevalence of feminism presuming women suffering under the patriarchal system is that women's society is not elucidated, which may be related to the fact that many women are reluctant to elucidate women's society. By elucidating women's societies, it becomes clear that women dominate society as a whole, and feminism presumes the strength of motherhood.

Japan's current feminism = unable to meet economically good-looking men, becoming hostile to men without being treated by men, becoming unilateral victims, dividing men and women, The idea is that women's rights are expanded and the rights of low-ranking men like nerds are stripped.

Values that divide the person into hard-working and lazy, praise the former, and criticize the latter are all over Japan, which has led to black labor and black club activities at companies and schools and difficulty in taking time off. .

Japanese people should be more aware that diligence and productivity are not always linked, and that pretending to be diligent to gain a positive reputation is reducing productivity.

Establish and promote freedom of labor, not labor obligations. Let's change Japanese society to a society where everyone does not have to work as much as possible. Make sure that you can pursue life work that has spent your entire life in your free time.

Human labor should be done by artificial intelligence and robots equipped with it. Don't give emotions to artificial intelligence. Artificial intelligence does not like doing the work that he or she likes and dislikes.

If humans have to kill livestock for their lives, they should manipulate their genes to make their brains as intelligent as possible. Also, the feelings of livestock should be eliminated or simplified.

The serious problem in Japan today is that managers do not treat employees as humans.
A serious problem in Japan today is that regular employees do not treat non-regular employees as humans.
The serious problem of Japan today is that Japanese people do not treat foreigners as "underdeveloped countries".

Japanese are easy for managers, government officials and shareholders to handle. Just insist from the top and say, "I'm lazy not to work, I'm spoiled," and they will work voluntarily and willingly. He will also find out who doesn't work and accuse him.

I think that this is the most necessary thing for Japanese people today to minimize working hours and secure enough free time for themselves.

It is necessary in Japan today to introduce robotic process automation into society more and more, reduce human working hours, and return the profits gained to the general public to enrich the people.

When I'm sick and sick on the bed, I don't think anyone would be happy to say, "I'm ill, I'm gonna work!" Japanese people like to say "I am ill", right?

The national examinations under the Ministry of Health, Labor and Welfare are only those that require practical experience for some reason. The content of the "work experience" should be dropped into the test questions, but it is not done?

It is necessary for the Japanese people to change from the idea that labor is good and unemployment is evil to the idea that unemployment is good and labor is evil. The Japanese should seriously consider how to get out of hand without working and still get all the necessary results for society.

"Let's turn Japanese society together with the idea of rest and laziness" "Everyone can rely on artificial intelligence and RPA, let them work, and if they have free time, make effective use of each as an essential leisure time for their own realization Let's do it. "

Regarding the results of work and learning, it is not necessary to strive until the score is perfect, and 70 to 80 points should be considered sufficient. Rather than just asking for perfection, feel free to think that society and work should go around for the time being and that the balance should be somewhat positive.

It should be enough for a company or a school to invest a minimum of human effort to ensure that the results work normally. You can rest slowly for the rest of your time or return home from work or school to work on your life. By doing so, the Japanese should be able to regain humanity.

The rewards for work done by artificial intelligence and RPA should be split among all those involved in the job. By doing so, people can get a good deal of money with less work, and they can afford more and be richer.

I think it would be better to say that "the idea of rest and idleness saves Japanese society" instead of the "thought of diligence, enthusiasm, guts, and insomnia" in conventional work.

The school-oriented, "private school-type, private school-type" school that says "It's evil to leave school and not go to school" It has become something.

The main focus of Japanese school club activities is "Let's win the tournament and earn good results by accumulating patience and effort together for the honor of our school".

For the personal honor of seniors in the school (such as the chairman or parental guardian), it is important that lower-ranking teachers, students, and students dedicate their time to work and give honor. It is a school club activity.

General teachers, students, and students who live in Black Club activities are slaves that are used by high school officials. Is it really necessary to do club activities so enthusiastically? Isn't it important that teachers, students, and students mature as human beings by completing club activities early and having their own introspection time?

In the case of Japan, I think that people have a strong sense of employment that they want to work at □□, and a weak sense of employment that they want to work at □□. Also, there is a strong sense that leaving a company is a betrayal of the company. If this is not corrected, the practice of recruiting fresh graduates in Japan at a time will continue to be strong.

Full-time employees of Japanese companies are required to act in unison with others in their families and cannot be alone. The only way to be able to act alone is to quit the company, but if you quit and have a blank career, you will only have irregular employment and suffer from welfare and social security. You have to start a business.

The society where China and Russia and the social secrecy stand out and were called "iron curtains" is a no-kina woman society. Japanese society, which is returned in black as if you requested information disclosure at a government office, is a typical example of a female society. The female society is secretive.

The spirit of reign is more necessary in Japanese society. It is necessary to rebel against seniors in seniority. Otherwise, the organization will age and lose its competitiveness.

Aren't official residences and government offices moving in Japan with victim awareness? I understand Japanese society as a relative, and I try hard to propose administrative measures for my relatives, but I get only a critical response, I am blamed earnestly, I feel depressed as to why I can not understand it I think. They are not aware of their perpetrators.

I think Japanese people believe too much in the contents of textbooks in public education. The left-wing and liberal, and the Western-style democracy learned in school textbooks have been brainwashed to be naturally feasible in Japanese society, and they are also tied to the practices of old Japanese village society that can not be taught at school. Lack of self-awareness.

I think it's a bad habit for women and Japanese to start comparing relatives and calculating deviations with others, because you can't separate yourself from others and yourself.

Unless discrimination against old people by new residents is criminalized, the stagnation and decline of Japanese local communities will continue.

Japan is a real American colony, but it also has the human rights and freedom of expression of individuals, which should be highly appreciated. The moment the United States leaves Japan, Japan will immediately become North Korean.

In other words, the departure of the United States reveals the true nature of the female and village societies that had been hidden in Japanese society until then, peeling off their tusks, immediately losing individual human rights and freedom of expression, and The loss of human rights due to guilt and bullying by the lower class, and the loss of freedom due to the forced integration into the surroundings, will be completed instantly.

In that regard, I think that the people who want to know the official residence frankly and ask questions that are inconvenient for the official residence, Mr. Mochizuki of the Tokyo Shimbun is a sufficient representative of the people.

The archetype of the relationship between superiors and subordinates in Japanese society is the mother-child relationship.

A blood-related society becomes a woman because the sense of unity that the same blood flows is the same as a feminine sensation that values mutual sense of interpersonal relationships.

Japan's locals, who choose their deputies based on their relatives rather than policy, are the biggest cancers in Japan for rooting Western-style democracy.

Japan's social security is a grace given to servants belonging to relatives by influential people (the emperor, Zaibatsu, company owner, landowner ...). Therefore, if you leave the company or try to receive security while you are out of affiliation or enslavement with a powerful person, the level of security you receive immediately will be greatly reduced or accused of receiving security.

Japan's social security is local and not universal. It is a limited thing that you can only receive while you are a relative of a powerful person. I think this is related to the fact that Japan's social security policy was created by domestic servants of the emperor's family, the most powerful people in Japan.

In Japan, company salaries and benefits are part of social security, a grace from company owners to relatives' servants. If social security is a right open to all in Japanese society, welfare recipients should not be beaten, but in fact they have not.

It seems that there are many leftists and liberals who accuse bureaucrats of believing in government offices with the establishment of the Cabinet Office Human Resources Bureau in Japan, but before the Human Resources Bureau was launched, bureaucrats dictated that civil administration was reflected in administration. Remember that you didn't. Well, official residence dictatorship and bureaucratic dictatorship are still dictatorships.

Japanese "scientists" are Western scholars wearing the skins of scientists. Worship of Western Europe and North America is remarkable.

"Work!" For Japanese people = Become a servant of some influential person, and stay servant. In the words of the influential person, Japanese women also use Japanese men.

This is not limited to rural areas. If there are regular employees in Tokyo who have quit their jobs and have a blank job history, do they often have no reemployment? Resignation, career history Blank employment discrimination should be solved somehow. Once you quit, there is no place to re-employ ... Residents living in rural areas, screams in their 20s (Weekly SPA!) Https://t.co/6g4Ait54bl @YahooNewsTopics

This means that Japanese women = powerful people and Japanese men = servants, which leads to the fact that Japanese women monopolize the financial management authority of their homes. Good male discrimination.

The reason why there is no response from anyone writing this is probably because there is an implicit Japanese village society rule that servants should not rebel against influential people who serve themselves.

No matter how much the consumption tax or tax rate in Japan is raised, it will not make any sense if the usage is rough, it is just an enhancement of exploitation. If I use it for corporate tax cuts or high-value weapons from the United States, I think that fiscal consolidation will not progress at all, and some form of emergency will come to Japanese finances.

The infallibility appeal of the Imperial Family act is directly linked to the infallibility appeal of the Abe Residence. Bureaucrats are frantically falsifying official documents and statistics in order to neutralize the actions of Abe's residence later.

In Japan, when an individual tries to do something new, bankers filled with women's anxiety and cowardice refuse to lend and cannot do anything.

The word "hometown" is often used in hometown tax payments, but this "hometown" is the original landscape of the Japanese people, the heart of the heart. Speaking of the spiritual organizer and ruler of "Hometown", "Omuro = Mother" is. "Mother" is the final Supreme Ruler of Japanese society in another aspect than the Emperor.

Japanese people criticize bureaucrats for their belief in government offices, but in companies where they work, aren't they aggressive to their managers and bosses to secure their career advancement and location? If not, there are aspects that you can not do?

The Japanese are now desperate to escape from East Asia and join Western Europe and North America. Such a Europeanism has not yet begun, but it has grown to an even greater extent due to the inferiority that other countries in East Asia have economically overtaken.

The Japanese continually assert that they are members of the West European and North American countries and move according to Western North American values, but in fact they are unknowingly moving according to East Asian values. Japan's public education is guiding the people to move in the same way as the Japanese village society in East Asia, while superficially behaving Western European North American style.

Similarly, Japanese people argue that their society is patriarchal in that women are discriminated against and women's advancement in society is delayed, but in reality women such as mothers and mothers dominate the society. In other words, men are engaged in slave labor and women are managing the performance of men. The real leading role in Japanese society is women.

It is standard Japanese to do anything to ignore human rights, such as hate statements to China and South Korea, in order to match the surrounding Japanese compatriots. It is most important for them to maintain a sense of psychological unity with their surroundings and not to meet with the village.

Humans criticize and attempt to destroy vested interests until they become vested interests.
Once a person becomes a vested interest, he seeks to maintain and expand his vested interest.

Japan's democracy is based on the strong powers of Western Europe and North America.

Taxes are a symbol of exploitation of lower ranks by higher ranks.

In Japan, it is important to become a regular regular employee and to remain a regular regular employee. What a Japanese woman brings out as a condition for marriage with a Japanese man is that the Japanese man is a regular servant of a stable influential person.

Japanese high-ranking bureaucrats are regular high-ranking officials who are very stable.

Employment = becoming an employee.
Entrepreneurship = trying to hire a servant.

I'm likely to receive an idle unit as a member of this ship. I want to see if there is already.

Both Japanese feminists and masculists argue exclusively for Western and North American doctrines, with the intention of not whistle-blowing the secrets of the Japanese village and women's society to which they belong.

The society that forces students to memorize a large amount of correct answers is a female society. The precedent that can ensure security by following it, the society where it is respected to know many rules accurately is a female society.

Standard Japanese try to grasp the weakness of the opponent and pull the opponent's feet. Lack of constructability.

The reason why Japanese companies are not reluctant to hire mid-career graduates because they want to recruit new graduates at all is because they want pure-cultured slaves to be given top priority. This bad habit should be changed. Because it is an impersonal labor practice that cuts down all human life options and works until they can no longer be used in private extinction.

This is very similar to the process of training Islamic militant boy soldiers in pure culture.

Since Japanese society is a type of society that is ridiculous and ridiculed at others' mistakes, fear of being laughed at by others makes it all safe and easy, and the society has fallen into a dominant and naughty doctrine. The fact that Japanese society is invigorating and less likely to innovate is largely related to this.

Japanese bureaucrats (prior to the Cabinet Office Personnel Bureau) and media reporters are in a similar position. That is, they have not received the public's judgment or examination before sitting in that position.

I think it would be useful to be able to play two videos simultaneously on a video site like Youtube. It would be useful to be able to make the second video a comment video while comparing it to the first video. It is convenient to be able to watch on-board video and GPS location information video simultaneously.

The number of female managers in Japanese companies is increasing, but we recognize that this is a mass production of women who have the power of tremendous power that no one can oppose, such as the merger of mother-in-law, sister and bureau. It would be better to keep it.

Feminist marriage = A man's paternal attitude that takes advantage of women's victim consciousness and discrimination consciousness to support and support Femi women's ally, making Femi women psychologically dependent on themselves and romance ~ To use feminism as a means of marriage by letting him be considered a marriage target. How to marry a male feminist.

It's hard because experts in Japanese society always have to give the right answer. Tri-and-error is not very well tolerated.

Psychological counselors in Japan should apply for insurance at the consultation. I think there is a strong correlation between the fact that suicide is common in Japanese society and the lack of psychological counseling. Psychological counseling should be more widespread in Japan.

How to bring your home closer to the Imperial Palace in the heart of Tokyo is one of the most unconscious Japanese people who consider buying real estate.

The word self-responsibility is not used for villagers who belong to solidarity, but for non-villages who stand alone.

When I see women prefer to wear their feet and wear high-heeled shoes and platform shoes that are so difficult to walk, I think they are not interested in space movement using their feet . This is related to the same spatial movement, and I think that it has a great bearing on women being said to be poor at driving cars. Women are the ones who don't move or have a pre-determined gender.

The absorption of Western European North American culture by China, Korea and Japan can be said to be maternal absorption of paternal culture by maternal society.

Japanese public education is designed as the Japanese government's senior bureaucratic candidate selection system.

Japanese people now tend to ignore the discourse that Japan is similar to China, South Korea and North Korea.

The high ease of power change leads to freedom of expression.
Dictatorship is a power that does not change, and freedom of expression is lost.

Japanese bureaucrats are dogs in the official residence. However, it is legitimate for bureaucrats to become dogs in the bureaucracy in that members of the bureaucracy are chosen by civil will and bureaucrats do not reflect their will. When a member of the residence changes, the bureaucracy must immediately become a dog for the new residence.

The Japanese people cannot criticize Abe's official residence, which has been doing too much of a family affair, because they also love their family and the exclusion of strangers.

It can only do the same as China and Korea, and has a high cost structure. This is the main reason for Japan's decline.

A Japanese man is acting under his mother's collar.

A Japanese man is an eternal child of his mother.

The reason why Japanese anime is reincarnated in another world is a European medieval worldview, is that because it is easier to sell the work to the United States and Europe?

It is better for the Agency for Cultural Affairs of Japan to take measures to save the system as soon as possible in preparation for the end of services such as social games and the disappearance of contents. I don't think it's bad that the content of the game that the people of this world were absorbed in doesn't remain in future generations. This is the same for various websites running on the program.

Unless the practice of counting down the departure of a person from their group as a betrayal is eliminated in Japanese society, employment mobility will not be ensured forever in Japanese society. It's the end of life when you can't help but stick to a group you don't want.

To solve the lack of liquidity in Japanese society, we need to create many places to go. It is necessary to remove social restrictions that require you to live where you are, that you have no place to go, and that when you leave, you will be emigrated and it will be difficult for you to return to regular residents.

The government helped the victims of the Great East Japan Earthquake in order to have the victims work and continue to pay taxes. Humanitarian aspects are only apparent.

Japanese athletes are tools for the rise of the country.

In Japan, mothers of the former military and modern livestock still have their mothers who provide their children with influential and powerful people at the time. This is the act of the mother giving the life of her child to influential and powerful people. The idea of taking their children to death for the influential and the powerful is a natural ideology.

There, the performance of the child becomes the performance of the mother. The success of your child is the success of your mother. The mother's child enters the relationship between the influential person, the powerful person and the maternal parent molecule, and dedicates all personality to the influential person and the powerful person.

In this case, the influential people are the emperor, politicians, business owners, shareholders and bureaucrats. Mothers are willing to abuse my child, dedicating themselves to beings that are influential and powerful in their own right, and being willing to sacrifice my child as a means of being powerful and powerful. Ask for it.

Femininity is the enemy of American democracy.

Japanese TV stations should make a program to learn from China and learn from Korea as soon as possible. If left unchecked, Japan will not be able to keep up with the leading China and South Korea.

By the way, I have never cooked rice on my own since I was born.
I've only had to heat packed rice in a microwave.
I do not intend to cook in the future.

Japanese who say that their mother's love is wonderful are brainwashed so that they do not notice the tremendous control of the child's personality by his mother. The rule of a child by a Japanese mother is a choking-like rule with no escape or freedom for the child. It is a kind of brainwashing that is praised for his filial piety.

If you do not devote your entire personality to powerful and powerful people, you will not be able to become a socially powerful or powerful person.

By creating a new company that hires only non-regular employees of the job-aged era of non-regular employees as new permanent employees, and holding a ceremony, they will be able to live as full-time employees in the same environment.

I think that company is a national policy company. Japan's country has forsaken the ice age generation so far, so it should be that good. If the state does, private companies will imitate.

Emergency contraceptives = special medicine for insemination.

Mazakon is the man who favors seniority.

Japanese who pushes seniors and junior relations, can't get away soon ♪
Regardless of age, human relationships do not work well unless they are equal.

In Japanese homes, the mother-in-law and her son (husband for the bride) used to be strong, and the new bride was weak, but the bride rejected living with the mother-in-law as a marriage condition, and as a result, it became popular. The bride (daughter and his mother) became stronger, and the mother-in-law and son (husband's husband) became weaker. The strong point of women has not changed.

Women's claims are less credible than men's claims, because their self-preservation is mixed with their surroundings.

The nature of Japanese companies, such as seniority and lifetime employment, was originally the organizational structure of government agencies, and such governmental structures have weakened the competitiveness of Japanese companies.

Soil culture = farmer's culture

For male feminists, the standing position is a female femi's spot, but she is treated like a prince by a female femi and misunderstands it. The man who wants to be treated like a prince just because it looks good is a male femi.

A female society like Japan is prone to totalitarian and collective dictatorship. A society that values mutual sense of empathy and empathy and tends to eliminate objections is likely to be so.

"Mother" is deified in Japanese society along with the emperor. I feel that my mother has a very strong power in Japanese society. All Japanese are taken into the mother's deep affection and are unable to disagree.

The rape problem is a problem of mismatch between the inviting side and the attracted side.

The inviting side wants only those who like it to come, but the one who doesn't like it actually attracts himself and comes in to try to win. It can be applied not only to gender relationships but also to any human relationships.

Maybe friendships are similar. When a certain person gives out an aura that he wants to get along with, it is easy for people who do not want to be very close to come.

If you look at the table of contents of a Japanese-based sociology book with illustrations of the most recently published sociological glossary, 100% of the scholars come out from Europe and America. Chinese and Korean scholars do not appear at all. Is this a big problem with cultural discrimination?

I think there are many people who feel that it is pleasurable to see Japanese people suffering and suffering. A typical example is that managers board a crowded commuter train or work overtime for a long time to send employees to the company on time.

Human rights in Japanese society = Being able to belong as a relative to a group that treats them like humans.

The Japanese manufacturing industry has lost the competition because it could not differentiate between China and South Korea and its products. In order to catch up, it is not possible to adopt a licensing system, as it is not possible to use the traditional management of senior citizens who pay a salary for young people, or in-house training where only versatile skills can be acquired.

Japanese women can choose their favorite life course in various ways, but Japanese men choose lifelong slave labor. This is male discrimination. Japanese men also need Japanese high-ranking bureaucrats, who are fond of guesswork, are obedient, dignified, ignorant, and feminine with respect to high-ranking people (official residences).

Japanese village society and villagers' kanji notation,

Similarly, "village society" may be better than "group society".
Originally, it is like "unevenness" to indicate the state where people are crowded.

When introducing a system such as a flextime system or telework that makes it easier to work in a Japanese company, not only executives but also flat employees say, "I'm lazy to use the system. If Japan claims to be a member of East Asian countries, the Japanese face will be clouded probably because Japan is isolated in East Asia. China and South Korea are on good terms, and Japan is not a friend. It is the same reason that Japan is aspiring to de-Europe.

The Japanese people seem to desperately conceal that they are members of the Mura society, and that they are women, and that they admit that they are a member of the Mura society, they are a kind of female rice farmer in East Asian countries. You will be admitted.

For the same reason, the book of Japanese sociology is an on-parade of the theory of Western scholars and does not include any theory of Chinese and Korean scholars.

Unless women rely on men for their income sources or overcome the bad habits of hating low-income men by themselves, they will never be able to become independent in terms of income or find a marriage partner.

In Japanese anime for men, there are many things that women do in harmful ways that do not conform to their wishes, but that means that the expected viewers' male resentment against women is large. Men who are not discriminating or discriminating in appearance or income are watching the hentai anime and doing daily ups and downs.

It has been argued that women's discrimination is that women's economic income is lower than men's, but conversely women are men who have to work to earn if they can fish a single male mate who makes a lot of money It is much easier and more comfortable to live than this, and this is male discrimination.

The act of flocking to Japanese favorite parties = feminine.

Japan's cultural administration, which does nothing to allow services to disappear, is negligent.

It has been said that husbands have been ranked higher and wives have been lower in Japanese homes because husbands who have a higher degree of mastery are seniors and married to the husband's house Because I'm lower junior. This is a hierarchical relationship based on a typical senior / junior relationship.

In Japan, marriage at home is advantageous to husbands and disadvantages to wives, and grooming is advantageous to wives and disadvantages to husbands. This will not change as long as Japanese society keeps the same name.

Women, such as mother-in-law and small mother-in-law, are more senior than their husbands and wives in terms of the degree of home-style learning, and have a higher status. The superiority of the husband over the wife is based on the senior-junior relationship, and the ups and downs by the male-female are false correlations.

 Village stance vs. non-village stance
 Power side vs anti-power vs sidelines
I guess we are a non-villain, leftist, and bystander.
Even among the same leftists, there are many villagers who submit to seniors (teachers and seniors) with a seniority affirmation, and in local governments where the leftists take power, the leftists turn to the powers.

Women are always desperate for mounting with each other in relative evaluation. I always compare myself with my surrounding opponents, and here I calculate instantly that I am winning, and that is where my opponent is winning. Desperate to show which is higher. Neither egalitarian nor anything.

The left wing is hitting Abe that he is autocratic with the enactment of the new era, but Abe's choice is based on the legitimacy of the election and the choice of Japanese people. It is no wonder that bureaucrats disobey Abe's official residence because the Cabinet Office's Personnel Affairs Bureau should follow the official residence that reflects public will. If you do, you should first strike all the Japanese people who voted for the LDP.

In the future, the left wing will hit the politicians who induce profits in their narrow relatives (blood and territories) without regard to the turbidity of villagers, especially villagers, who are resident, especially those living in rural areas. You should move like you do.

If the left wing wants to change Japan, it beats the Japanese people of closed and self-righteous villagers who only consider their narrow interests.

The left wing should beat the ethnicity of the Japanese people of the villagers who select such politicians rather than hit the politicians in the official residence, and correct it.

What is needed is to criticize and correct the old-fashioned villagers' constitution of the Japanese people, thereby raising the Japanese population to a level appropriate for a democratic state.

Let the villager Japanese people realize that their democracy process in their Japanese society is not working well is their own closed and self-righteous family interest induction. It is necessary for the entire Japanese society to have a process of setting up a curriculum to remedy the shortcomings for villagers of Japanese people.

In order to rectify the stalled, stagnant and declining Japanese rural areas, it is necessary to fundamentally change the Japanese villagers' social structure that causes them.

The Japanese should be quick to realize that what is causing Japan to decline is the village social constitution in which the Japanese themselves are strongly immersed and self-satisfied. You should also choose a leader with the ability to make that correction.

Japanese villagers are less popular.

Urban residents, such as Tokyo Metropolitan residents who are forced to discriminate against non-regular employees and long working hours, should be more aware that they have a strong democratic constitution. You should consider the process of correcting the villagers' constitution and raising the people's level. Or you should vote for the leader who will correct the villager's constitution.

The biggest cancer in Japanese society is accused by society of trying to enjoy alone. Wasn't modern civilization born out of the spirit of cars and the spirit of "let's enjoy more together?"

Abe is well-suited to the leaders of the less popular Japanese villagers. I hope that we will continue to implement low-level policies to attract neighboring countries.

The reason why the wages of young Japanese people are unduly low is probably due to the wage system of national public servants, in particular the wage system of career bureaucrats, as exemplified by Japanese companies? The wages at a young age are cheap, and high salaries cannot be achieved without extermination for many years.

In this case, the demographics are based on Western Europe and North America, which Japan is an example of. If you profess that you are taking Western Europe and North America as an example, you should go with it.

The rise of late-night anime in Japan is a sign that people in the real world are unable to get married without money or full-time jobs and are looking for and acquiring substitute marriage partners in the virtual world. "XX is my bride" or a typical example. They need social policies to be able to get married.

Often, only boys and girls appear in anime, and the surrogate-groom and surrogate wife are not taken by the same gender of the characters, and the viewer's self can be monopolized. Therefore, there is an advantage that the viewer can view with confidence.

This is a viewer harem, viewer reverse harem, and should be an ideal situation to find a substitute marriage partner. However, viewers began to seek BL and Yuri couplings between characters of the same sex, and the viewers became more passionate than their own surrogate marriage with the characters.

This can be said to be an effect brought about by the fact that the same sex of the same sex does not appear in the animation work, and that there is no point of contact between the viewer and the character of the opposite sex. Let's call it the effect of the absence of heterosexual love.

@Magicarouge I think you're right!

@Magicarouge I think so. According to the values of Western countries where women's status is low, it is no good that there is a lot of housewife-oriented in Japan or it is no good to make a superficial judgment such as saying that women's status is low because the ratio of female managers is low in Japan. I think it is necessary to take a close look at the domination of the son by the mother and the pocket money of the husband.

Japan's feminism has become a place for Japanese women to disseminate powerful victim consciousness. "Woman is weak" "Women are discriminated" ...
The bride's position may be so, but the mother-mother's position is the opposite, isn't it?

Japanese women are increasingly determined that they are the mainstream of society and are on the side of the perpetrators.

The Japanese who constantly lift the UK want or want to become the East British?

In Japan, as in Western Europe and North America, husbands should manage their households and give their wives pocket money.
The practice of giving wives to their wives, as in Japan, is a time-honored practice of discrimination against women, which imposes a burden on wives on household management.

The exclusivity and closedness of Japanese society are of female origin. Evidence that women control the society.

The Japanese village society is moving with the mother-mother's feelings.

Women often argue, "Women are weak and discriminated against," but also argue that "Women are noble, naturally more preferential than men." Normally, nobles are stronger than ordinary people, and they may not hold at the same time. Either is wrong.

Chizuko Ueno is the emperor or Prime Minister of Japan's Femi and Sociology of Japan. Acts and discourses are deified, and no one can go against it. When I see the reaction of the Internet to the congratulatory ceremony of the University of Tokyo entrance ceremony, I feel painful.

Why Japanese women hate Mazakon men? This is because marrying him greatly increases the chance of living with your mother-in-law. Japanese women inevitably have

In order to change Japanese society, officials who are modeled by the Japanese people must take the lead. Today's officials are too much focused on precedents and high-ranking intentions, and are ignorantly ignoring Japanese society.

Mazakon is a Japanese man who emphasizes unity through group actions and synchronization.

The traditional role of a Japanese man is that a Japanese man is a gavel and a Japanese woman is its owner, manager, and maintainer. The social status of a Japanese woman who can master and use the tools for a long time is higher than that of a Japanese man who is just a tool.

The fact that a Japanese woman is a substitute for a Japanese man is a symbol of the Japanese woman's social strength.
In Japan's feminism, if women's rights are expanded in the direction of maternity expansion, men will be well received and will lose male hostility and cooperate with women's advancement in society such as female rights expansion ,I think.

Traditional Japanese society has become a powerful and powerful entity that women embrace and warmly embrace men. "Senfox-san" I thought again when I saw the anime. This is evidence that Japanese women are socially strong. The presence that wraps and spoils is stronger than the one that is wrapped and spoiled.

Chinoko Ueno or Femi people from the U.S. and Europe have no idea about this area at all, right?

This may be because the Femi people of the Western Dewamori system cannot satisfy the strong self-consciousness of self-harming victims if they are traditional Femi discourses toward expanding motherhood. They exclusively sought discourses that affirmed their weakness, which was the idea of Western feminism.

A career-oriented Japanese woman working in the workplace who wants to advance into society should just be a manager and manager of the "work mother god."
All you have to do is make Japanese men psychologically dependent and make them your servants.
This should be the strongest female pattern in feminism in expanding women's rights.

If you are disgusted with the impression that your mother god is getting older, I think it would be nice to say "worker's sister". Your dependable sister looks cool.

Isn't it possible to make grape juice with a certain amount of sugar removed without changing the juice concentration? Wine is good, but if you drink too much alcohol, it will be in the middle.

From “home mother” to “workplace mother”. This is an ideal course for Japanese women to enter the society and workplace.

Putting feminism in Japan as a model for Western vulnerable North American women and ignoring or degrading East Asian women as vulnerable groups puts them in the position of vulnerable people, saying, `` I am poor. This is probably because he wants to immerse himself in the self-pity and self-love of the heroine of tragedy. They are mentally young.

Be careful that your mother has a mother and a mother. If you are a mother, your mother will be your mother-in-law and your subordinate will be treated as a bride, and you will be in hell for your subordinates.
The only thing that dislikes maternal societies is the horrific dictatorship awaits her rulership.

The reason no other woman claims freedom from motherhood is because she wants to be free from this "strict mother rule." If you replace your mother with your mother-in-law and your own wife, you will be able to realize how uncomfortable and uncomfortable the motherhood society is for young, unborn women.

It is unpleasant for men to be able to devise a penalty-based personnel evaluation that pokes the corners of a heavy box in a Japanese company, but this is strict mother rule. If it is a male manager who performs such a personnel evaluation, that male manager is being brought up by a strict mother and becoming a woman.

You may think of your mother as a poisonous parent and replacing yourself with a child. When it comes to domination by a mother, the painful reality awaits its subordinates. There are many people of Japanese strict mother type in Japanese society, which is one of the major causes that makes it difficult for Japanese society to live.

Even if the number of members of the Japanese parliament is increased, the number of Kintaro candy inside the party will only increase, so I feel that it is not meaningful.

Japan should cease regional elections, such as elections from the 1st region, and move to world-wide elections, such as elections from the world. If you select by region, you'll end up with only renowned local celebrities.

I think that the happiness of a Japanese woman is that she can become a mother and mother-in-law and use her own children to control society as she wants.
Not knowing that, there are too many stubborn femis in Japan saying that calling women happy is sexism. It is too narrow to think about things only from a bride's perspective.

Japanese feminism is a play of imitation of the Western patriarchal system.

The Japanese call the royal mansion led by the Imperial Family and the bureaucratic rule system "okami", but at the same time the inn's hostess is also called "okami". A housewife at home is also called a wolf. Doesn't the fact that the ruler and the woman are the same name "wolf" indicate that the ruler of Japanese society is a woman?

Japanese government agencies and companies are ecosystems. Try to arrange anything on your own. Outsourcing and the use of temporary employees are increasing rapidly due to the lack of business margins due to the yen's appreciation.

In Japan, what is often referred to as feminism is that if you bite feminism, you can feel the feeling of Europe and the United States, or you can feel like you have become a member of Western countries.

The reaction of the Japanese to the fire of Notre Dame Cathedral in France suggests that Western worship is like this. Europeanism is amazing.

Since China and the first kind of society are related, it is not necessary to be exiled from the group to which the family members belong for a lifetime if they are recognized as related.
On the other hand, since Japan forms a group with unrelated people, if you join the group and join the group continuously, you will not be able to survive because you will be forced out of the group if you do not keep the other members of the group. This is a defect in Japanese society.

The concept of “entrance,” such as enrollment, joining a company, or joining a company in Japan, is a closed, exclusive, liquid, all-female way of thinking, and is evidence that women are socially strong.

As long as the United States is stationed in Japan, both individualism and liberalism will continue to be accepted by Japanese people, albeit only in terms of super government. For hate liberals who hate villagers, I want the United States to stay in Japan.

Perhaps it is more important to drastically reduce deposits that are too expensive to run for unless you are rich.

Today, Japanese people have given up half of the time to secure enough genetic descendants for economic and time reasons, so they go to LGBT, or instead of idols, anime, games, etc. instead of real living opponents. Feel like a substitute for a character. In order to change the flow, it is necessary to give Japanese people ample time and money.

It is better for Japanese women to be more aware that the delays and stagnations in Japanese society are on a principle that they do not dislike the risk of putting themselves first.

There is a strong sense of non-uniformity that the outside of the community is completely shut out as "others", and unconditional belief in any contact from the family (supposedly)

In addition, it must be asserted that full-time employees must be able to refuse private servitude, such as working overtime for a long time.

A strong Japanese woman is trying to be a victim and a vulnerable, crushing the expression for men who emphasizes the gender differences that they don't like from the very beginning.

In this case, the woman

Eliminating lifetime employment at a company means the collapse of the Japanese-style mura society, which is ideal for one-time living, and is welcome for those who dislike the difficulty of living in the mura society. I hope Japanese society can become a society where you can easily try to change your mind.

I want the seniority rank to disappear as soon as it is a fucking practice that justifies the aging of the elderly.

It is evidence that there is a gender difference that we do not know the opposite sex in love.

Japanese want to be in a group that has a higher relative rating than others around them. To claim gender equality, we need to prove the fundamental homogeneity of the male and female societies, but nobody does. It may be inconvenient because there is evidence against liberals and feminists.

The relationship between Abe's official residence and bureaucrats and officials (absolute obedience of subordinates to their boss, concealment of inside information, deceit, relatives, etc.) is based on the uneven society of governments, government offices, companies, schools, communities, etc.) It is not uncommon to think that Japan is a normal phenomenon, and that Japan is a sign of a kind of uneven society.

The pathology and corruption of Japan (the relatives are not charged with crimes and illegal funds are allowed ...) are common to the pathology and corruption of Japanese society. It is highly likely that this pathology and corruption has occurred not only in the right-wing but also in the left-side liberals. This pathology and decay will follow as long as the Japanese are rice farmers.

In short, not only Abe's residence has the property of corruption, but it can be said that the Japanese society at various levels itself has a built-in corruption constitution. Japanese should be sensitive to the roots of corruption in their own interpersonal relationships, whether or not they are aware of the Mura people.

The University of Tokyo's Department of Sociology can still be seen from the Krone newsletter, as it has always been.

It is a specialty of Japan's mura society and women's society that bully people who are vulnerable in groups. It's serious and unfair, but standard Japanese and women don't change what they don't think.

Now that people have only learned Western-North American style democracy at school, in Japan it was just a simple story, and they did not realize that the reality was the old-fashioned `` government '' absolutism. You may have been angry at the incident. Japanese public education is sinful.

In Japan at the height of Europeanism, discourses that show that Western European North American society and Japanese society are fundamentally heterogeneous and do not assimilate are ignored, and the discourse that Japanese society has or has been assimilated into Western European North American society is supported. You.

Seniority and junior seniority are precedents, and the concept is based on women who emphasize discipline.

Social practices that make it a good idea for Japanese people to enslave themselves to the ones above them, while at the same time making them just to enslave themselves, have a great bearing on the difficulty of living in Japanese society. This is all about seniority, apprenticeship, prime contractor and subcontractor, regular and non-regular employees, and public and subordinates. You should stop as soon as possible.

Permanent affiliation and annihilation of Japanese relatives and private servitude, as well as social absenteeism and aberrant attitudes outside of relatives, are greatly involved in the difficulty of living in Japanese society. If a relative is crushed or expelled from the group, there is not enough social welfare to replace it, and people cannot live immediately.

It is at the bottom of the Japanese mind that working to keep the present beings free and to work constantly has led to overwork of many Japanese people. Naturally, Japanese at the upper levels of society are allowed to play and enjoy a richer life, while Japanese at lower levels are accused of trying to obtain welfare because of their hardship.

The attitude of preferring the relative evaluation of the Japanese, who constantly tries to judge whether the other person is superior or inferior, superior or inferior, has failed to accept the awareness of human equality, and human rights This is a major factor that keeps developing countries.

It is disappointing to the Japanese politicians and officials who turn their eyes away from the reality that Japanese society is a mura society and formally worship the provisions of the Constitution of Japan, which is only a shoddy sword.

Japan does not move according to the constitution of the Imperial Japanese Empire or the constitution of Japan, but moves according to the rules of Japan's uneven society. Everyone is aware of that, but no one publicly points out.

The current state of the Japanese Empire is the Abe Kingdom.

Since the rules of the Nihon-mura society are seriously abusive and backward-moving, a new law of the Nihon-mura society is needed to improve it.

The Japanese do not rebel against Abe's residence because they operate on the same logic as Abe's residence.

Regular employment ⇒ Non-regular employment is easy, but non-regular employment ⇒ Regular employment is difficult. Once you fall into non-regular employment, you can no longer climb. It has become an identity system.

Elucidation of Japan's uneven society leads directly to elucidation of the female society.

In order to fundamentally change Japanese society, you need to adjust the personnel system of career bureaucracy. Bureaucrats, like doctors, should be licensed so that anyone with a license can be anytime and any age. There should be no age limit for hiring and seniority.

Many people scream for overthrowing the Abe administration, but opinion polls show that they are overwhelmingly favored by young people in their 20s, so it won't be easy to beat. It is necessary to clarify the material that persuades young people to shout over the Abe administration.

The need for endless service in Japan for a member of a group is the same for school clubs, companies and government offices. Long-time school activities have fostered people who would not be skeptical of taking black labor in companies and government offices in the future.

In the first place, unless private companies imitate the personnel system of officials (new graduate hiring, seniority rank) in Japan, the employment ice age generation would not be born, so that Japanese society should not fail again in the employment ice age generation. Can only change the personnel system of officials.

The reason why Japanese government officials confidentially conceal and destroy information is probably because they are in a private residence and are very sensitive to their personal security. I'm afraid that disagreement could hurt my HR and get kicked out of the government. In other words, it is also a product of the principle without regard to officials.

Twitter asks the media where it matters. The debate unfolds in the form of quoting the latest articles from the media.

The Imperial Family has enough private property, so we want them to be financially independent, not relying on the tax input of the people. Opposition to tax payments for the life of the Emperor.

I think Japanese people are also residents of the mura society, and democracy and feminism in Western Europe and North America are only super worship and are introduced by worshiping pekopeko.

The fact that Japanese people consider the University of Tokyo as a bureaucracy school at the top in their educational backgrounds is the emergence of bureaucracy in the first place, neglecting the general public and the height of authority.

The Japanese should never stop accusing them of saying "I'll go home again" when someone tries to return home at the company on time, instead of saying "I'm going home even though everyone is still working hard." . Somehow he would accuse him of taking parental leave and shortened working hours if he or she would get it when it comes to raising children. It's an idiot.

Japanese people may have a hard time working overtime for a long time, or say to the manager that "I have more workers because I have insufficient resources. I will go home again." I will try my best. I think that doing so will give managers emotional appreciation.

Primary and higher licences should be available so that the holder of the higher licence can get a higher grade job in salary.

The license should be available for both government and private sector employment. Various types of licenses should be prepared so that anyone can get anytime and at any age with a test system that is open to everyone, such as a car driving license or a national public employment exam.

As long as Japanese people stick to recruiting new graduates and seniority in the company, the emergence of the employment ice age generation and the relapse of social decline will be inevitable.

The Japanese mura society is a mass of relative sectionalism.

Japanese society is a strict mother's society.

In the Japanese mura society, there is nowhere to go immediately after being expelled from the relatives, so all of them have to desperately take the power of the relatives. The same is true for officials who seem to be in government offices and employees who are desperately clinging to poorly performing companies. Is it the same for schoolgirl groups? This bad habit of human rights abuses should be eliminated as soon as possible.

People who use a gavel will be versatile as long as the gavel is at hand, but if they lose the gavel, they will have trouble living immediately. This is the fundamental problem of Japanese housewives.

In the Japanese mura society, as soon as they float out of their relatives, they are bullied and driven out of the village. In order not to float out of the relatives, you have to keep tuning in semi-permanently according to the tuning pressure from the surroundings. Everyone gets enthusiastic in place of the emperor, because if you don't show your enthusiasm to your surroundings, you will float out of your family.

Japanese women do not say that they hold power. The Japanese guys are exaggerating.

The difficulty of living in Japanese society is due to the Japanese women who rule the society. Anyway, a Japanese woman who loves relative evaluation, who wants to care about the world's body and shackle others, is the starting point of Japan's uneven society.

The relocation of manufacturing overseas and hollowing out of the domestic market due to the yen's appreciation are the root causes of the decline of Japanese society. I think this has a lot to do with the deregulation of employment in Japan. Restoring the manufacturing industry is essential for Japan's revival.

In this case, an individual liberal like me cannot be admitted to a Japanese hospital. It was troublesome.

It looks good as a high-ranking bureaucrat or a profession, but there is a boss like an emperor's house or a mansion, and it is almost enslaved to those bosses, so it is not very attractive as a profession. Youtuber is much easier.

Japan, the current disparity society, is not in a state that can be called the Emperor System Community State. First, vested interests in the center of the Emperor's family must release their interests and share them with those who have no interests before they can join the community. If you continue to take responsibility for those who are not doing well financially, the emperor system will eventually collapse.

Cold Japanese society, Japan. The world of the Japanese is very cold except for a few relatives.

I'm with you. We tend to think about increasing our relative's interests, which are related by relatives. Men are discriminated against at risk and face danger directly, but I think men's nature lies in the destruction of the existing order, the establishment of a new world, and the establishment of a dominant system there. I'm also a man, but I'm most excited when I try to take risks and make discoveries that aren't well known.

Japan's uneven society is a totalitarian society.

If you have a junior / senior mindset, it's better to be aware that the word aging will return you immediately.

Start time = time when everyone is already at work
Closing time = time when everyone is already working overtime

Both the left and right wings of Japan want to feel like they belonged to developed countries in Europe and the United States, after they entered Europe and merged with European and American culture on supermarkets.

The fierce bullying of foreign girls forced assimilation into a foreign being in school, and it would have been a village divide when it did not come true. This behavior is in accordance with the rules of Japan's Mura society, and school managers justify Mura social bullying with the attitude that "foreign girls who do not fit into Mura society are worse".

It was the Japanese elementary school girls who bullied foreign girls, and the lack of awareness of human rights in Japanese women's societies, bullying, shadows, and the spread of the village eight-eighth may be more generally known.

Only regular members of family members have human rights in Japan. This case clearly shows that when a stranger tries to formally join a family group, the bullying of a foreign body is awful.

This is a female practice. It is biased toward women. Should be corrected for Japanese men.

Ignore Ueno Chizuru's theory that is inconvenient to me, and if the through-structure is prevalent in Japan's feminism, it's like dismissing, passing through, and letting bureaucrats discard my inconvenient information at Abe Government House. That is no different.

Japan beats China and South Korea when the person in the inferior position beats the person in the superior position, leaving it to inferiority and jealousy. It's a crush on former superiors who can't recognize their inferiority. As long as Japan persists in this pattern, Japan will become increasingly socially inferior.

Japanese women are eager to let Japanese men do housekeeping and childcare, but that would mean that they would like to keep the strap on the wallet of the household and the women's initiative in childcare.
Japanese women have never seen any way to give pocket money from their husbands to their wives, or to say that men take the initiative in raising children and women are better at assisting and working outside.
I think this is male discrimination.

It is not to us what we knew what would happen to the Imperial Family. For those who can't afford to live in front of them, it doesn't matter whether the Emperor survives. Japanese people should hold a demonstration of "having a hard time" as soon as the French people, without being buoyed by the Reiwa Kai.

The response of Japanese to Koreans' swearing and stiffness is similar to the restraint response to other rival factions in high school. Well, it's a woman's response.

It is a big question why Japanese masculism does not hit the female-style Japanese mura society. It seems that Japan's mura society is ignorant even though it has a social structure that suppresses men.

It is the everyday life of the mura people of the Japanese mura society that they spend their days trying to avoid them in a desperate manner while cooling down without knowing when the order of collective bullying, beating, swearing, and ignorance comes around.

While you are hitting and bullying other people together, you do not collectively beat yourself, and the order of bullying does not turn around, so hitting others and bullying others together is bullying yourself. Japan's uneven society has become an ironic structure that will prevent the disease.

Japanese women should be more aware that it is female thinking that creates this type of bullying. Are we not aware that we are the perpetrators?

Japanese mura bullying includes bullying against relatively vulnerable people who have low influence within the faction, and migrants bullying aliens, communal obstacles, and lonely vulnerabilities who cannot be included in any faction. There is.

The distinction between bullying against weak villagers and bullying against immigrants is a comparison between Japanese companies who are bullied by other regular employees who are weaker than regular employees and tampering with regular employees who impose less treatment on non-regular employees. Can be represented by

The low treatment of Japanese companies for the job-aged ice age generation is a good example of bullying by Japanese muras. Non-regular workers are those who were new graduates who could not join any company.

The easiest way to streamline employment is to introduce a vocational license system.

You can hear the voices of Japanese housewives who are about to be driven out of the rugged class from a casual position into a harsh labor market. It is better for the unemployed housewife who monopolizes those powers and eliminates her husband to be wiped out of society, as both husband and wife are involved in child care and household management.

The bureaucrats' conviction of the official residence and the destruction of inconvenient information in the official residence revealed that Japan was a speech-controlled society of the same quality as China. Japan can learn from China.

"Do not show your mother" is one of the important rules of Japanese society.

Japan was a leader in `` direct import of Western European North American culture and launch of small improved products '', but China and Southeast Asia began to use the same pattern and gained competitiveness. At present, they can no longer compete with each other, and they are poor and losing the competition.

To revive Japanese society, Japan needs to break away from a high-cost society. The reason why Japan has become a high-cost society is that there is a lot of waste in society. Wasted money by government offices and government offices, too much commitment by government offices and companies to fostering human resources on their own, round throwing of work from prime contractor to subcontractor and intermediate exploitation.

The factors that make Japanese society a high cost society are:
-Where there is too much human relations in the business
-Where long overtime is commonplace and work efficiency is sacrificed accordingly
 A large number of incompetent elderly people who need to pay large salaries by seniority

 Receiving Amakudari personnel from government offices and parent companies

For Japanese men, his wife is a mother. Ask them to take care of everything around them, have them eat meals, have them give them extra money, take care of their children, and depend on them psychologically.

In Japanese society,
 Senior = mother-in-law, junior = bride
-Boss = mother-in-law, subordinate = bride
 Teacher = mother-in-law, student = bride
In addition, human beings in the mother-in-law's position are regularly engaged in snoring in the bride's position, and it is natural that both the mother-in-law's and mother-in-law's positions assume.
Conclusion
The mother-in-law's bride is inhuman, a violation of human rights and a crime. Never allowed.

The size and size of the eyes of an animation created by a society is proportional to the femininity of the society.

The reason why mid-career recruitment does not progress in Japanese government offices and companies is that mid-career recruiters break the harmonization scheme of "aged = old". Or maybe you don't want mid-career recruits to be dyed in a different organization than the color of their office or company.

In the first place, the division of regular and non-regular employees in Japan is outdated and lacks global competitiveness. It should be changed to licensed and unlicensed like doctors and nurses. When you like it, you can get a job and retire with the same treatment as a regular regular employee, and you do not have to be restricted by the company you work for.

If you compare it to the Air Force, once a Japanese man was a fighter, and a Japanese woman was sharing a role with an aircraft carrier. The problem is that Japanese women have become fighters, and the role of aircraft carriers has disappeared from homes and society. It is necessary to enrich the role of aircraft carriers in society. Carriers are around nurseries, nurses, pharmacists, dietitians, caregivers, and school teachers.

If not only high schools but elementary and junior high schools could establish a telecommunications system, they would no longer be required to attend school, and this would be a remedy for students who find it uncomfortable or would otherwise fail to attend school. Club activities are not mandatory.

Japanese women have come to deny their role as mothers of Japanese men. I think that the introduction of feminism in Western Europe has encouraged women to accumulate careers for outside work, but the real reason behind this may be to avoid the occurrence of marriage. Measures are needed to promote and guarantee separation of mother-in-law.

Basically, the people of the Imperial Family nourish the people of Japan, so the name should be left to the freedom of the people. It's too gazeable from the top, even though it's eating with human money. https://t.co/2xSLjVvznF

Both Google and Facebook are Jewish companies. In the West, criticism of Jews has become taboo. The good news is that Jews have the impression that they are doing whatever they want through IT companies. For example, deleting a Russian account by Facebook.

In Japan, when a child is married and has a child, their children need to be educated, and if they try to use school, the child will become a villager without help, and parents will have to adapt to school villages and local villages. , You have no choice but to act as a villager.

The Japanese should not stop claiming to be a Western democracy, despite the fact that they are villagers.

The difficulty of living in Japanese society is the same as the difficulty of living in female society.

Even though Japanese guys don't love to be embraced by Japanese girls, they say they are their patriarchs. A typical example of a Japanese femi man. When she was embraced by a Japanese woman, she realized she was ruled by a Japanese woman.

In a traffic accident in Otsu, a victim's nursery school was questioned at a press conference, and Japanese society was sullied by the perpetrators and severely hit the victims. This is because there is a notion that the perpetrator = the strong and the victim = the weak, and that it is natural that it is natural to strike the weak and hit the weak hard. Same as school bullying. I think it is bad social practice.

The mainstream in Japan is the idea that doing things that are not caught by the police is good or no problem, and that doing things that are caught by the police is evil.
It is common in Japan that people who are not caught by the police are good to no problem, and those who are caught by the police are evil.
The state power arbitrarily determines the evil of people and things, and it is the Japanese villagers who take this into account.

Isn't there a notion in Japan's uneven society and its underlying female society that the decision of a strong person is good and the shield is evil?

This contrasts with the case of Ikebukuro, where a former high-ranking official was not caught, which caused a traffic accident, and the case of Kobe, where a bus driver was arrested, which caused a traffic accident.

The low wages for childcare workers and welfare professionals are probably due to the fact that the profession can be carried out by traditional housewives. I think it is necessary to reduce or eliminate the presence of full-time housewives to raise the wages of nursery teachers and welfare professionals. https://t.co/PRa2lCbaRs

Nomadism-There are gender differences between the herders and the farmers. The former should be stronger for men and the latter should be stronger for women.
I guess that would mean that liberals would call me sexist.

Japanese sociologists and women's scholars are not aware that the world's areas where women are socially strong are widely distributed in rice farming areas (East Asia, Southeast Asia ...). Even so, they are trying to ignore it arbitrarily because of the priority to introduce Western feminism. This is not good.

In the anime of the fox, the fox is a traditional Japanese mother. Carefully back up and live the hero's life from above. Even if a Japanese man really wants to be like a Sensoku-san, the real Japanese woman has denied her motherhood and is prejudiced to giving priority to her career.

Living with a real mother is called a Mazakon man, and in a real society as denied by Japanese women. Living with a real bride is also truncated, "I'm not your mother." In Japanese society today, there is a desire for a man like a fox, but nothing really exists.

In today's Japan, both Japanese men and Japanese women are required to create a real existence like Japanese fox in Japanese society.

In fact, Japanese women who have come to focus on work careers are also deprived of energy by work and need a high-ranking and mother-like presence in living, backing up and care like a fox However, my mother is often in a remote area and living together is difficult.

Indeed, I would be grateful if you would tell me how the content of the anime Senseki is male discrimination. https://t.co/YsExETqI6T

This is convenient for releasing a Japanese man from control by a Japanese woman.

Sengoku is a symbol of motherhood in Japanese society, and a symbol of mother's domination of Japanese society. As the existence of Mr. Sensoku is disappearing from Japanese society, Japanese society may be changing from accepting the control of mother to accepting the domination by the father of Western Europe and North America North America. Is there not?

However, considering that Japan continues to be an uneven society, as can be seen from the bureaucracy of Abe's official residence, at this point in time, motherhood is still a big social presence in Japanese society. I can say. Is more attention needed to reach a conclusion?

This is not gender discrimination, but discrimination in recruitment or blank work experience. No relationship between men and women. It has also occurred in men of the ice age generation who find employment. I want you to judge social phenomena more calmly without trying to link anything to sex.

The German-speaking proficiency test Meister system is helpful. This may be applied to a white collar.

The Japanese love the gossip, the secrets, and the evils of others.

Individualism and liberalism, which were the basis of Western European modernization, would have succeeded because Western nations were all pastoral nations, and each nation had such a strong nature. Even if this is put into an agricultural nation with strong collective-group or regulatory orientation, it will be superficially adopted but rejected on a base basis.

Japanese sociologists are eager to apply the Western modernization model to Japan and modernize Japan like Western Europe, but they have not been very successful and will not be used in the future.

Such an agro-sociological perspective must be essential for the correct analysis of the cultures of countries around the world. The bad habit of Japanese sociology, which forcibly imports Western theories from pastoral countries into the agricultural nations with completely different social mechanisms, should be corrected immediately.

The first motivation of Japanese liberals is to study Western Europe and North America advanced social theory first and show it to everyone in front of them, and to assert that they are experts in this advanced field. Is it becoming?

Which is faster, character typing with hard keyboard touch typing or flick input with touch panel? I felt that typing on the touch panel was faster because touch typing on a PC unintentionally pressed the wrong key next to it and recovering the error was quite difficult.

She seems to think of the extreme of self-love and self-centeredness, as long as she helps herself or she is good, whatsoever with the rest of her. However, if you put your thoughts on the table, you will hit the bag from around you, so it's safe to say that everyone will help, and everyone is important.

How is the relationship between father and his child compared to this?
My Japanese father is a woman, so she seems to be thinking like her mother.

This is also true of the relationship between mother and her child, and my mother is a child-centered extremist, as long as her child is saved, or as long as her own child is good, the rest of the child does not matter. It's like thinking.

In respect of worshiping human beings as God, Japanese Shinto, Christianity and Islam are fifty steps and one hundred steps. Humans cannot leave the world that humans have created.

From now on, I would like to refer to a company that has an internal uneven society as an uneven society and call it an uneven company. If it's a government office, it's an irregular office
On the other hand, it can also be called company unevenness and government office unevenness. Which is better?

The reality of Japan's uneven society is that of a maternal parent and numerator system, in which the boss of the country or company is the boss and the regular employees are the children, and between the two there is a cup of parent and child. For this reason, it is becoming common for children to think about things from the boss's point of view, and even though they are employers, it is commonplace to think about things from the perspective of management.

Also, the employer as a child tends to think that the boss who is the boss for the social advancement should be pulled up with loyalty and try to strengthen the solidarity between the parent and the molecule. They tend to be weak in solidarity with their bosses and hostile bargaining with their bosses. This is the reason that Japanese unions are weak.

Because the bond between the boss and the boss is strong, the boss tries to move as told by the boss or tries to do everything for the boss as time allows. This is the cause of the child's subordination to the boss, confusion, and long hours of overtime.

Japanese companies have too close a psychological distance between managers and employers. It has to be set farther.

In Japan, if you do not want to be controlled by your opponent, do not accept invitations to dinner from your opponent. It is because the dinner will exchange the cup of the parent molecule between the superior and the inferior. It is also due to dinner that Japanese media and others can no longer speak to Abe Government House. In Japan, careless dining is dangerous.

Does the fact that teachers have the self-employed consciousness means that as they become veterans, they gain their own know-how, more room for self-discretion, and more authority?

I think Japanese people do not want to recognize themselves as villagers. Villagers have a pre-modern and lagging image, and being a villager is a sign of a failure to modernize Western Europe.

A full-time housewife in Japan is born and justified by her husband being a full-time private worker.
If both husbands and wives are full-time private workers, their families will collapse, so one of them needs to be a supporter.

In Japan's uneven society, my grandmother's power is too strong. The grandmother in this case applies to both husband and wife. He has the highest rank in seniority, has his son, daughter, and grandchild under his command, and is worshiped for knowing any precedent, and he can do whatever he wants.

Grandmother's domination of Japanese society, which in a sense is male discrimination. In feminism in Japan, the paternal grandmother-mother-in-law has been called an honorary male because he is on the side of his son, but since the maternal grandmother cannot be labeled, it is a weak point for feminism.

Human resources assessments of government agencies and companies should be done by AI. If you're a living person, you'll get into the situation, pull up your favorite subordinates, and cool down subordinates you don't like, which can lead to bad drums being promoted. With AI, there should be no room for emotions and the assessment should be objective.

Women's farmers are constantly lagging behind men's nomads and pastoralists in fundamental innovation, but copy and refine the cultures created by nomads and pastoralists to perfection. The ability to enhance the quality of the past is far superior to nomads and pastoralists, and will dominate nomads and pastoralists by sweeping the global product market.

Nomadic and pastoral countries are good at innovation, but they can only produce crude output. Therefore, the only way for the world to enjoy high-quality products and services is to move the nomadic and pastoral nations to allow agricultural nations to copy, make small improvements and fine-tune their culture.

This is one of the reasons why China, an agricultural nation, has come on board and is now in a trade war with the power of the pastoral nation that is comparable to the United States.

People who scream loudly that they are victims are social rulers and perpetrators. Japanese women are typical.

A fundamental solution to Japanese discrimination against men requires elucidation and breaking down of Japanese mothers' rights.

Is there an implicit rule in Japanese society that it is no good to touch that my mother has the final power of the society, and that it is no good to disclose that fact?

In order for men and women to find a partner that suits them, they have to have sex with a few different people and judge their compatibility, so I think it is better to recognize sex freedom in both sexes but. Especially women should be relaxed a little more.

On the other hand, why women do not experience sex and hate virgin men as sex partners would be male discrimination?

Why does a man stick to a woman's virginity, chastity, be discrimination against a woman in not allowing her to have sex freedom?

To eliminate long hours of overtime at a Japanese company, a lawsuit or a trial can be filed to win if an employer leaves the company on time and does not work overtime, resulting in a decline in performance.

It is wrong to end a man's life with a false accusation in Japanese society. It is necessary to design a social system that can return to its former social status if it is proved to be false.

The reason Japanese companies are not lively and their business performance deteriorates is that their organizations are aging.
 Management and managers are aging due to seniority, and management is aging.
 Many senior high-paying, non-working seniors are employed.
 I have a lot of elderly flat employees who have lost their motivation after being cut off on the path to promotion.

Remedy
 Rejuvenate managers and managers.
-Demote high-cost senior managers.
 Advance senior managers to advance to managerial positions.

I understand my feelings well, but from an objective point of view, it is natural that Japan is a U.S. nation, the head of the United States is a super government, and it is higher than the emperor w https://t.co/zdtWvHJHIu

Indeed, this is a woman's way of thinking. https://t.co/tmaNi7CZW1

More fundamentally, it would eliminate seniority.

More fundamentally, the precedent would be to stop tradition and overweight. The precedent is that discrimination is favored by the elderly and disadvantaged by the young.

Japan uneven society = bullying society, village bisection society.

As long as you are screaming that you are the victim, you do not need to be responsible. The Japanese woman who uses this is malicious.

Or stop the seniority-based wages.

The origin of various evils is that Japanese society is made of the deduction principle and the negligence principle. If you make any mistakes, you will lose your eyes on the resurrection and will spend your entire life as a loser. This is very problematic in terms of utilizing social human resources.

The Japanese woman who makes Japanese society uneven is a Japanese woman. Japanese women must admit that there is something that makes Japanese society difficult to live.

A Japanese woman desperately wants to belong to a group and try not to be ousted in the village, but the real intention is to protect herself as the cutest. Something is selfish.

Japanese men who are brought up by Japanese women have also become completely female, and have taken on villager-like behavior similar to Japanese women. To be clear, it's creepy and disgusting.

My mother is the core of Japan's uneven society.

In order to change the Japanese mura society, it is necessary to confront the mother who controls the mura society.

When Western Europe and North America decline, the feminism of Japan, which presupposes the existence of patriarchy, will definitely break down. Instead, the idea that the East Asian and Southeast Asian mura society is the ideal of feminism in the world is considered.

Today's Japanese feminists remain daughters and cannot be mothers. Most of the power of Japanese feminists is due to the power of Western Europe and North America, which they theoretically rely on.

When you see Huawei Sumahosle on the 5ch bulletin board, the expression "America" is frequent. I feel very conscious that I can't go back in the US = super government. Japanese people only adhere to democracy and the constitution because the United States is a super government.

The reason why Japanese people desperately imitate Western feminism theory is that of super government. I'm afraid of strong things, so I'm going to follow it. Or maybe because you believe in theory, you can be integrated with the supermarket and your position will be stronger.

Rather than "helping the weak and defeating the strength," "fluttering in the strong and defeating the weak."

Fake is a tradition of female Japanese society. Bureaucrats began to take refuge with politicians because they had human rights in the official residence.
"Can't crush Mr. Kan's face" Long-term administration, spread from government https://t.co/V3x3KKhYV0

In Japanese society, an additional mechanism that reflects the will of the Japanese people and that does not result in excessive dictatorship is necessary.

Although it is written that it is not good for bureaucrats to hold human rights in the official residence, the former bureaucracy did not reflect the will of the public and was the unlimited bureaucracy in pursuit of profit.

If you argue that you can't guess, you'll need to change the structure of the traditional Japanese society, the Japanese mura society, or dispel the power of Japanese women, the source of guesswork.

A harmonious society that does not like the opposition between members is a society where the weak among members have to match the strong. This is exactly what the Japanese mura society is about, where the minority has no choice but to bend its beliefs and match the majority. If you refuse to match, bullying and the village are waiting.

Social strength
 Residents> Migrants are farmers.
 Migrant> Nomadic society is a permanent resident.

This is a human rights issue that has led to forcing the minority to cheat. The traditional harmonious orientation of Japanese society is incompatible with Western European and North American human rights ideas. It is a harmonious Japanese society that behaves as if the majority who took the majority vote in the election has the right to crush the opinion of the minority freely.

Landlord, landlord = senior citizen of Japan, representative of vested interests. I'm eating high-school meals with a lot of unemployed income without working, but nobody criticizes it. If you criticize, you will not be able to lend a rental house, so you will be in trouble. Welfare recipients criticize.

There are a certain number of people who can buy tens of millions of yen expensive tower apartments in central Tokyo, and they are stupid about the large number of rental housing residents who are having trouble with daily housing costs. Social disparities are increasing.

In Japanese society, the tendency to consider laziness or spoilage if you do not arrive at the same physical office as everyone on time is a major factor that hinders the spread of telework. If it's a virtue to endure a rush after commuting, you're not going to improve your labor productivity forever.

The pastoral nation's approach to farming nations is insane. The relationship between the pastoral nation USA and the agricultural nation China is a typical example. When farming nations copy or refine the culture of pastoral nations and overwhelm their products in the product market, the pastoral nations threaten and attack the farming nations with difficulties, Strictly regulate trying to stop selling.

In farming countries, if you do something different from others, you will be beaten as disturbing reconciliation, and if you take a mentally rebellious attitude on the top of the power, you will be hit in the pastoral country strategically against the power side. If you do something that is objectively analyzed as a threat, you will be attacked or beaten.

Men in Japan's mura society, whose mothers continue to rule for life, are female and honorary.

Can't we have the Individual Liberal Party in Japan? Is there a way to make individualism and liberalism compatible with the practices of Japanese mura society?

Japanese powers have historically responded with opposition to those who oppose and rebel against themselves, but because of their psychologically weak and fragile nature of responding to criticism from others, psychological damage is severe when opposed. Maybe they tend to be angry and angry and punish those who oppose themselves severely.

Masculism in Western Europe and North America is based on the theory that the strong male, the patriarch, is vulnerable. Therefore, introducing it to Japanese society, where men are dominated by their mothers and are vulnerable, has no effect.

It is male discrimination that men do not have sex with women unless they provide money or expensive meals.

Club activities are an extension of housewives as well as childcare and nursing care in that school teachers take care of children as advisors. The fact that Japanese teachers are busy with club activities is likely to be closely related to the desire of Japanese women to pursue a career in business rather than housewives.

Unless the separation of mother and child is realized in Japanese society, Japanese society will continue to be an uneven society and a female society.

For social withdrawal or secluded life, I have been doing things like Kamo Nagaaki and Yoshida Kaneyoshi for a long time, and since my work has been highly evaluated historically, I also find that social withdrawal has a positive social significance. I think it is possible enough. Withdrawal and seclusion are never bad.

The Japanese uneven society is created by Japanese women who are noisy in interpersonal relationships.

Despite being desperate for their own relatives, cold domesticism is hard for non-relatives to live in Japanese society. The way Japanese society decides whether to help others by their relatives has led to the social killing of those who do not belong to any relative.

The Kawasaki Street Devil incident can be thought of as the revenge of a socially withdrawn withdrawal man in exchange for his life in Japanese society. The Japanese should not simply blame the withdrawn male who caused the incident, but reflect on the mechanisms of Japanese society that made him hard to live.

In the current state of Japanese society, it is difficult to survive in such a way that activities that force socially incompatible persons to adapt to society are considered to be social good, and if they are still unsuitable, they may be socially killed. Absolutely not. I don't know when I'm on the side of social incompatibility, but I don't think so much.

Japan's senior citizens who are declining their national strength are anti-Japanese.

No matter how much you go to school every day, it is meaningless if you listen to the class in the sky above and do not acquire the learning content. Even if you are not going to school, it is much better if you open textbooks and learning apps in your own room every day and learn the contents properly. It is not good to regard school refusal as evil.

In the first place, schools and societies that leave skirts turned upside down are bad.
There is also a problem for women who think that turning the skirt over will make men less happy.

Kawasaki-dori could not have died alone, probably because he had hatred of Japanese society at the heart of Demon's heart. Perhaps there was a strong desire to die with a large number of social winners involved.

The underlying cause of school refusal and withdrawal is the difficulty of living in Japan's uneven society. In a society where everyone must move as a group and punish those who pull their legs without mercy, the whistleblower is waiting for eight minutes. Today, Japan has no choice but to adjust to the uneven society, otherwise it is condemned as a socially incompatible person.

Japanese people should develop a society that is not treated as a non-conforming person, even if it is a person who is more comfortable to live freely and is different from this uneven society. You should be able to have freedom of school refusal and withdrawal.

Once you know the truth of Japanese society, you can't be a patriot like a left or right. I can only imagine the dry impression that it will finally fall or become a dependent state (whether it is already w).

You cannot live properly in Japanese society unless you become a type of person who does not have oneself and who can just assimilate with the surrounding superiors and who can request it from the surrounding lower people.

You cannot live properly in Japanese society unless you become a person who deserves to be extinguished and private to the superiors and to the privates.

In order to eliminate such unlimited use of Japanese companies and unlimited exploitation of employers, Japanese companies need to be obliged to hire mid-career employees. In this case, it is necessary to oblige those who have a work history blank or have already graduated to be hired regularly. Otherwise, the company will hire only active full-time employees of other companies to change jobs, and regular and irregular status gaps will be fixed.

The attitude of Japanese companies that they can only hire new graduates and that they quit lifelong employment are limited to the fact that the employer has already retired to the company where they first got employed, and when restructured, there is no place to change jobs Create a state that. It would be nice if there was a self-purifying effect in the Japanese mura society, but you can see that there is no despair if you look at the Abe government house that acts arrogantly and the officials who are eager for self-preservation.

I don't think the US or China will do it, so I would like to give Japanese villagers strong punishment that would make them unrecoverable. Otherwise, the Japanese mura society, which flutters the strong and beat the weak, is unlikely to change.

The current trend of Japan's “Japan is amazing!” Is the rise of women who are more attractive than themselves, and women who are losing the attention of the surroundings as before are saying, “I am so attractive. Just look at me! "

There is no concept of human rights in the Japanese society and women's society, where the lower ranks are bullied by the higher ranks, and cannot be learned.

Everyone can criticize, but often no one can provide effective measures. One example is Japan's job-age ice age rescue.

In today's Japan, criticism, which is a prerequisite for taking measures, is regarded as an attack on the superiors, and it is suppressed and difficult to do so, so society will not go on forever.

The time has come to cross-border and multilateral perspectives on women's social dominance and male discrimination in rice farming areas in East Asia and Southeast Asia, including Japan.

Maybe the difference between a ranch-based society and a rice field-based society is linked to the difference between individualism and collectivism. I think this is the difference between Europe, America and Japan.

I think there is no doubt that people who call Japanese society "patternism" are Japanese, European and American homologians.

Synchrony in Japanese society and avoidance of personal responsibility are two sides of the same coin. Synchronizing decisions around you will save you from having to take responsibility.

The psychology of a male feminist is the same as his father, who has a daughter of his age. A woman is worried about whether her daughter has bad insects and tries to protect her.

The psychology of a male feminist trying to protect a woman from sexual offenses is exactly the same as her father trying to protect her daughter from a bad man.

People can express opposite views on one issue, and the freedom of opposition can coexist with each other is the freedom of expression.

There is no freedom of expression unless one can express the opposite opinion.
If one of the opposing parties tries to silence the other, there is no freedom of expression.

 A society where it is necessary to adhere to written contracts and rules exactly, but otherwise there is personal discretion = legalism = Western Europe North America Contracts and rules are simply pre-established, and arbitrary managers are always extinguished Private service, absolute obedience, necessity of society = humanism = Japan so,
Perhaps the authors in this article confuse contract compliance with blunder.

Japan should have more sense of belonging to the rice farming nations.
Rice farming nations are distributed in East and Southeast Asian countries.
The inability of Japan to become a herder regardless of how hard it is to work indicates that despite being subordinate to the United States for 70 years after the war, it has not escaped from an uneven society without human rights and freedom.

The Japanese leader said, "In the previous war, if we fought together with the German and Italian fascist camps, we lost in the UK and the United States. This mistake was not repeated again. Fight and win. " That's why I use British and American models as examples.

Japanese people should be free from brainwashing, which is a Japanese education and an American and American psychology through public education.

The Japanese should be aware of the cold fact that it is mentally impossible for them to enter Europe.
No matter how much the Japanese get into the Western style, Shosho is nothing but a resident of the mura society.

Japanese spirit is not a Japanese monopoly. The Japanese should admit that the rice farming communities in East and Southeast Asia all have a spirit of harmony and are not much different from Japan.
The name of the Chinese express train was Harukago, right?

in Japan
 Self-responsibility = non-villager
 Protected person who does not take self-responsibility = villager
There is a social gap that cannot be exceeded between the two. This situation needs to be corrected.

Pastoral societies do not have the freedom to become farmers. In that sense, there is no freedom in Western Europe and North America in the pastoral society.

Nobody looks as humorous as Japanese villagers who behave in Western European and North American style. There is no fundamental consistency between the clothes and the contents.

It's surprising to see how socially powerful Japanese women are dyed with Western North American style feminism. There is nothing worse than the socially strong who cares for the socially vulnerable.

If the Japanese really want to be the West European style, destroy the Mura society now.

Seeing the genuine villagers in Japan proudly advocating liberal democracy is going to be crazy.

A society in which children's independence is shouted out is a patriarchal society where the power of the father is strong.

Iran is an individualistic society.
Japanese people do not know Iranian surprise "real face" It is a mistake if you think that it is the same as Arabs | Books Review-Toyo Keizai Online https://t.co/9PMIok1VOK #Toyo Keizai Online @Toyokeizai

Woman = Attentive to small details, but not good at global judgment
Men = good at global judgment but too crude
Gender division of labor is effective

I watch TV programs during the day on weekdays, but the content is only for women who are full-time housewives, but not for men. Isn't it a good idea to fix the traditional division of gender roles in Japan? You should also increase programs for men.

If the power of Western Europe and North America weakens, Japan will shed its spirit of science on water and forget it.

Japan is a country of guts and spirits, and science is just borrowing, so it looks desperately studying in Western Europe and North America, but it has never taken root and will never take root.

If China had implemented a reform-open economy early after the war, Japan would not have prospered since the beginning.

Rice farming communities in East and Southeast Asia are hotbeds of male discrimination.
Women are at the helm of society, and men are just labor slaves.
Japanese government offices, regular employees of large corporations and typical private servants, slave labor of absolute obedience to superiors. These hard labors are performed by men and their manager's full-time housewives are relieved.

The reason why Japanese companies are not energetic and the products they make aren't quite as good is probably because the senior management of Japanese companies is being occupied by elderly people. They are older, making decisions slower and more conservative, and winners of internal politics like them are not always competent in management.

As usual, the impressions of female viewers are "I want to work with actor □□." Preventing employers from returning home on time is due to the attentiveness of women around them, the spirit of mutual help and the mess with their bosses, which seems to be unnoticed by female viewers. The overtime problem is deeply rooted.
#I will return at regular time

The atmosphere of the company has deteriorated due to the large number of senior management employees, and the senior employees pay a very high salary for seniority-based wages. The problem is that young people are forced to pay lower wages, and are motivated to change jobs. This does not make a good product.

Gas Behavior and Liquid Behavior Respectively
□ Dry society-wet society

 Nomadic pastoral society-agricultural society
 Western European North American Society-Japanese Village Society
 Male society-female society
Is represented.

Why are Japanese desperate to survive the Japan-US Security Treaty? If the United States leaves Japan, he will have to bow to China, which has become stronger than himself, and fear above all that he will continue to be terribly retributed for his terrible reward. All seeds sown by Japanese. Do it yourself.

Japan has never explicitly defeated China and South Korea since the Meiji era, and Japanese believe that Japan is superior to China and South Korea. (China and South Korea) feels that they will dash against the top player (Japan), and discrimination against China and South Korea will be exaggerated.

Bullying by a mother-in-law is a criminal act in power harassment.

Abe's office is arguing that the issue of the Upper House election will shift from the inconvenient pension problem to the constitutional amendment that is inconvenient for Abe's office. It is exactly a Japanese-American complicity. https://t.co/1QSAznm13l Seniority ranks are widely distributed not only in Japan but also in East Asian and Southeast Asian rice farming communities. It is also distributed outside the Confucian sphere. It is an absolute view of precedent and custom, and a woman's way of thinking. Women are in power in seniority-based societies.

It seems good that Japanese hidden individualists can refer to Iran besides Western Europe and North America.

In pastoral societies, agronomical socialism, totalitarianism, collectivism and entrainment are avoided because they are unacceptable. There is no freedom to accept.

Hard for the strong, hitting the weak = female
Strong and weak hit both men = men

I think it is taboo for Japan's feminism, which is oriented toward post-European entry, to express the existence of mother and mother-in-law as social rulers.

In Western Europe and North America, the patriarchal system has a strong father, and Japan wants to match it.

Pointing out the strength of women in East Asia and Southeast Asia is taboo for Japanese feminism.

It is indispensable for Japanese men to have enough power to resist the rule of mother and mother-in-law in order to improve the status of men in Japanese society, to become patriarchal, and eventually to enter Europe.

If the Japanese want to de-Europe, they will have to increase their father's participation in childcare. And you have to let your father take the initiative in raising children. Otherwise, Japanese society will never be as patriarchal as Western Europe and North America.

It is taboo for Japanese feminism to claim that the rulers of Japanese society are mothers and mother-in-laws.

This may be because the combination of a father and a mother is most easily seen in a Western patriarchal system.

Entering the post-European republic = In order to homogenize with Western Europe and North America, a strong person in Japanese society must be a father. It will be a taboo because it will be against Japan's national policy, because it will not be able to enter Europe.

When women in East Asia and Southeast Asia acknowledge that they are strong, women are weak universally and feminism in Western Europe and North America is universally applied to the world, and Japan is a leading country in the introduction of Western Europe and North America feminism in East Asia and Southeast Asia. It is a taboo because it is against Japan's national policy that it can influence.

Alternatively, it led to the idea that Japan was a member of the rice farming community in East Asia and Southeast Asia, and came to the conclusion that Japan despised that East Asia, Southeast Asia, and Japan were of the same quality and that Japan could not enter the post-European countries. Taboo because it is against national policy.

Some point out that Japan is a heterogeneous society different from Western Europe and North America, and that it is widely distributed in East Asia and Southeast Asia. Taboo because he came to the conclusion that he was a fellow of Japan and was against Japan's national policy to promote de-Asiatic entry into Europe.

Insist on Japan-Mura society, which will pull Japan's national policy of post-European departure into Europe and be treated as a distraction and non-national.

Insisting on gender differences between men and women in Japan would be contrary to the mainstream neoliberal idea in Europe and the United States = "Do not be gender-separated."

Japan = Mura society theory = Rice farming farmers society theory is taboo because it leads to the conclusion that Japan is equal to East Asia and Southeast Asia, which it considers to be inferior, and hurt the proud Japanese pride.

Japanese = villagers who agree with the word “Watama Yosai”.

☆ Hong Kong Democratization Movement and Japanese Reaction

Standard Japanese are very active in supporting the democratization movement in Hong Kong, but that does not mean they understand and support democracy from the bottom of their hearts.
 Because the U.S. and U.S. supermarkets support the democratization movement
 Because the mainland China, where standard Japanese people are opposed, opposes the democratization movement
What is it?
Even though they are so immersed in Abe's dictatorship that they are content with their self-satisfaction, they can only send a dry laugh when they send news that supports the democratic movement to the Japanese media.

☆ Change and adaptation of right and wrong of things

Japan is where the right and wrong of things change according to the policy of each occasion.

Japan is where things change right and wrong depending on the trends of many people around me at that time.

There is a constant need for adaptation as if today's white is tomorrow's black.

☆ With the abolition of the true emperor system

I think that abolition of the emperor system is different from killing the emperor.

The Emperor's family has only to descend from the top of the country and survive as an ordinary house.

Under the republic's regime, the Imperial Family may become Prime Minister as a civilian if able.

The imperial family's family-run nation is now Japan, but the abolition of the emperor system is like having the emperor family step down from family management and become a shareholder.

☆ Problems of disclosure of names of crime victims in Japanese society

Publishing the name of the victim of the Kyoto Animation Arson Murder Case is the worst option. I think the problem lies in the nationality of Japanese women who do not think that they will pry into the victim's privacy, expose them, desperately search for them, and spread and enjoy them as rumors and gossip.

☆ China-Korea Hate and Japanese

It is better for the Japanese to stop the rotten Chinese and Korean hate now, and to analyze why China and South Korea have made a leap and Japan has lost, and how Japan can gain an advantage again.

A Korean-Kate hate who doesn't do it is the same as a whining child's cry.

Japanese TV programs often focus on topics in Japan or the United States and Europe, while topics on China and South Korea are thoroughly ignored or broadcast only on bad topics.

Broadcasting only convenient information to Japan in this way is the same as the announcement of the main office during the war, indicating that the Japanese are mentally weak.

Japanese TV shows should be properly talked about in South Korea.

☆ Reason why Japanese society is declining

Japanese society is declining
 The high currency deprived the economy of competitiveness and destroyed the lucrative manufacturing industry.
 Senior affairs have made company decisions as the seniority system has been maintained.
-The widening disparity between people has led the administration to focus on policies aimed at senior citizens.

 The population of the elderly is extremely large, and the population of young people supporting them is extremely small, making it impossible to support society.
 Society has become depressed, and people who have children are limited to the upper class.

☆ Japanese educational institutions and the need for division of labor

The following are some of the people who would prefer to work separately instead of working together at educational institutions in Japanese society.
 Researcher = person who reveals new unknown facts
 Educator = A person who teaches people who do not know the existing knowledge useful for living
 Expert = someone who knows anything in a particular field

☆ Viscosity of society and Japan

There are a high-viscosity society and a low-viscosity society, and the Japanese society that loves to pull people's feet together is a high-viscosity society.

☆ Classification of bullying in Japanese society

There are the following types of bullying in Japanese schools.
 Bully those who are lower than themselves (bullying the weak)
 Bully those who try to rise above themselves (Jealousy bullying)

 Bully those who try to run away from themselves (bullying led by a group)
 Bullying those who do not want to fit themselves (synchronous pressure bullying)
This continues until the bullied person commits suicide or moves out.

Japan's dominance of the old and hereditary dominates the vitality of Japanese society.

Abe's politics = monster politics.

 I have high pride that I am upstream and do not allow my criticism.
 Efforts to be self-centered and preferential treatment of one's relatives.
 Because I'm rich, I don't think that even if I spread a lot of taxes.
 Embarrass the embarrassing officers of their mistakes and erase everything.

The Japanese village society must be transformed into a society where non-villages have human rights.
There is a need to transform Japanese society into a society that can live well without belonging to a particular village.

☆ Axis of Japanese Social Analysis

Japanese and Japanese society can be classified according to the following analysis axes.

First Analysis Axis: Parent-Muramura Society vs. Anti-Muramura Society
Second analysis axis: Pro-Western Europe North America vs. Anti-Western North America
Third analysis axis: Pro-East Asia (China and South Korea) vs. Anti-East Asia (China and South Korea)

Analysis is like this.

Abe's Residence Right Wing: Parents, Uneven Society in Japan-Parents, Western Europe North America-Anti-East Asia (China and Korea)

Guardian Left: Anti-Muramura Society-Parents, North America in Western Europe-Anti-East Asia (China and Korea)
The analysis axis is likely to increase in addition to this.

Japanese universities have a low quality of humanities education content. This is probably because university faculty members were not properly assessed for their teaching and research abilities and were somehow recruited in the available post space. I didn't do anything in the lectures at the university in Western Europe and North America. Doesn't education in university liberal arts be necessary?

☆ Molester prevention measures for women and touch sensors

In order to prevent female molesters, women wear small terminals with touch sensors that are easy to put on and take off between women's crotch, and when men touch the fingertips on the sensor part of female crotch, they say `` I am a molester '' with loud sound Speech synthesis may be performed. It is good to get the fingerprint of the male finger.

☆ Sex and gender image and temperature

With sex gender image,
 Male = cold
 Woman = On
So when it is applied to cooking,
 Sushi needs to be cold, so if you hold it by a woman, it will become warm in the image
 It is good for a man because it is delicious if made by a woman who is warm like an image of boiling in winter or good
It will be.

☆ Japanese women-only vehicles and middle-aged women

Looking at the Youtube videos of Japanese women-only vehicles, the women on board are only middle-aged women who are unlikely to meet molesters, and do not ride much, such as high school girls, which are their original target.
I think that a middle-aged woman who has lost her sexual appeal after aging is riding a women-only vehicle to make up for her own femininity.

☆ Female upper marriage and male height

Women's tendency to marry upwards and upwards (women tend to marry men who are more economical, social and capable than their own), and women dating men who are taller than themselves However, I feel that there is a great connection with being easy to choose for marriage partner. I suppose that women are aware that it is easier for them to protect themselves in terms of specifications.

I think women tend to prefer seeing the other person's face above their face.

☆ Why not increase the number of female managers?

Men are more reliant on women to take responsibility. "Sacrifice manager" = a male manager who is a female sacrifice in terms of failure responsibility.
Wouldn't it be bad if a manager was a woman because she would be liable and hurt?
There seems to be a fundamental problem in this area where the number of female managers does not increase naturally.

☆ Form an all-industry trade union, eliminate pin-hane dispatch companies and eliminate regular employees!

Independently from each company, all employees who want to join, all industrial unions to which workers join, are newly created in Japan, nurtured as dispatch companies that do not hang up, and if regular employees who are not private employees are eliminated, Japanese labor will be eliminated. Most problems are solved.
By sending union members directly from the union to the company to make it impossible for the dispatching company to pin-hear, while not allowing the union members to belong to the company, it is possible for the company to mentally restrain and exploit union members 24 hours a day in private service. Can be impossible.
